WAGE-HOUR BILL MAY BE REVIVED

SPENDING OLD AGE BENEFITS POT APPROVED

COUNCIL OPPOSES CUT IN LEVIES ON PAYROLLS

Washington, May 4 (AP)—Present methods of handling money collected for federal old age benefits won the approval today of the social security board's advisory council.

In the face of criticism that use of the money to pay current expenses of government was wrong, the council said that present provisions under which the treasury sells U. S. securities to the pension reserve account in exchange for cash do not "involve any misuse of these moneys or endanger" their safety.

Tax Is 2 Percent

The money obtained by the treasury from the reserve account is expended for general governmental purposes.

The council, it was announced by the social security board, is opposed to reduction in the present 2 per cent pay roll tax paid jointly by employers and employes.

The board, appointed about a year ago, numbers among its membership some leading industrial and labor leaders. These include: Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., chairman of the finance committee of U. S. Steel Corporation; Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Works of America (C.I.O.); and John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department of the A. F. of L. The chairman of the council is J. Douglas Brown, of Princeton university.

Writes to Vandenberg

The council expressed its views in a communication to Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), a leading advocate of lower payroll taxes. Vandenberg recently suggested that the council make a preliminary report as a basis of congressional action before adjournment of the present session.

Vandenberg had declared that taxes could be cut if the "needless" program of building up a huge reserve account be scrapped. In the place of the big reserve, he suggested creation of a contingent fund only large enough to pay benefits as they come due. This is called the pay-as-you-go system.

"These pay roll taxes now constitute a major load on commerce," the senator wrote Arthur Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board. Reduction, he declared, "would clearly be a great and essential relief not only to business but also to labor."

Subject "Complex"

The council said it recognized there were other ways of financing the old age insurance system than those in operation, but added that this subject was "so complex" that it was not ready to express final judgment "as to the method of financing which would be most desirable from a social and economic standpoint."

After explaining how the treasury puts its securities in the reserve account and takes out cash, the council said:

"As long as the budget is not balanced, the net result is to re-

Premier Devalues French Franc For War Chest Money

(By The Associated Press)

Stabilization of the French franc, announced last (Wednesday) night by Premier Edouard Daladier, is expected to fix its value somewhere near the present market level of about three cents.

The exact figure is to be announced today. Financial circles were inclined to believe that it would be at about 35 francs to the dollar or 2.86 cents, slightly lower than the existing level.

United States Consulted

In Washington, Secretary Morgenthau announced the United States, Great Britain and France had agreed to maintain their tripartite monetary stabilizing agreement.

The French action, he said, "comes within the spirit" of that accord.

This is the third official depreciation of the franc since the Great war. It reduces the value from the pre-war parity of 19.03 cents to about three cents.

Stabilization, in conjunction with the United States and Great Britain under the tri-partite monetary agreement of 1936, is intended to stimulate trade by restoring confidence but incidentally will give the French government a paper profit of about 25,000,000,000 francs.

Gold Reserve Revalued

This profit will come through revaluation of the French gold reserve which backs the paper currency.

The Bank of France has 55,806,000,000 francs of gold in bars. This gold is carried at the 1936 valuation of 22.96 francs to the dollar. If stabilization is at about 33.33 francs to the dollar—the average value on world markets today—all this gold would represent about 81,000,000,000 francs. The difference of 25,000,000,000 would be the government's profit.

The old pre-war gold franc, valued at 19.03 cents, was devalued June 24, 1928, to 22.52 francs to the dollar. That made it worth 4 United States cents.

RAINS HAMPER WAR IN SPAIN

Loyalists Forced Back East of Teruel By Franco's Army

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish frontier, May 4 (AP)—Government troops retreated slowly in the Mora de Rubielos sector east of Teruel today as the insurgents increased the pressure of their offensive in eastern Spain.

Intermittent rains hampered military operations on both sides, but Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces methodically attacked after each storm.

The fighting centered in the area south of the Pobo mountains, some 20 miles due east of Teruel, where the insurgents are hammering at defenses fronting the town of Mora de Rubielos.

The government tried a counter attack near the village of El Pobo, putting up a fierce struggle for a time but finally falling back to original positions.

A combination of rainy weather and strong government defenses has kept the insurgents from making appreciable gains southward from Alcala de Chisvert in more than a week.

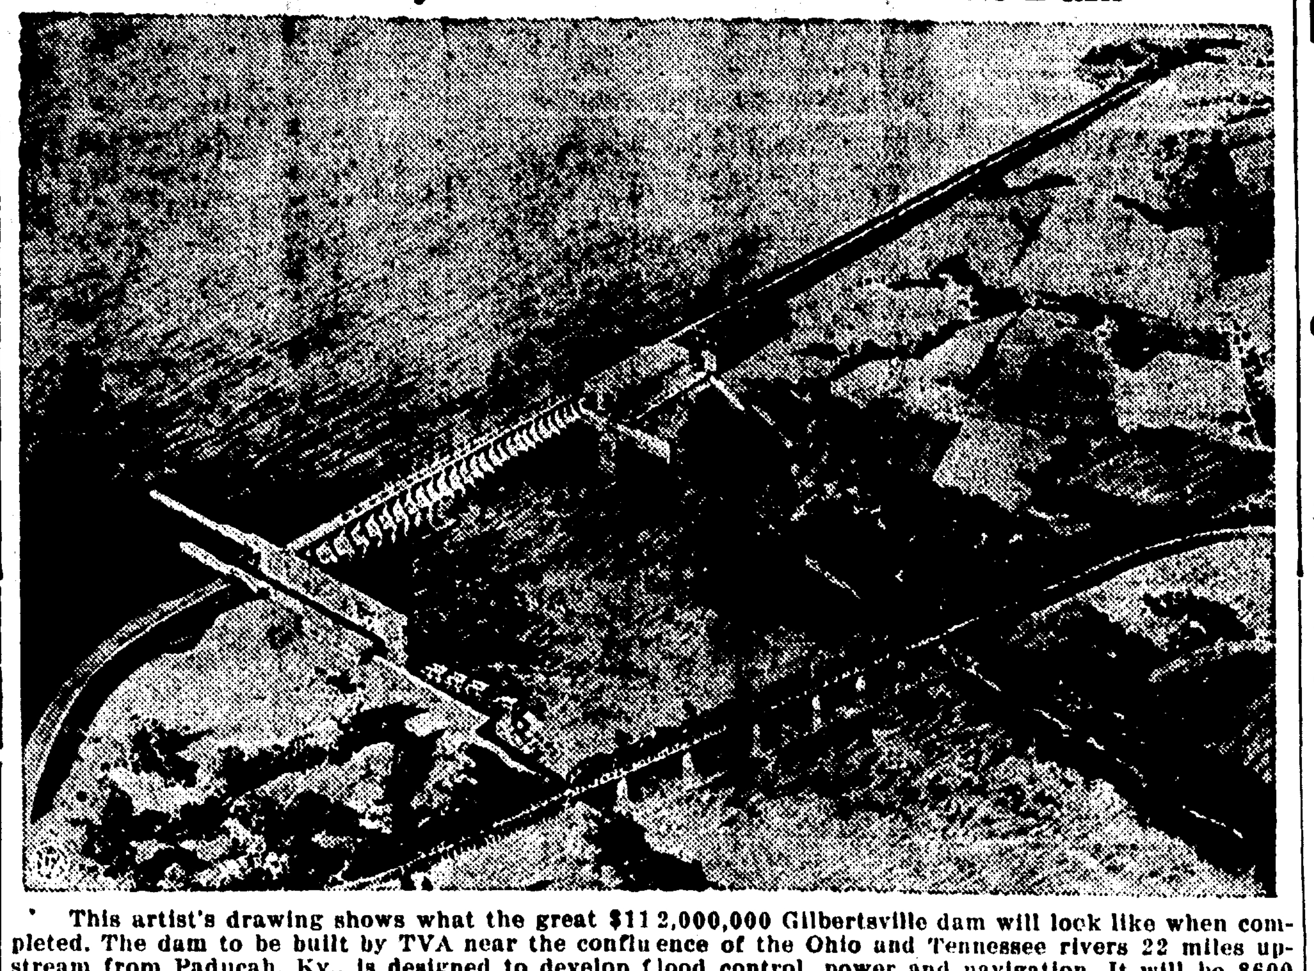
Preliminary Peek at New Gilbertsville Dam



This artist's drawing shows what the great $112,000,000 Gilbertsville dam will look like when completed. The dam to be built by TVA near the confluence of the Ohio and Tennessee rivers 22 miles upstream from Paducah, Ky., is designed to develop flood control, power and navigation. It will be 8600 feet long and 150 feet high at the spillway, and will be able to pass 960,000 cubic feet of water per second, more than twice the volume of flow of the biggest flood on record on the Tennessee river. In the left background of the drawing is part of the 184-mile-long lake to be backed up by the dam. In the foreground is the Illinois Central railroad bridge and at the left the lock by which boats will pass the dam.

TOCCO'S DEATH STORY DOUBTED

Wyandotte Officers See Love Affair Clue in Ambush Shooting

Detroit, May 4 (AP)—Belief that Joe Tocco, gang chieftain of the prohibition area, was fatally wounded by amateurs rather than professional killers was expressed today by Detective Clarence Miller, of the Wyandotte police department.

Tocco was shot Monday night in the rear of a home of a friend in suburban Wyandotte. At the same time Wyandotte officers indicated that they thought the shooting was caused by a love affair rather than in a new outbreak of gangland warfare.

Detective Miller also said evidence had been uncovered that indicated Tocco's deathbed account of his shooting was a falsehood. Before he died yesterday, the former gangland czar told officers he had been fired upon as he left his car. He asserted that he ran between houses and up the rear porch of the house of a friend to escape the bullets of the gunmen.

Detective Lieuts. Roy Pendergrass and William DeLisle, of Detroit, and Detective Sergt. Fred Schwartz, of Wyandotte, said they were convinced the killers had hidden in the alley and ambushed Tocco. The angles at which bullets and shotgun slugs found imbedded in the kitchen and rear of the house supported this contention, the officers said.

Professional gunmen, the officers said, would have stepped up to Tocco and killed him on the spot.

Included in the livestock lost were 35 head of cattle, eight horses and 10 pigs. Machinery and grain also were destroyed, fire department officials estimating the loss at $20,000.

Hitler Feted In Rome; 'Pet Peeves' Discussed

Rome, May 4 (AP)—Adolf Hitler left Rome tonight to see a giant Italian naval display at Naples after telling Benito Mussolini of his vaulting Colonial ambitions.

The visiting Reichsfuehrer departed on the royal train without his host who plans to follow him by plane tomorrow for the demonstration of Italy's sea might.

An enormous crowd milled around the railway station for a glimpse of Hitler and the other Nazi chieftains whose visit called forth new protestations of firm friendship between th Fascist nations.

As a precautionary measure another train preceded Hitler's Royal special out of the station while Mussolini bade his guest farewell until tomorrow.

The problem of colonies, a sore point with the Germans ever since they were stripped of foreign possessions in the World war settlement, was the main subject discussed by the two dictators in their initial talks.

With Hitler the speaker most of the time and his host an interested and sympathetic listener, the leaders of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy sandwiched their intimate conversations in between tightly-crammed events on the state program marking Hitler's visit.

Beyond the admission that Hitler eloquently pleaded the Reich's claims to elbow room in the World and access to raw materials, nothing leaked out concerning the range of their discussions.

They found time for two conferences, totalling two hours, in the midst of a crowded day which included ceremonial visits to the Pantheon, the unknown soldier's tomb and a mighty demonstration of the facility with which young Fascists can handle their war equipment.

Shortly after Mussolini's return from Berlin last fall he said, in a speech delivered in the presence of a German mission, that "it is necessary that a great people like the German people should regain the place which belongs to it and which it once had in the African Sun."

Political sources said the conversations eventually would swing into other World political problems, including the absorption of Austria by Germany and the Italo-British pact.

The conferences will be spread through a week of Fascist-Nazi festivities, during which Hitler will be treated to honors such as Rome never before paid the visiting head of any state.

JESSE H. JONES WARNS BANKERS

General Motors Chief Calls Wagner Act Labor Drawback

Washington, May 4 (AP)—Bankers received a warning from Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the reconstruction finance corporation today that they must be wiser and more energetic in meeting the credit needs of the country if banking is to remain in private hands.

Speaking at a meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Jones said he was "afraid" that agency "or some similar government lending agency" would still be necessary when the RFC's present lending authority expires June 30, 1939.

His address followed a speech by William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, denouncing the Wagner act as "the largest drawback to good industrial relations" and accusing the "industrial union in the present form" of "depending on force in defiance of law."

The national labor relations board, target of vehement criticism at previous sessions of the chamber, "makes no pretense of paying any attention to the employer's side of the case," Knudsen said. The employer, he continued, "can only be heard when he is summoned, and he knows before he goes that there is no record of a single decision where he has had a ghost-of-a-show."

Chinese Claim More Victories; War Tide Turning Against Japs

Shanghai, May 5 (Thursday) (AP)—Chinese today reported continued "rapid progress" in their counter-offensive on the center of the 30-mile Shantung front where the fate of 100,000 Japanese troops daily becomes more uncertain.

In addition to the 12-mile gain previously reported northeast of Taierhchwang, the Chinese asserted they had repulsed a Japanese attack at Nikow, ten miles to the northwest of that city.

They also said a flying column had moved around the Japanese left flank and cut communications between Tanchng and their base at Lini.

Chinese sources estimated 34,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed or wounded in recent days around Tancheng and Pihsien, where the Japanese had made their most serious threat against the vital Lunghai railway.

Confronted with the Chinese claims, a Japanese army spokesman parried with the explanation that "we have no information from the Shantung sector."

To foreign military observers, it is now a puzzling question whether the Japanese attacking power really is spent or whether the invaders are merely recuperating and organizing for a final thrust.

Obviously aware of the latter possibility, the Chinese high command cautiously declared the "really decisive battle" was still to come. They said they expected an epochal Japanese defeat similar to that which humbled the invaders at Taierhchwang a month ago.

Foreign military observers conceded the Japanese were in a precarious position and that if the Chinese drive continued vigorously it might end the threat to the Lunghai railway.

FLORIDA VOTE SHOWS SPLIT IN NEW DEAL

CLEAVAGE MAY BE SERIOUS FACTOR BY 1940

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, May 4. (AP)—The Roosevelt administration took the Florida primary in its stride; but under circumstances illustrating the party discord that has split Democratic ranks repeatedly in this congress.

Florida Democrats turned in an emphatic endorsement for Senator Claude Pepper, running for renomination on an out-and-out record of loyalty to the Roosevelt new deal. At the same time they polled a substantial minority for Pepper's leading opponent, Representative J. Mark Wilcox, frequent foe of Roosevelt policies.

Congress May Speed Up

Wilcox did not run as anti-Roosevelt candidate. His attack on Pepper as a rubber stamp new dealer served, however, to add to the pro and anti-Roosevelt tinge that marked the contest.

If that was the issue in the minds of Florida Democrats who trooped to the polls, their answer was definite. They voted more than 2 to 1 for Pepper as against Wilcox.

Many observers believe the first effects of the Florida test may be felt in connection with the administration's effort to obtain a wage-hour bill vote in the house before adjournment of congress. There is expectation among administration leaders that the Florida result will be reflected in the speed with which signatures are obtained on a petition to bring the bill to the house floor from the balking rules committee. Wavering house Democrats, uncertain as to their attitude in the face of primary contests of their own, are expected to be impressed by what happened in Florida.

President Gains Prestige

There is even a possibility that the Pepper victory may affect the adjournment date should President Roosevelt exert pressure to prolong the session for completion of wage-hour or any other part of his legislative program. That the Florida primaries increased his prestige and influence in marked fashion was the reaction among many observers, though others disputed it.

Before the Florida race clarified into a virtual three-way tussle between Pepper, Wilcox and former Governor Dave Sholtz, there were intimations that administration efforts were aimed at drawing Sholtz out of the fight because his candidacy might split the new deal vote and make a run off primary necessary. When that failed, the administration extended its blessing to Pepper through James Roosevelt, the president's

Jungle Letter Gives New Clue To Fate Of Flier Paul Redfern

New York, May 4 (AP)—Mrs. Gertrude E. Fox, widow of a victim of the ill-starred Waldeck expedition into the South American jungles in search of Paul Redfern, Long-lost American aviator, today received a letter giving new details of Redfern's fate.

The letter was sent from Georgetown, British Guiana, by Theodore J. Waldeck, leader of the expedition, and was postmarked April 27, the day Waldeck and his wife emerged tired and haggerd and suffering from exposure in the jungle.

Mrs. Fox's husband, Dr. Frederick J. Fox wealthy New York dermatologist, died of fever while the party was marooned on Devil's Hole island, far up the Cuyuni river.

"I have found the place where Redfern's plane crashed and definite proof that he is dead," Waldeck's letter said.

"We have in our possession a Gunnybag—a small bag the Indians use in carrying their hunting and fishing 'beanas' (lucky charms), insuring them of a good catch for the day. Upon examining it, we found it was made from the cuff of a man's pants and was machine-stitched.

"Second, we have an arrowhead, the point of which is made from the blade of a knife."

The letter added Waldeck's belief that both the knife-blade and trouser-cuff belonged to Redfern, since the natives in that remote region never gain possession of such products of outer-world civilization.

Redfern disappeared in August 1927, on a non-stop solo flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Brazil.

Interior Of Luxury Liner Lafayette Is Destroyed By Fire

Le Havre, France, May 5 (Thursday) (AP)—Thirty sailors narrowly escaped death early today when a fire, fed by exploding oil tanks, swept the French luxury liner LaFayette leaving her a smouldering hulk.

Officials indicated the vessel would be virtually a total loss.

The skeleton crew, left aboard the LaFayette while she was in a drydock for overhauling, were trapped momentarily by the rapidly spreading flames but finally fought their way forward and escaped on lines cast to them from the dock.

Municipal and French line firemen who rushed aboard the LaFayette at the first alarm were forced to abandon their efforts to save her when tanks of fuel oil exploded.

The fire started when an engineer attempted to light one of the vessel's oil burners. Despite efforts of the firemen, the flames spread quickly to the rear of the ship and, fed by oil which was stored for her diesel engines, soon broke into the passenger quarters.

MURPHY WOOS LABOR'S VOTE

Governmental Spending Program Defended in Campaign Talk

BY T. H. PECK

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 4 (AP)—Governor Murphy resumed his unannounced campaign for renomination tonight with a bid for the labor vote. In an address prepared for delivery at a district rally of Democrats, he reviewed his governmental program and replied to critics of his financial policies.

"The nation's most pressing need," he asserted, "is purchasing power in the hands of the consuming masses. It is not to balance the budget.

"A balanced budget is a fine thing but it will not create a greater demand for goods, nor does an unbalanced budget necessarily mean that we, a nation of vast wealth, are on the verge of financial ruin. The debt burden of the British people is two and one-half times as great as ours—it has been greater than ours for many years—but still Great Britain shows no sign of the approaching disaster which the alarmists pretend to see ahead for America.

"We don't need more factories—we need to get those we now have into full operation, and the way to do that is to put money into the hands of the millions who are now only potential buyers. That is what the president's program will do. That is what we must do if we are to keep our system of private enterprise and to preserve our Democratic institutions unimpaired."

The governor declared that Michigan has "left no stone unturned" to meet the needs of the unemployed and had taken the lead in federal aid recovery projects.

Poles Push Nowicki For Governor's Job

Grand Rapids, (AP)—Announcement that the tenth commune of the Polish National Alliance had launched a movement to make Lieut. Gov. Leo J. Muskegon, Grand Haven, Ludington, Traverse City, Manistee and Kalamazoo have been designated as cities where Nowicki petitions will be circulated, according to Glocheski.

UNIONS USING INFLUENCE TO FORCE A VOTE

DEMOCRATS FROM MICHIGAN BACK MEASURE

Washington, May 4 (AP)—Members of an unofficial steering committee in charge of the wage-hour bill asserted tonight they had "almost 200-pledges to sign a petition forcing the measure to the house floor.

Representative Healey (D-Mass) chairman of the group, said they expected to have the petition signed shortly after it is placed in circulation Friday.

"If the members all keep their promises," he said, "we ought to get it signed right away."

Signatures of 218 members would be required to take the measure from the house rules committee which refused last week by an 8 to 6 vote to send it to the floor.

Will Block Adjournment

Healy said a number of state Democratic delegations were pledged "solidly" to sign the petition. Among them, he listed those from New England, Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan and the Chicago city delegation. The Michigan Democrats announced their intention to sign the petition in a body after a conference with Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Works, C. I. O. affiliate.

Representative Sadowski (D-Mich), chairman of the Michigan group, said the delegation agreed to vote against adjournment "until such time as the wage-hour bill was passed even if they had to stay in Washington all summer."

Organized labor threw its influence behind the campaign to get the necessary signatures.

John L. Lewis, C. I. O. leader, sent every house member a telegram declaring enactment of the legislation at this session was "imperatively necessary." William Green, A. F. of L. president, previously had telegraphed each member.

Washington, May 4 (AP)—The best Michigan political appointment born of the 75th congress dangled today before state Democrats.

Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Democrat, St. Ignace, said creation of a fifth eastern Michigan district federal judgeship was the best job opened in his state by congress.

The bill creating the permanent judgeship has senate approval, was passed by the house yesterday, and is awaiting final senate approval of slight alterations.

Brown Favors Shields

Michigan sources here named five possible candidates for the job. They were:

Edmund C. Shields, Michigan Democratic national committeeman; Frank A. Picard, chairman of the Michigan unemployment compensation commission, Saginaw attorney and mentioned prominently when a fourth judgeship was filled on the same bench four years ago; Howell A. Van Auken, Michigan public utilities commissioner and husband of the state's national Democratic committee woman; Arthur Koscinski, Detroit attorney, and John C. Lehr, former Michigan congressman and the present district attorney.

Custom in Washington political circles provides the administration senator or senators from any state suggest for appointment the person most qualified for a judgeship. In the current instance,

CAPITAL-LABOR PEACE TALK HEARD

HOOVER SEES CHAOS AHEAD; OFFERS CURE

FORMER PRESIDENT BLAMES SLUMP ON NEW DEAL

Oklahoma City, May 5 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, declaring the Roosevelt new deal is heading the nation along "that dangerous road for democracy that led to disaster in Europe," offered tonight a program which he said "would at least be a start on a saner and more cheerful road."

The former president asserted "despite every alibi, this depression is the direct result of governmental actions."

Eleven Steps Listed

These included an end of "spending, inflation and pump-priming," tax revision, a one-third reduction in relief expenditures through decentralization of administration, a drive to balance the national budget, the same rights for employer and employe before the labor board, and a stop to "indiscriminate defamations of business and the creation of class hate."

Mr. Hoover spoke before a "grass roots" convention of Oklahoma Republicans. The address was broadcast nationally.

Still 12 Million Jobless

Discussing his recent trip to Europe, he said 'the torch of liberty has been dashed out by some sort of Fascism" in 14 nations of more than 240,000,000 people—They all undertook new deals under some title, usually, "planned economy," as panaceas to cure economic difficulties.

"Now what road have we been traveling in the United States?" he asked. "We followed a sign marked planned economy, the way to end all depressions. The subtitle was to abundant lift. We at least know now where we have got to. x x x

"The new deal started with a government debt of $21,000,000,000 And today finds itself with a debt either direct or guaranteed of $42,000,000,000. It started with 12,000,000 unemployed; it finds itself after five years with 12,000,000 unemployed."

More Inflation

The former president added that "there should be improvement from this immediate situation no matter what the government does—but it will not be real recovery with full or permanent employment if we continue down this dangerous road."

"But what does the new deal propose to do about this depression of theirs?" he went on. It proposes to travel farther down this dangerous road. More bureaucratic dictation to business, more inflation, more pump-priming, more

Jubilant Chinese Sweep Back Japs In Shantung

Shanghai, May 6 (Friday) (AP)—Chinese, jubilant in hopes of a second major victory on the Shantung front, reported their legions today were continuing to sweep back Japan's front lines.

Thrusting through the center, the Chinese said they were approaching Szechuchen, 18 miles north of Pihsien, in southern Shantung province. Only a week ago Japanese were threatening Pihsien.

On the right wing, Chinese said a flying column had skirted Tancheng and had established itself north of the city, cutting Japanese communications.

Tancheng had marked the southernmost advance of the Japanese toward the Lunghai railway, 15 miles away. Now, Chinese said, it is surrounded and a Chinese army has recaptured Matowchen, a walled town four miles to the northwest.

On the Lini-Tancheng highway, along which the Japanese offensive thundered southward two weeks ago, Chinese asserted they had captured 100 Japanese trucks carrying food and ammunition and had destroyed 20.

Chinese reported more than 2,000 Japanese had been killed within the past two days. Their own losses, however, were believed to be much higher since they were charging against superior artillery.

Neutral observers expressed the view that the situation again was becoming deadlocked. Japanese, breaking a silence of several days, denied the Chinese had taken the offensive. They acknowledged, however, they had no actual accounts of recent Shantung fighting.

Japanese warplanes, working in relays, continued their efforts to block Chinese reinforcements. Ten times yesterday Japanese bombers raided villages south of Tancheng where 10,000 Chinese are billeted.

Despite such attacks, Chinese declared they soon would be able to put 300,000 men into the front lines in an effort to consolidate their gains and would build up virtually endless reserves behind them. Chinese have estimated their total force in Shantung at 800,000 men.

ORDER AGAINST FORD VACATED

Labor Relations Board Wins First Tiff in Court of Appeals

Covington, Ky., May 5. (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board won the right today to vacate its order against the Ford Motor Co. and thus regain jurisdiction of the case for elimination of issues as to validity of its procedure.

By unanimous decision, the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals granted the board's request.

Philip G. Phillips, ninth regional NLRB director, termed the action a "complete victory," but added "the battle is just beginning. We certainly don't expect the Ford counsel to take this lying down."

Almost immediately, Frederick H. Wood, chief Ford counsel, telephoned the court from New York and in a dictated statement urged that it weigh carefully portions of a previous Ford petition seeking to prevent withdrawal of the record.

Court attaches said that withdrawal of the papers which was granted would present a moot question that might govern the supreme court's acceptance of the case, in event of an appeal.

Today's decision in effect returned the case to its status as of Dec. 22, 1937, when the labor board issued the order, simultaneously denying a rehearing of its charges that Ford discharged 29 workers in Michigan plants for asserted union activity.

The board made its move in the light of a U. S. supreme court decision vacating an order of the secretary of agriculture because the appellants had not been given a full hearing.

Ex-Mailman Lived With Animal 13 Years, Mate Only 3

Salem, Mass., May 5 (AP)—Asked by his wife's counsel to choose between her and his German shepherd dog, John F. Spencer, 63-year-old retired letter carrier, today chose the dog.

"The way things stand right now," Spencer testified at a probate court hearing in which Mrs. Spencer sued for separate support, "I'll chose the dog."

"He's a good animal and I like him. I like my wife, too, but in a different way."

Mrs. Spencer, charging cruel and abusive treatment, pleaded that she should not be forced to share her husband's affections with the 13-year-old animal.

Mrs. Spencer, 51, has been married for three years to Spencer, who has owned the animal 13 years.

Installment Sales Drop; More Liberal Policies Advocated

New York, May 5 (AP)—Pointing to a 32 per cent drop in retail installment sales in the first three months of this year compared with 1937, A. W. Zelomek, economist, warned today "over-caution" had been carried so [illegible]

"Any liberalization of installment policies which would stimulate sales would be reflected in general business activity," he asserted, contending expansion in installment sales would be reflected in industries producing durable goods for the consumer. These, he noted, have [illegible] depressed recently, including automobiles and furniture.

EMPLOYES GET SENIORITY PLAN

Detroit Street Railway Bone of Contention Is Removed

Detroit, May 5 (AP)—A system seniority plan for employes of the city-owned Detroit Street Railways, bone of contention in a 32-hour street car strike here April 7 and 8, will be made effective here tomorrow as a result of a state supreme court ruling today.

The high court upheld the system seniority plan, approved in a city referendum but contested by the Motor Coach Operators association.

Fred A. Nolan, general manager of the D. S. R., explained the new plan will mean that street car men may replace coach operators on a seniority basis, and coach operators who have stood at the head of the separate seniority list may be moved far down the preferential list.

Birth Rate Gains In Michigan Over Last Year Record

Lansing, May 5 (AP)—An increase in the state's birth rate from 17.69 in the first quarter of 1937 to 17.80 in the first quarter of this year was reported today by Dr. W. J. V. Deacon, director of records and statistics for the state department of health.

He said there were 213 more births and that deaths of infants under one year of age declined in the past quarter. The total of 1,076 infant deaths this year was 213 less than in the same period last year. There were 84 deaths of mothers from childbirth causes compared with 86 in 1937.

Dr. Deacon reported 1,836 fewer persons died from all causes in the state in the first three months of 1938 compared to last year—a decline of 1.47 deaths per 1,000 of population.

In Chains After Gun Battle

Engineer To Quit After 55 Years On New York Central

Harmon, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—Railroad engineers at the New York Central roundhouse tied down their whistle cords today when old Bob Butterfield brought in the Lake Shore Limited from Albany.

After 55 years with the road, Butterfield announced he was quitting, at 71. Internationally known among railroaders, he piloted the Twentieth Century Limited for 15 years.

His record for the New York-Albany run still stands—143 miles in 142 minutes with a top speed of 108 miles an hour, claimed to be the fastest time by any locomotive on a regular run.

The same trip from New York to Albany took him four days in the blizzard of '88.

ACTION STARTED TO SAVE FALLS

State Seeks to Preserve Scenic Values of Ontonagon River

Lansing, May 5 (AP)—Ready to go to court to restrain the Copper District Power company, of Houghton, from diverting waters from upper peninsula water falls, the state today mapped an innovation in legal proceedings—a suit to determine the public's right to preserve scenic values.

Attorney General Raymond W. Starr said he would file suit in Ingham county circuit court next week, asking an injunction restraining the company from diverting water from the Bond and Agate falls, two famed beauty spots on the middle branch of the Ontonagon river.

Starr said he would attempt to extend the established right of the public to protect fish life to protection of scenic values also.

The company planned to construct a dam to turn water from the middle branch into another tributary on which power dams will be located.

Navy Stages Parade As Il Duce And Hitler Cement Partnership

(By The Associated Press)

Naples, May 5.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini, standing on the bridge of an Italian battleship, exchanged views today that may indicate the future course of their Nazi-Fascist partnership.

They talked aboard the Conte Di Cavour while Italy's massed naval power showed the Fuehrer that Rome, whose ancient galley ships once made all others tremble on the seas, again could bid for dominance on the Meditterranean.

Hitler, a good-weather sailor himself, saw one of the greatest and most powerful fleet of fighting ships ever assembled in Mediterranean waters in full action.

Guns thundered; submarines rose and dove in the beautiful blue waters of Naples Bay; war vessels of all sizes went through daring movements; torpedo boats darted in and out of smoke screen shrouds; a "phantom," crewless ship moved in the fleet guided by radio from another vessel.

But it was the display of intimate comradeship between the two dictators that impressed observers.

Belief spread that Hitler successfully had repeated his assurances that he would forego the German-speaking Italian Tyrol in his relentless march toward inclusion of all Germans in a greater Germany.

It was believed also that the Fuehrer spent some time explaining in detail why he felt forced to annex Austria so swiftly that he had no time to notify his Fascist colleague, who had high stakes in the preservation of that country's independence.

SECOND TEST FACED TODAY BY NEW DEAL

PRESTIGE AT STAKE IN WAGE-HOUR BILL VOTE

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, May 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt's leadership, recently backed by a majority of Florida's Democratic primary voters, is again at stake in the effort beginning formally in the house tomorrow to force a vote on the revised wage-hour bill.

Although it is not the only factor involved, the overwhelming victory of administration-supported Senator Pepper in the Florida contest has had a distinct influence, observers and administration aides believe, in rallying support in the house for wage-hour action at this session. There has been a tendency among hesitating Democrats to read into it evidence of Roosevelt strength with the mass of party voters.

Union Prodding Helps

Wage-hour bill leaders in the house have canvassed the membership and report pledges of more than the necessary 218 signatures on a petition to wrest the bill from the hostile rules committee and send it to the house floor. That petition will become available for signing tomorrow. If there is anything like the rush to sign which the leaders foresee that rush may have its own effect on still hesitating members. If the petition were completed at once it would assure a house vote later in the month.

There is little doubt that the size of Senator Pepper's majority in the Florida senatorial primary impressed house Democrats. Even many who anticipated his ultimate nomination in a run-off with either of his leading opponents had not expected a two-to-one turnout for him. It is obvious that his sweep and his straight-out campaign to make President Roosevelt and his policies the issue provided the final stimulus for bringing the wage-hour contest in the house to a quick conclusion, even though the pounding of both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. labor groups may have exerted far greater relative pressure.

May Start Stampede

Should more than 200 house members act under their reported pledges and hasten to sign the petition, the rush to join them might develop into the stampede predicted by the wage-hour steering committee group. The 218 signatures needed represent a majority of the house. If many more than that were affixed to the petition it might mean house passage of the bill by a margin that would make improbable even a senate filibuster to prevent enactment.

Even if the house passed the bill, however, senate action still would be a factor with which the White House would have to reckon before it could write off the wage-hour item of the president's program for this congress as accomplished. There are already whispers that some senators intend to take their time considering house changes in the legislation if it goes back to the senate, which passed a wage-hour bill last year. Nobody uses the word filibuster, but any die-hard argument at a time when congress is fuming to adjourn for campaigning purposes would take on filibuster shadings and might prevent wage-hour action.

FRANCE EVADES FINANCIAL HOLE

Revalued Franc Pinned to British Pound at 35.80 to Dollar

Paris, May 5 (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier pulled Franse out of the immediate financial hole today by revaluing the French franc and pinning it to the British pound sterling.

The government fixed a lower limit of 179 francs to the pound sterling as the new bottom—equivalent to 35.80 francs to the dollar at the rate of $5 to the pound.

Devaluation—the third since the World War—will give Paper profit of more than 31,208,000,-gold reserves. This step may be delayed for technical reasons.

The government, which Daladier earlier estimated would need 35,000,000,000 france to carry through 1938, however has an obligation of more than 40,000,000,000 francs to the Bank of France.

GETS U. S. SUPPORT

New York, May 5 (AP)—French capital flowed out of New York and London today, back to Paris, reflecting the support given to the Franc following its devaluation by the Daladier government.

The French stabilization control fund sold francs heavily throughout the day to prevent a sharp rise. In New York foreign exchange trading the Franc held mostly around the devalued price of 2.79 cents, in terms of the dollar,, but closed at 2.80 cents.

SPANISH FORCES LOCK IN BATTLE

Loyalists Holding Peak Positions in Path to Mediterranean

Hendaye, France (At The Spanish Frontier), May 5. (AP)—Spanish government and insurgent armies were locked together today in the Canada mountains in a battle for a path to the Mediterranean.

The insurgents struck southeast from the Aliaga sector toward the mountain town of Villarroya De Los Pinares in an effort to crush resistance south of the wedge they already had driven to the sea between Valencia and Barcelona.

Military advices reaching the frontier said the insurgent infantry, preceded by tanks and supported by artillery and warplanes, attacked, but the government was holding its ground in easily defended peak positions.

Villarroya De Los Pinares is nearly 10 miles south of Aliaga and 28 miles in a direct line northeast of the provincial capital of Teruel.

Direct Relief Load Declines 10 Percent

Lansing, May 5. (AP)—George F. Granger, acting state emergency relief administrator, reported today that the number of employables on direct relief had declined better than 10 per cent from April 15 to April 29.

He said the employable load decreased from 59,898 to 45,523 in that period. The latter figure represents 35.7 per cent of the total relief load.

Granger reported 148,014 persons formerly on direct relief have been transferred to WPA projects, an increase of 10,000 since April 15. He declared 73 per cent of the state's total load of 127,494 came from the 12 major industrial counties in Michigan, that more than three of every seven relief cases came from Wayne county and that one of every two employable cases were in that county.

SEEKS REELECTION

CHIEF OF UAW RAPS GENERAL MOTORS HEAD

TEAMWORK URGED IN INDUSTRY BY AFL

Washington, May 5 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States urged repeal of the Wagner labor relations act today and asked that "management and labor work together without recourse to the federal government."

These resolutions were passed by the private organization of business men toward the close of an annual convention notable for speeches asserting a need for cooperation between employer and employe. During the convention delegates' attention was attracted by an American Federation of Labor manifesto, couched in conciliatory terms, and calling for capital-labor teamwork.

CIO Still Hostile

Whatever the effect of this pronouncement, the relations between the C. I. O. and many of the delegates to the chamber convention continued hostile. A speech by William Knudsen, president of General Motors, attacking the National Labor Relations board and the C. I. O., drew a reply today from Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.), who accused the motor manufacturer of a "sudden apparent love for craft unions" motivated by a knowledge of "the efficiency and effectiveness with which the industrial union operates."

The C. I. O. goes in for industrial unions taking in all workers in a plant or industry, while the A. F. of L. contains many unions organized along craft lines.

Before the chamber adjourned tonight it re-elected George H. Davis, Kansas City grain man, to be its president.

Labor Board Unfair

Speeches accusing the labor board of partiality culminated in the passage of the resolution advocating repeal of the Wagner act or, that failing, its amendment to protect workers against "interference with any of their rights x x x whether the interference comes from employers, employes or any one else."

This was in line with many employers' complains that while the act forbids employer coercion, or interference with unionization, it does not prevent coercion by unions. The resolution also called for amendments so employers will be "afforded protection."

A resolution on "management and labor," after saying that in other countries" the encroachment of government in the field of business has led to the partial, and in some cases, complete liquidation of the rights and authority of management and labor," said:

"We believe that management and labor should work together without recourse to the federal government on those things of common concern which fairly conserve their respective interests, promote industrial peace and stimulate employment, on which the prosperity of the country depends."

Among other resolutions approved one said "government measures already taken" affecting business "should be re-examined" in order that "unnecessary regulations may be removed and additional measures taken directed to recovery." Such measures, it added, "should free initiative in enterprises promoting employment."

LaFollette's Party Is Ignored By AFL

Washington, May 5. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor decided today to ignore the LaFollette third party movement, for the time being at least.

After the Federation's policy-making executive council concluded its spring meeting, President William Green said "we felt there was nothing to do or consider" about the LaFollette brothers' plans, but "that we would simply have to await developments."

So far, John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chairman, has refused to comment on the LaFollette movement.

Isle Royale Lands Opened To Settlers

Washington, May 5 (AP)—The senate passed today a house bill making available for development all lands within the boundaries of the Isle Royale national park in Michigan.

DERBY TO HAVE 11 TOPNOTCHERS

Sande - Trained Entrant, The Chief, Favored in Betting, 5-2

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

Louisville, Ky., May 4. (AP)—Eleven three year olds, forming the smallest but the best balanced field in many years, are expected to fight it out in the 64th running of the $50,000 Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday.

Not since Broker's Tip surprised in 1933 has America's blue ribbon three year old race been so wide open. One need go all the way back to 1922, the year Morvich scored, to find a field of less than 12. That year only ten faced the barrier.

But what Saturday's field lacks in size, it makes up in quality. No less than seven of the probable starters figure to be 10 to 1 or less in the mutuels with another slightly more and only three rank outsiders.

The big six in order of their rating are: Maxwell Howard's combination of Stagehand and The Chief: William Woodward's Fighting Fox; Warren Wright's Bull Lea; Hal Price Headley's Menow; Herbert M. Wolf's Lawrin; and William Du Pont, Jr's Dauber.

Can't Wait, Myron Selznick's hope, is next in line followed by Elooto owned by William O'Toole, former Chicago alderman, Bert Friend's Co-Sport and Mountain Ridge, all that is left of what once was a powerful entry from Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way stable.

Despite Stagehand's questionable race back of his stablemate and Lawrin in yesterday's trial stakes, the Earl Sande trained entry is expected to parade postward as the 5 to 2 choice.

Jockeys All Assigned

While lauding The Chief's record equalling performance of 1:35 4-5 for the mile, some of the experts weakened on Stagehand, which was beaten by five lengths. Others, however, saw in his race a good conditioner for the big test.

Sande himself admitted his star tired but said he firmly believes he'll come back to the form he showed in beating Seabiscuit by a nose in the Santa Anita handicap. Jack Westrope, Stagehand's jockey, was just as confident.

"He tired a little in the stretch," said Westrope, "but I never abused him, hitting him only twice with the whip."

Fighting Fox, on the strength of his fine performance in the Wood Memorial, figures to be the second choice at 3 to 1 and Bull Lea, creator of two track records at Keeneland, heavily played at 4 to 1.

Today's developments also saw jockeys assigned to all the horses. Headley obtained Raymond (Sonny) Workman to pilot Menow; Wolf retained Eddie Arcaro to pilot Lawrin when Mrs. Payne Whitney's Redbreast was withdrawn and Taylor announced he was bringing Lester Balaski on from New York to ride Can't Wait.

Sande will put Westrope on Stagehand and Georgie Woolf on The Chief, Irving Anderson will guide Bull Lea; Jimmy Stout, Fighting Fox; Maurice Peters, Dauber; Alfred Robertson, Mountain Ridge; Bobby Dotter, Co-Sport, and Fred Faust, Elooto.

Post time for the derby is expected to be about 4:30 p. m. (Central Standard Time).

Dauber Is A Dark Horse In Louisville, But He Must Stay Close To Fast Pace

Dauber

Another of the series on Kentucky Derby candidates.

BY MAX RIDDLE

Louisville—Behind the more highly publicized Kentucky Derby candidates, completely overshadowed, there lurks a horse which might well be the winner at Churchill Downs, May 7. His name is Dauber. He looks like a router which could win plenty of races if he could keep close enough to the early pace to catch the tiring leaders.

Dauber, a son of Pennant, from the mare, Ship of War, she by Man o' War, was bred by C. V. Whitney.

When the Whitney horses in training were sold at public auction in November, Dauber brought the top price of $29,000. William Du Pont, Jr., of the Foxcatcher Farms, whose Rosemont and Fairy Hill won the 1937 Santa Anita Handicap and Derby, respectively, bought him.

Dauber is a mud runner. This, coupled with his known class, makes him one of the more feared Derby candidates. Owners of suspected sprinters get the jitters every time they hear the name of a horse like Dauber mentioned.

If the only base one used were his performance in the Santa Anita Derby, one would have to accord Dauber a real chance in Louisville. He ran a grand race in the stretch . . . had every horse beaten but Stagehand. And Stagehand had no easy time with him.

Dauber came to the races in early spring of last year. He won his first race, beating The Chief—the second ace in Earl Sande's Kentucky Derby hand—in the mud.

He was immediately tabbed as a great 2-year-old. He hardly lived up to that, since he was only able to win three races, garner two seconds and four thirds in 15 starts. He did not win a stake, and earned the moderate amount of $5955.

Dauber won a tune-up for his Kentucky Derby effort in Maryland. While the race was only a mile and 70 yards, Dauber gave every indication that he was the most dangerous kind of a Derby threat. He came from last place to beat Blind Eagle, Bunny Baby, etc., on a muddy track.

The mile and a quarter will favor Dauber and be a hardship on such as Menow. The question is whether he can stay close enough to the burning pace which such as Menow and Bull Lea can set to match the final moves of horses such as Fighting Fox and Stagehand.

If he can, Dauber stands a far better chance than most of the others.

ESCAPERS BACK IN PRISON CELL

Weary Quartet Returned to Indiana; Free Less Than 36 Hours

Campaign, Ill., May 4 (AP)—Four convicts who enjoyed less than 36 hours of liberty after escaping in a freight car Monday were returned tonight to the Indiana State prison at Michigan City.

Deputy Warden B. C. Ferguson, prison guards and Indiana state policemen escorted the quartet who, hungry and weary, surrendered meekly last night to 14 officers who surrounded them near Mahomet, Ill.

The four, Frank Mears, 34; Ernest Powell, 35; Ernest Grigsby, 38, and Wilbur Dawson, 36, were all serving long terms for robbery. Mears is a brother-in-law of Fred Steffler who was seized Monday during a gun battle at a hideout 25 miles from Danville, Ill., where Federal Agent W. R. Ramsey Jr., and Joe Earlywine, Indiana ex-convict and bank robbery suspect, were slain.

Federal agents who questioned the four in the county jail here said they denied they were headed for the Danville hideout and that Mears said he did not know Steffler was in the vicinity.

Lincoln To Speak

Ironwood.—Dr. Julius Lincoln of Chicago, recording secretary of the Swedish American Tercentenary association, will be invited to speak at the Gogebic range celebration of the three-hundredth anniversary of the landing of the first Swedish settlers in Delaware, to be held Sunday, June 19, it was decided at the organization meeting of the central committee, at the Elks club here.

"Dr. Lincoln is an outstanding leader in the Augustana Synod and perhaps the most eloquent orator among Americans of Swedish extraction in the United States," said a member of the committee, adding, "It is indeed a special privilege to have such a man come here to deliver the memorial address and it augurs well for the success of this undertaking in which all Scandinavians and Finnish people should take part. It was definitely stated that Dr. Lincoln will accept this invitation."

Treado In Race

Marquette.—Howard C. Treado of Marquette, became the second man to enter the race for sheriff of Marquette county on the Republican ticket, his announcement that he will seek the nomination following by three days that of Russell Rogers, of Negaunee, who threw his hat in the ring Saturday.

Runnerup in the 1936 primary elections, Treado trailed Rudolph P. Franson by only a few hundred votes, carrying all of Marquette, with the exception of the first ward, running strong in the larger townships and holding his own in Negaunee.

Works For Disney

Marquette.—The many Marquette folk who have heard the old Calumet and Hecla band and who saw and enjoyed the motion picture "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" shown here will like to know that an upper peninsula man had an important part in the production. The following from the Calumet paper is self-explanatory:

"Paul Smith, composer of the musical score for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," the feature Walt Disney movie, was born in Calumet, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, who resided in the building now occupied by the American Legion on Rockland street.

"Joseph Smith, a talented musician, was a member of the C. & H. band while employed in the C. & H. mine office. Paul and a younger brother both are affiliated with the Walt Disney studios."

FLORIDA VOTE SHOWS SPLIT IN NEW DEAL

Protest Vote Heavy

Whatever the actual forces behind Pepper's sweep, his success stands on the face of the record as a demonstration of Roosevelt influence. It might encourage the administration to even more active intervention in party primary fights elsewhere; just as it might lead to greater pressure by the White House on congress to round out the administration's legislative program before it shuts down for the campaign.

On the other side of the Florida picture stands the unquestionable fact that the Wilcox candidacy gave anti-Roosevelt and anti-new deal party sentiment a chance to rally and express itself. The actual size of the Wilcox vote rather than its ratio to the vote cast for Pepper alone or Pepper and Sholtz is an important factor, in observer judgment, that indicates a deep-rooted party cleavage which may grow to serious proportions by 1940.

(By The Associated Press)

Victories by administration supporters in Tuesday's primary elections brought the assertion Wednesday from Democratic Chairman James A. Farley that President Roosevelt's leadership and policies had been endorsed.

This interpretation of the outcome of primary contests in four states was disputed, however, by Republicans and such conservative Democrats as Senators Copeland of New York and King of Utah. They said they saw no national significance in the results.

Farley hailed as "signal victory" the renomination in Florida of Senator Pepper. Virtually complete returns gave Pepper, who campaigned on a "support Roosevelt" platform, 224,535 votes to 104,292 for Representative J. Mark Wilcox, a frequent critic of the new deal, who ran second in the five-man race.

All incumbent congressmen in Florida, Alabama, and Indiana who sought renomination were successful.

Two Neck-and-Neck

It appeared the official returns might be required to determine the outcome of the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor of Alabama.

Frank Dixon, Birmingham attorney, led a field of five candidates, but a run off primary was indicated between him and either Chauncey Sparks or R. J. Goode who were running neck-and-neck in the unofficial tabulation.

South Dakota's Tom Berry, staging a political comeback after his defeat two years ago for a third term as governor, captured the Democratic nomination to the senate, defeating Representative Hildebrandt and Senator Herbert Hitchcock. J. Chandler Gurney, a Yanktown business man, won the Republican nomination.

Emil Loriks, a farm leader, won the Democratic nomination to the house seat now held by Hildebrandt. Karl Mundt, nominee in 1936, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Representative Francis Case was unopposed for the Republican nomination in the second South Dakota district. Theodore B. Werner, former congressman, defeated by Case in 1936, gained the Democratic nomination.

Irish And Michigan Resume Relations

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 4 (AP)—A tennis match between Michigan and Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., tomorrow will mark renewal of athletic relations between the two schools after a 14-year hiatus.

The two institutions have not met in any sport since 1924. That year the Wolverines defeated the Irish in three of four contests in hockey, tennis and baseball.

UNIONS USING INFLUENCE TO FORCE A VOTE

Won't Be Republican

Candidates for the judgeship need not be confined to the eastern district, although to pick a candidate from the district would be to follow custom. Brown himself, following house passage of the bill, said legally an appointment might be made from "anywhere in the state or even the United States". He left no doubt a Democrat would be appointed.

"I will make no recommendation until every reliable source has been consulted", Brown said. "By that I mean from the Michigan Bar to every outspeaking Michigan attorney."

The mention of Van Auken as an outstanding candidate for the job, prior to its creation, recently drew from Brown a statement he is uncommitted. Michigan Democrats recalled Picard had contributed to their 1934 campaign by opposing Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, Grand Rapids, and had not had a patronage reward.

Passage of the omnibus bill's provision had the approval of Representative Earl C. Michener, Republican, Adrian, who had fought creation of the judgeship in a previous session.

"Prior to this session the proposal for a new judgeship never had approval of the national judicial conference," Michener said. "I'm opposed to political judgeships. But the conference now approves the idea, and as a member of that congressional committee which laid the groundwork for the conference, I back its judgement."

As the omnibus judgeship bill was fought on the floor, Michener opposed inclusion of judgeships not approved by the conference.

Bantam Champion Escobar Is Given Beating By Litfin

New York, May 4 (AP)—World Bantamweight Champion Sixto Escobar invaded the featherweight ranks tonight and was given a sound ten round beating by Nat Litfin, ex-Pittsburgh pounder now fighting out of New York's Bronx. Both weighed 122.

Litfin left-jabbed the champion completely off balance most of the way, and, although he was cut and bleeding at the finish, he held a narrow margin. A crowd of 2,639 paid $5,614.77 to see the show at the Hippodrome, and cheered the verdict.

Escobar, thus, dropped his second straight decision on his return to United States soil since winning the bantamweight crown from Harry Jeffra in his native Puerto Rico.

Statue Of Lincoln On School Grounds South Of Ypsilanti

Ypsilanti, Mich., May 4 (AP)—A statue of Abraham Lincoln, done in limestone as a WPA federal art project, was unveiled this afternoon on the grounds of the Lincoln consolidated school six miles south of Ypsilanti.

The statue of Lincoln in his presidenital period stands 14 feet high. It was executed in sections by Samuel Cashwan, Detroit sculptor, in his Detroit studio and put in place on the scholo grounds last week. It was unveiled by Virginia Robbins, the tiniest pupil at the school.

Participating in the ceremony were Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction; Louis M. Nims, state WPA administrator, and O. E. Vedder, president of the board of education. The Michigan State Normal college band played.

The 750 students of the school contributed $500 toward the cost of the statue. William Nelson, president of the student council, presided at the dedication ceremony.

Death Takes Nobel Peace Prize Winner

Berlin, May 4. (AP)—Varl Von Ossietzky, who was awarded the Nobel peace prize a few days after he was released from a Nazi concentration camp in 1936, died today.

The 48-year-old pacifist had been in ill health for about two years. He was released from the concentration camp because of his illness and was in a hospital at the time the Nobel award was announced.

Doctors said he had suffered from tuberculosis, which became worse during the present cold snap and attacked his brain with fatal results.

Von Ossietzky told visitors last August he had dropped out of all political activity but, despite spending most of his time since 1932 in prisons and concentration camps, he had not changed his pacifist views.

Speaking Campaign To Spur Michigan Housing Proposed

Lansing, May 4 (AP)—Governor Murphy and Raymond J. Foley, federal housing administrator for Michigan, today mapped a speaking campaign to create public interest in building and remodeling domestic, commercial and industrial properties.

The governor said he would attempt to show the public how it may qualify for a low-cost federal financing for such building. He said the present state law allows private building projects but would have to be amended to allow public low-cost housing projects.

Of the housing program the governor said, "a tremendous amount of property improvement can be started now, furnishing jobs for many thousands of common laborers and skilled artisans."

stomach disorder and chronic constipation had been sources of distress with me for several years. Regardless of how carefully I planned my diet I suffered from awful gas, bloating and indigestion. My bowels were irregular and my system had accumulated with toxic poisons. I tried my best to find relief but became discouraged with continual failure. Then I read of so many who were praising KruGon and decided they surely couldn't all be wrong so gave it a trial in my stubborn case."

"I was amazed at the results that just one box of KruGon gave me," continued Mrs. Arseneau. "My stomach has been so wonderfully regulated and I can eat with no distressing ill effects. ESCANABA MAY GET AIR MAIL

Detroit - Sault Service May Be Extended to This City

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—R. Stuart Weeks of Port Huron was low bidder on the proposed new air mail route between Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie via Bay City and Port Huron.

Bids for the route were opened by the postoffice department. It was learned from the office of Senator Prentiss M. Brown that an attempt by a Sault Ste. Marie interest to postpone opening until another bid could be submitted was ignored.

The contract for the new route will not be let until postal authorities have investigated the equipment of Weeks, and his ability to fill the requirements of the department under the airmail setup.

Weeks bid was 28.5 cents per mile.

Senator Brown said the proposed route would connect Detroit and the upper state at Sault Ste. Marie. Extension of the line beyond that point to Escanaba and Duluth will come later.

Cities on the new line will include in addition to Bay City and Port Huron, Saginaw, Flint and Cheboygan.

Today's development carried another step forward the long sought air mail route up the Lake Huron side of the state into the northern section. In event Weeks is able to meet postal requirements a contract will probably be let within the near future, and service will be started immediately after the contract is given.

BUDGET WILL HAVE HEARING

Tax Roll Likely To Be Decreased Slightly; Meeting Tonight

First reading of the budget for the new fiscal year beginning on July 1 will be held at the regular meeting of the city council this evening.

The council held an informal meeting Monday at which time tentative approval was given the budget. If finally approved in its present form, city taxes will be decreased slightly. In its tentative state, the present budget provides for a tax roll of $120,000, a reduction of $3,000 from last year's figure.

This year's budget calls for an outlay of $345,000, a reduction of about $9,000 over last year's estimate of $354,699. Some of the reduction is due to the smaller amount of bond retirals to be faced this year and also to the decrease in the health fund, which is being taken over to a large extent by the county health unit.

Due to the present business recession, provisions have been made in the budget to care for a larger tax roll delinquency than was provided for last year. A difference of about $3,000 is allowed in this item.

In addition to the first budget reading, the council, at its meeting this evening, will consider the banning of bank night at a local theatre, of extension of rural line to farmers near Ford River road, policy on placement of water meters in premises that at present are on flat rate, and of a petition for extension of sanitary sewers to 1400 block on North 22nd and North 23rd streets.

Buyer Is Cautioned On Used Car Title

Officials of the department of state caution purchasers of used cars, the titles of which bear liens on their faces, to secure discharges of liens from dealers, for their protection.

It is pointed out that while original purchase liens on new cars are noted on the faces of titles, proof of discharge of liens is limited to original owners' statements to dealers when they assign titles. A dealer may, in good faith, sign the title when selling the car, indicating that no liens are against it. A first mortgagor, however, may recover the car if the original lien has never been discharged. While it is true that the subsequent purchaser may have recourse to the dealer for his representation as to the absence of liens, there is no remedy if the dealer has in the meantime gone out of business, instances of which have occurred.

In Louisiana alone, 5,000,000 pounds of muskrat meat are available annually for food consumption.

A petition for sidewalk construction on the west side of Commercial street in Bay View addition, south side of Onota street between Hemlock and Fir streets, and Onota street between Hemlock and Oak was presented to the commission, accepted, and filed. Fishermen Fined In Justice Court

Munising, May 4—Saul Mattson of Munising and Alex Knuttila of Au Train were fined $25 and court costs of $7.90 each when they appeared before Justice T. J. Walters this morning and changed their plea to guilty to the charge of fishing without having registration and identification for their equipment. They were arrested by Conservation Officer Julius Thorson and two other deputies on Monday. Knuttila paid a part of his fine this morning and Mattson was given until Thursday to pay his fine or take the alternative of 30 days in jail.

The two signed a release on about 300 feet of nets and a 14 foot steel boat which will be confiscated by the conservation department.

Surviving are her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Andrew Rodgers of Trenary, Mrs. Fred Lezotte and Letitia Powell of Munising; two sons, Luther and Aaron, Jr., of Munising; a brother, Walter Alexander of Marquette; and two sisters, Mrs. Charles A. L. F. Pearce addressed the meeting of the Munising Lions club held Tuesday evening in the Beach Inn. Mr. Pearce gave a very interesting talk on Central America and its government and discussed the banana industry.

BILEK APPOINTED

Menominee—Matt F. Bilek, postmaster and local attorney, was named city attorney at last night's council meeting to succeed Kenneth O. Doyle. The vote was 12 to 2, with the two Fourth ward aldermen, Herbert Beyersdorf and Chester C. DeVoe casting the opposition votes.

Last night's meeting was staged before another packed council chamber with standing room at a premium. The session lasted from 8 o'clock until almost 9:30 p. m.

Council's action did not wholly divorce Mr. Doyle from his legal connection with the city. A later resolution was adopted by which council's committee, which is negotiating with the Menominee and Marinette Light and Traction company for the purchase of its distributing system, was authorized to engage Mr. Doyle as special legal counsel to help carry on the projected municipal light plant.

MUSEUM WILL GET OX YOKE

Peter Garrigan Thinks Paul Bunyan Once Used Radio

The first contribution to the Paul Bunyan Lumbering Museum at the Upper Peninsula State Fairgrounds was made by Peter Carrigan, old-time lumberman of Carney. The relic is an ox yoke.

Mr. Garrigan writes to the Upper Peninsula State Fair as follows:

"I saw a call in the Herald-Leader this past week asking for contributions from old-time loggers with which to build up a display at the fairgrounds. Well, I have an ox yoke that did service for me for nearly 20 years when I was logging. It is complete in every detail. It weighs about two hundred pounds. You are welcome to it.

"I am told that this yoke is one of the original yokes that Paul Bunyan used to break in the progeny from his Blue Ox and that he started with them when they were about three weeks old. I also am told that when Paul felt like showing some of his stunts he used to take this yoke and two others like it and juggle them, keeping two of them in the air at one time with one hand. Anyhow it weighs about two hundred pounds, and if you want it, send and get it."

Fishing Pictures Are Solicited By Escanaba C. of C.

Pictures of trout fishing in the Escanaba region are desired by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce to use for publicity purposes, it was announced yesterday by Secretary Harold P. Lindsay.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce has received a number of requests for fishing pictures from newspapers and magazines. Pictures taken at trout streams are particularly desirable.

Amateur photographers, who have taken good pictures of night smelt dipping scenes during the recent smelt run, also are invited to submit their work to the Chamber of Commerce.

Cadillac's Fort To Be Rebuilt On Old Site At St. Ignace

St. Ignace, Mich.—Cadillac's historic Fort St. Ignace, or Fort de Buade, as it is sometimes called, is being rebuilt on the ancient hillsite west of Sco-bo-go-no-wis bluff in this city, on plans drawn from original data compiled by the Rev. Fr. John T. Holland of St. Ignace.

Site clearing and reconstruction of the stockade and buildings will cost approximately $12,675.00, about two-thirds of which will be in federal funds provided by the Works Progress administration. From 1679 to 1701 the fort was the foremost military post of New France in the Northwest. Its most famous commandant was Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac, afterward commander of the French post at Detroit.

Under his incumbency at St. Ignace were about 200 soldiers, and the surrounding community of 6,000 to 8,000 Indians, a Jesuit mission founded by Father James Marquette, and a large colony of fur traders. It was visited by Hennepin, LaSalle and other well-known explorers and was frequently mentioned in the chronicles of the time. In and around the Fort Adario, chief of the Wyandotte Indians, hatched a plot which resulted in the coming of the British to the territory and radically changed the history of the Northwest.

Immediate plans call for the building of a stockade 150 feet square, using eight-inch peeled cedar poles 20 feet long and painted white. The interior buildings will come later. A gravel road three-quarters of a mile long will be built from highway US-31 to the fort, which will be in plain view of the federal highway, Mackinac Island, the Straits and Lake Huron.

The city and the St. Ignace Lions club are sponsoring the project, and construction is following closely the maps, sketches and descriptions collected by Fr. Holland from the departments of public archives in Ottawa and Paris. The reproduction will no doubt greatly stimulate travel interest in the city, where the grave of Marquette is located.

A low estimate puts the value of Great Britain's crown jewelry at $30,000,000.

Tax Sale Closes In Delta County; 70 Parcels Sold

Delta county's tax delinquent land sale was wound up Wednesday, but County Treasurer Ralph R. Olsen said that descriptions read off yesterday afternoon would be repeated again this morning, beginning at 10 o'clock, as provided by law.

About 75 descriptions were purchased by bidders during the sale, and delinquent taxes were paid on many parcels prior to the sale by taxpayers who wished to avoid the sale listing.

Interest waned toward the close of the sale Wednesday, and only a half dozen bidders remained.

FISHERMEN TO ELECT OFFICERS

Commercial Operators Will Have Important Meeting Friday

The North Division of the Michigan Commercial Fishermen's Protective association will hold its annual election of officers at a meeting called for Friday evening at eight o'clock. The meeting will be held in the club rooms of the Eagles hall on South ninth street as usual.

In addition to the selection of the slate of officers who will head the association in this section for the coming year, President Ralph Christensen has announced that there will be a number of matters of vital importance to men in the commercial fishing industry in this area which will be taken up at the meeting.

Because of the importance of the decisions to be made at the meeting, present officers are urging all fishermen in the industry to make a special effort to be present and have a voice in the proceedings. The selection of officers will be followed by a discussion of plans for the association's activities in the future.

RATE SCHEDULE BEING DEBATED

REA Officials to Confer With Power Firm on Lower Prices

In an effort to obtain a satisfactory wholesale rate for the cooperative rural electrification projects centering in Ontonagon and Delta Counties, F. Harper Craddock, chief of the REA Rate Section, will confer in Lansing with officials of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company, representatives of the two projects, and members of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. The exact time of the conference has not yet been set, but it will probably be on Thursday, May 5.

The power company has arranged to send its General Manager, William E. Schubert of Appleton, Wisconsin, to Lansing for the conference.

The rate offered by the power company, and which the company reports it is unwilling to reduce, is objectionable in several respects. It would average 1.59 cents per kilowatt-hour when the projects reach their anticipated development, which REA believes is much too high to permit the cooperatives to operate successfully and which is out of line with the current trend in wholesale power rates offered for rural power projects in other parts of the country. It involves a minimum charge which REA believes may penalize the farmers unduly in the early stages of the project. Moreover, the rate is not of the inducement type but is a flat rate irrespective of the actual quantity of electricity used.

Because of these objections to both the level an dthe form of the wholesale rate quoted, REA has requested a further and more direct discussion of the subject. The power company readily consented, and the conference with Mr. Graddock and Mr. Schubert was arranged.

Air Mail Service

THE postoffice department has received two bids for the carrying of air mail between Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie, and it is likely that a contract will be awarded in the near future to R. Stuart Weeks of Port Huron, the low bidder.

During air mail week, six aviators will participate in demonstration flights in the Upper Peninsula. The tendency of these flights is to emphasize an east-west air route, which would run between Detroit, the Upper Peninsula and Duluth.

While the east-west route could be utilized to advantage by the Escanaba area, the need for air mail connections with Chicago is more apparent. Such a route would make possible the more rapid dispatching of air mail between this area and the distant points in the United States. If there are new routes to be established, serious consideration should be given to the possibilities for direct connections with Chicago, which is the air mail center of the United States.

Dunckel Urged to Run

SENATOR MILLER DUNCKEL of Three Rivers, who is well known in the Upper Peninsula as a result of his many visits here in the interests of the Republican party, is being urged by his many friends to seek the party's nomination for the office of secretary of state.

A man is best known in his home town and the manner in which he is regarded by his neighbors is always good evidence of the type of person he is. In this connection, the Three Rivers Commercial has the following complimentary editorial comments to make concerning Mr. Dunckel.

"Speaking from the standpoint of ability as a candidate, which naturally is one of the first considerations from the view point of party interests, Senator Dunckel fills the qualifications. In this there is nothing detrimental to his ability as a citizen or as a public official.

"Gifted with a remarkable personality, suave, poised, an excellent public speaker and perfectly at east before the public, combined with the unusual faculty for remembering names and faces makes the Senator an unusual force in the political arena.

"Aside from this which deals with his ability and position as a candidate is his record as a member of the State Senate for two terms. He is not a candidate for reelection to the senate for the very satisfactory reason that coincident with his announcement of candidacy four years ago he announced also that the old tradition between Kalamazoo and St. Joseph counties, in his estimation, should be preserved and the senators from the district alternate between the two counties. In keeping with that pledge he is not a candidate for reelection to the Senate.

"We believe his record through the two terms of senatorial activity will speak for itself. As far as his constituents are concerned, we know personally that requests from the "home folks"—and by "home folks"—we mean citizens of Kalamazoo as well as St. Joseph county—were uniformly given prompt attention, communications were acknowledged and inquiries were given personal service which frequently called for efforts far beyond the ordinary demands of the senatorial office.

"In addition, Senator Dunckel through the experience of four years in the senate and his business connections and political activities which have taken him into every county in the state, has a background of observation of the state as a whole and the wishes and needs of the various diversified interests which make up its economic life giving him an understanding of the state and its needs far beyond the usual.

"Three Rivers should be proud of this 'home town boy' who has been successful in the field of public life and effort. He has been successful in business, in public office, in organization work within his party. There is every reason to believe he would be equally successful if he accepts the wishes of his supporters and announces himself as a candidate for the office of Secretary of State. And we believe, too, that if elected to that office he would serve the entire people of the state honestly, fairly and with consideration for the needs of all."

A Great Playground

MORE than 150,000 rainbow, brown and brook trout were planted by the U. S. Forest Service this week in several streams in the Hiawatha National Forest.

This is good news to fishermen, as well as to those folks who are merely interested in the future development of this north country. The Forest Service steadily continues its work of reforesting the Hiawatha forest tract and restocking it with game and fish. With scores of lakes and streams, the Hiawatha forest is a popular fishing region.

Escanaba, Gladstone, Rapid River and the other communities, who have been sustained for years by the lumbering in the region, can look forward more hopefully now to gaining a livelihood from its use for recreational purposes.

The Annual Worry

SUMMER is here.

The village of Great Neck, N. Y., has passed an ordinance forbidding persons over 15 to go shopping in their swimming suits.

Summer certainly came early this year. In a way, it's nice, and what's referred to by that is not in this instance the weather but the business of getting the oratory about bathers over with early in the season. It's so much easier to bear all the sound and fury when the weather is comparatively cool.

It's to be hoped that the rest of the country follows the lead of Great Neck in rushing the season just as quickly as it can. Do it now. Get it all decided about whether the male may or may not bare his chest, whether the female may or may not expose a strip of her person around the middle, and just how far from the beach either may stray without changing into street wear.

There are so many other things to worry about these days.

More Tax Conscious

THE time is here when all citizens in this nation should ask themselves. "Shall we eat or shall we pay taxes?"

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has shown that the annual tax "take" is in excess of the nation's food bill.

Those who pay taxes, whether they pay on property or by the more vicious hidden method, should begin to realize that taxes can reach such a point that they are confiscatory on the individual as well as on the employer of thousands.

And people are becoming tax conscious. Business leaders have for many months realized that taxes were crippling their business and making it almost impossible for them to keep going.

Employees are learning that taxes paid by business and industry build up a barrier to higher wages and steady jobs. They are coming to learn that because of regulatory and confiscatory taxes on business their own future is in peril.

Consumers are finding out that the huge taxes are accountable for the high prices. They are getting stirred up and a revolt may be expected at any time.

Certainly if taxes keep mounting (and any new spending program cannot but boost taxes, because under present conditions the U. S. deficit is nearly 40 billions of dollars and every day growing greater) it will be impossible for individuals to eat. There will not be enough money for food after taxes are paid. But remember this, the politicians will eat and eat well even if you can't afford to.

As taxes increase business finds it impossible to keep going and gives up the fight. But that throws people out of work and makes still greater taxes necessary.

If you want to eat in the future, you had better indicate to your congressman at once that you demand a retrenchment in spending.

MINTON'S GAG
(Detroit News)

Senator Minton's (Administration Democrat, of Indiana) fulminations against the newspapers and his bill to make them criminally liable for printing untruths are disgusting and disturbing, too, in a premonitory sort of way. The bill referred to apparently would make it possible for the Government to suspend, by injunction, the publication of any newspaper it disagreed with.

We have not been privileged to examine a copy of this precious measure, which we do not expect to get very far. If it contains safeguards against so bad and direct an approach to censorship as that indicated, we shall apologize to Senator Minton. But we do not anticipate being under that obligation. His recent remarks in the Senate would not lead us to believe he would find anything distasteful in outright censorship, if that were conveniently attainable.

What is biting this statesman is that, like others we could name, he has confused democracy with Democracy-Administration Democracy. He finds most of the press of the nation perversely opposed to Administration Democracy and is willing to go to almost any length to correct this annoying condition. He thinks the press should be required to be "fair."

All this is disturbing because, in the first place, it betrays once again a childish ignorance at Washington of the fact that there is a difference in function between the editorial page of a modern newspaper and its news columns. There are certain notorious exceptions, but the vast majority of American newspapers have been more than fair in opening their news columns to Administration material; several score of them recently have printed the President's own story of the New Deal. What they give as their opinions on their editorial pages is another matter, which readers are at liberty to judge as they see fit.

There are exceptions, as we say, to the general rule of accuracy and impartially in the news columns. These departures from professional ethics and ideals are as repulsive to the newspaper profession as to any of their victims. Yet freedom of the press does and must mean freedom to print untruths, subject to the libel law, as well as truth.

What is chiefly disturbing about senator Minton is the premonitory indication that there are those who hold press freedom so lightly that, in their vindictiveness, they can forget even this elementary fact.

SPENDING
(New Bedford Standard-Times)

Secretary Wallace told the Omaha chamber of commerce the other day that the federal government must spend, and will continue to spend to prime the pump and get thing going again.

The necessity for this spending he attributes to a cause somewhat different from that given by the President in his message to congress. Mr. Roosevelt said the trouble was over-production. Mr. Wallace says it was the premature and too abrupt curtailment of government spending.

Treasury figures fail to show where this curtailment occurred. During the year that ended April 1, 1933, the government spent about $3,777,000,000. During the year ending April 1, 1938, it spent about $5,676,000,000. Between 1933 and 1938 the increase was uninterrupted, each year seeing a larger expenditure than the year before. Mr. Wallace's idea of a sudden shutting off of spending is not borne out by the treasury statements.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY JAMES A. MILLS

KRA, Siam (AP)—One of the greatest myths in modern history is the persistently repeated story that Japan is building a great new strategic maritime canal across this narrow isthmus of Siam as a challenge to England's great naval station at Singapore. Actually, the story of such a canal is nearly a hundred years old, although the project is spoken of today as if it were a new enterprise.

Within the last ten years this bogey of a Japanese-built Kra Canal has come up for discussion in most of the parliaments of the world, and has caused deep apprehension to the armies and navies of the Big Powers. On each occasion the report has drawn vigorous denials from the Siamese government.

—NO SHRED OF EVIDENCE—

To establish the facts in the case, I made an exhaustive survey of the entire Kra district, which extends roughly from the little town of Chumpohn, situated on an estuary of the Gulf of Siam; on the east, for a distance of forty miles, to the jungle town of Kraburi, on an estuary of the Bay of Bengal, on the western shores of Siam.

My five days' journey by elephant, ox-cart, motor-car, and afoot took me through jungle districts infested by wild elephants, tigers, monkeys, crocodiles and cobras. Nowhere in the so-called "canal area" did I see a blade of grass disturbed, a single stone turned, or a solitary shovel of earth removed, to indicate that any such project as a canal was being undertaken. Nor was there the slightest evidence of Japanese engineers supervising the construction of the canal, as had been reported abroad recently.

There were no Siamese sentries on guard and no trace of a single workman excavating. Neither was there the slightest indication that the Kra district had been proclaimed a military zone, forbidden to natives and foreigners alike. On the contrary, traffic of all kinds moved with the fullest freedom. No passports were asked from foreigners, nor was there the slightest restriction against photographing.

The natives looked astonished when the subject of a canal was broached. "We have never heard of such a thing," they all declared.

—JUST A ROADWAY—

I found that the government was just completing the construction of a new 40-mile metalled highway from Chumphon to Kraburi. This necessitated extensive excavations and blasting operations through the range of high rocky hills covering almost the entire Kra Isthms. These activities, which involved the employment of 400 native workmen, may have been misconstrued by careless observers as evidence that Japan was building a strategic canal for the Siamese government.

I was informed by the Siamese government that it will extend the newly completed motor highway across the Kra Isthmus another forty miles westerly to the town of Renong, which abounds in tin mines. This road construction is a part of a regular plan of the new revolutionary government in Bangkok to open up the Kra jungle and make its products accessible to the railway and to coastal steamers.

This road-building work, however, will undoubtedly give rise to fresh reports that the Siamese government has already begun the construction of the erstwhile Kra Canal.

—'CLEAR AND FINAL'—

"All such reports," Siam's Premier, Colonel Phya Bihol, declared to me "should be dismissed summarily as pure fantasies. We have never contemplated in the past, nor do we intend to do so in the future, the construction of such a canal. The Associated Press will do Siam and its government a signal service if it will make this clear and final to the world.

"Exhaustive research has shown us that the construction of such a canal would present not only enormous technical and physical difficulties, but would involve such a great cost that Siam could not possibly undertake it. Moreover, the awarding of such a concession, or contract to Japan would undoubtedly arouse disapproval by the other powers, whose friendship and goodwill Siam is anxious to keep.

"Furthermore, such a concession, if granted to Japan, might jeopardize our future independence, since it would give Japan control over at least that part of Siam through which the canal was built. This we would never countenance. Our aim is to remain in the closest bonds of friendship with all nations, and to guard our own sovereignty and independence as our most precious possession."

The history of the Kra Canal project dates from American Civil War days. In 1863 two British government engineers, Captain J. G. Forlong and Captain A. Fraser, who were then attached to the Bengal Engineers, surveyed the entire Kra area and reported that the canal was impracticable. But they recommended a railway in its place.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Broadway might be expected to pay fervent tribute this month to a Benedictine monk named Dom Perignon, who made a few experiments with wine in the cellar of the Abbey of Hautvilliers near Epernay, France, just 300 years ago. Those experiments led to the discovery of champagne—and one shudders to think what Broadway would be like without the bubbling amber that lightens the heart and the pocketbook at one and the same time.

As an earnest seeker after truth, this correspondent sought to determine just what form the Broadway celebration would take and was a little shocked to discover that most night club and restaurant proprietors never heard of the good Dom Perignon and had made no provision to honor his memory.

One or two of the more realistic men wondered whether a slight rise in price would bring home the value of Dom Perignon's discovery to their customers. But since champagne already is in the $10-and-up-a-bottle bracket, they made no definite decision.

Just when it seemed that the search would be fruitless, the Hotel Piccadilly announced that the chef could not let the day pass without commemorating the event. So a special champagne dinner has been devised. And may the good Dom rest easily where he is interred.

Fiend

This week, the metropolitan papers recorded the activities of a monster who delights in telephoning a home and telling a horrifying story of the death or injury of a loved one.

In some way, he knows that the husband, sister, mother or brother of whom he is speaking is away from home and dwells on the gruesome details of the mythical accident. The calls bring hysterical women and men to Bellevue to claim supposed bodies, only to find that they are the victims of a cruel hoax.

The story came out as the result of a fortunate call made by my confrere, Bob Musel, who keeps apace of the police blotters. Seeking information from Bellevue on another matter, Bob got a crossed wire to the information office. Just as he was about to speak, an excited woman shouted a demand for information regarding her husband who, she said, had been brought in after an accident. In vain, the hospital attache tried to calm her. Finally, she said, "It must be true. The man who called said he was Dr. Lessinger."

At that, the attache told her about the many calls attributed to "Dr. Lessinger," but the woman, only half convinced, said she would go down to the hospital and look through the wards anyway. Most victims of this monster do. The astute Musel turned the weird tale over to the local city desks. It is the story, undoubtedly, of the meanest man in the world.

I have no desire to be able to see again.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, May 4. — The moment when the La Follettes decided to lead an aggressive third party movement was in late November; the place was Bob La-Follette's pleasant house in Washington. And the decision was made at one of the family councils of war which have been a La Follette tradition ever since old Bob charted his political course at the dinner table, with his wife and his small children to help.

Governor Phil had been on a Caribbean cruise. On his way back he stopped, as he always does when he is near Washington, to confer with Senator Bob. When they are apart, the two men are in daily touch by telephone, but they like best to put their heads together in one room.

The discussion was long; many factors entered into it. The President's waning leadership, the tie-up of his legislative program in the special session, the successful opposition of the Democratic conservatives to the New Deal—all these were touched upon. Touched upon also was the new depression, which was recognized as real by both Senator Bob and Governor Phil.

At length, the two men made up their minds. They would make no announcement; that could wait. But they would make all necessary preparations, and spy out the lie of the land. Immediately thereafter, Governor Phil began a series of small, informal meetings, at which he carefully tested sentiment for a real Third Party among Progressive leaders. Meanwhile, both men and their inner circle of friends and advisers were busy with such chores as designing their curious cross and circle party emblem and looking up the state laws affecting their venture. This spring they were ready. The announcement was made.

BOB AND PHIL

Politically, the La Follettes are a well-balanced pair. Phil is all public presence and platform manner. He has his father's dash and fire, the faculty of arousing a crowd, the ability to hold attention. There is something stage-managed about his entrances and exits, as there always is in the goings and comings of a born leader of crowds.

Bob stems from his mother, who was always old Bob's closest and best adviser. He can orate. Rather stiffly, if he has to, but he prefers to stick to an intelligent exposition of the facts. He is shrewd, rather secretive, immensely practical, with a stern public manner which belies his fondness for private good-fellowship. His mind is harder, probably better than Phil's. Phil would scarcely bother, for example, to become an expert of taxation, as Bob has. Above all, Bob La Follette has a passion for getting things done.

The Combined political judgment of Bob and Phil should be excellent, for, while Phil supplies the intuitive flair, Bob brings to the team the factual knowledge and touch appraising eye. And, in this case, in apite of the scorn of a good many politicians and commentators, there are deeply significant features of the situation which have passed unnoticed.

It's remarkably signicant for example, that their decision to make their Progressive Party a national movement was to come at the start of the unkindly-named Roosevelt depression. It's equally significant that their final announcement was delayed until a long winter of governmental stagnation has passed, until the depress had been allowed to deepen disastrously while the President and his administration just muddled along. It's significant, too, that the announcement was made in the very month when the Gallup poll showed the President had lost one-third of his 10 per cent majority in four short weeks.

Ever since they reestablished the Progressive Party in 1934, Bob and Phil La-Follette have expected the moment to come when they could fight on a front passing the frontiers of Wisconsin. In 1934, they chose to start their own party rather than join the democracy because they believed that the liberal element could not permanently dominate the democracy.

But the timing of their final announcement was determined by two things. In the first place, by last fall, the split personality of the Democratic Party, and the difficulty confronting a liberal leader within the Democratic Party had been pretty adequetely proved. And in the second, the new depression threatened to do to the President what the old one did to Hoover.

Liberalism has ridden in the Roosevelt chariot for so long that it is associated with Roosevelt in the popular mind. With a depression damaging the President, liberalism must find a chariot of its own. And the La Follettes believe that they provided that chariot.

TRUTHFUL HIRAM

Old Hiram Hoskins had a way
Of saying things that others say,
When some new problem people struck,
By saying something so it stuck.
The preacher preached an hour to prove
That thrift was now the proper move.
Old Hiram said, "This savin' dimes
Will save your soul a lot of times."

Old Hiram Hoskins liked to hear
The politicians ev'ry year,
And went to meetings here and yon,
The platform even sat upon.
One night they asked him for a speech.
He didn't make the eagle screetch,
Just said, "Don't tell me what you think,
But what you done—wrote out—in ink."

Old Hiram Hoskins had a case
In court, and in a certain place
His witness said what wasn't so;
He didn't lie, just didn't know.
"I'd rather lose, lose right along,"
Said Hiram, "than to win by wrong,
Like that there yarn that you just heard."
The jury took him at his word.

Conservation of Wildlife

NATURALISTS and conservationists say that the era of wildlife exploitation is now drawing to a close. Increased interest manifested by States and Federal agencies, by sportsmen, and by the general public has at last checked an abuse and neglect that started 300 years ago.

Previous to the coming of the white settlers, the North American continent possessed an abundance and variety of wildlife not surpassed by any other continent. Wildlife, like vegetation, is modified as its habitat changes, and it varies in form and abundance according to climate, soil fertility, and location. North America, with its crest of icy arctic and its base in the warm subtropical region of the Gulf of Mexico, Rocky Mountains in the West, Alleghenies in the East, arid deserts, fertile plains, and well watered valleys, was suitable for this abundance and variety of wildlife.

With the occupation of the land by the white settlers, wildlife began to diminish. The decrease was imperceptible at first, but it was definite nevertheless, for once the settlers had brought the primitive land under tillage or exploited it by industry, it long remained in that status. As they moved westward the new settlers subjugated more and more of the wild land, and the wildlife that remained in rear of the advancing line of frontiersmen was forced to adjust itself to a new environment.

The fertile ground that for ages had grown crops of wild game and fur animals was now required to grow corn, wheat, tobacco, beans, and cotton, and to support domestic flocks and herds. This condition, disastrous for many species, benefited others. The big-game species suffered first and most. While the bison, elk, deer, and bears were extirpated or forced to retire to areas remote from cultivation, some of the smaller creatures, including the quail, the rabbit, the raccoon, and the opossum, found the additional food supply grown by the farmer an encouragement to increase their numbers and extend their ranges.

Some of the great American fortunes were founded upon the fur trade, notably that of the Astor family. Their remote trading posts in a few years garnered the wealth of fur and left to posterity scarcely more than scattered remnants of what had been a tremendous resource. The pelts of fur animals and the hides of bison were commodities that would endure transportation from the wilderness to the settlements, but the flesh of game birds and mammals could not be sent back over the long trail.

Killing for the market did not become a serious factor in the reduction of game until stimulated by the growth of cities and towns and the development of railways. Traffic in game as food flourished after the Civil War and reached its peak in the 80's. During that time millions of passenger pigeons, prairie chickens, grouse, ducks, geese, upland plover, snipe, woodcock, quail, and other food species were annually sent to market by gunners. The passenger pigeon was exterminated and certain other game species were so badly reduced that they have never since recovered.

Market shooting seems to have enriched no one, for much of the game taken for the then legitimate market spoiled on its way. What was sound and salable brought a price so low that the receipts were often not sufficient to pay expenses. Many game birds sold for a few cents a pair, and the business was so badly organized and competition so keen that the markets were nearly always glutted. Shooting for the market was continued, however, until sportsmen and conservationists at the beginning of the present century became alarmed and sought State and national legislation to prohibit traffic in game.

Summer Health Round-Up

THE Parent-Teacher association again will sponsor the Summer Round-up of pre-school children, with the hope of having every child who will enter school for the first time next fall as free as possible from remediable physical defects.

Dr. Reolof Lanting, director of the county health unit, and Miss Gertrude Sheahan, R. N., school nurse, will be at the various schools in the city, beginning May 16, to give physical examinations to the pre-school boys and girls.

In 1925 the Summer Round-Up of Children was first inaugurated by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, based on the conviction that the home is responsible for the health of the pre-school child and that the home can make no greater contribution to the school than a pupil physically ready to take advantage of the opportunities which education has to offer.

The Summer Round-Up results in the correction of defects and immunization against communicable diseases and is a medium through which valuable instruction in child health is brought to parents. It follows the theory that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". Parents may save themselves a lot of worry by cooperating in this very worthwhile health program.

All Parks to Open

WELCOME news to the tourist and resort interests of the state comes with the announcement of P. J. Hoffmaster, state conservation director, that his department will operate all state parks this year despite the fact its request for a minimum of $45,000 for maintenance and operation was met only in part by the state administrative board.

The state came more than half way in providing $25,000, considering the financial straits in which it find itself. With this allotment Mr. Hoffmaster has worked out a plan whereby the employment of WPA projects will make possible complete operation of the system. Credit goes both to the state board and to Mr. Hoffmaster for providing a solution to this problem.

Michigan's parks hold top rank among the tourist attractions of the state. In view of the growing trailer-tourist army it is imperative that the state provide accommodations. And any investment along this line is one that pays rich dividends. The tourist who passes through Michigan, even though he does not tarry in one spot, easily pays his way. If he drives 1,000 miles on Michigan highways he pays at least $1.08 in gasoline and sales taxes on his motor fuel alone. Probably he will pay an equal tax on the food he consumes and the things he buys. He leaves from $3 to $5 in the state's coffers even if he is here for only a few days. Multiply this by 100,000—which is only a small part of the actual traffic—and it is readily seen that there is a rich return.

Our state parks are an important part of the state's contributions to the tourist industry which contributes so much in return. With a solution of the financial problem met this year the state should resolve that it will not permit any threat to arise in the future that this service will be in any way contracted. At least not while expansion still is needed to meet the demand.

Getting and Spending

"WOMEN are entirely too conservative when it comes to spending money" was a chairman's declaration at the National League of Women Voters convention. It set the delegates to pondering a bigger and better budget.

Well, times certainly change. Or is the chairman's statement not an observation of a new truth, but a correction of an old error in the male conception of the female spending habit?

The day before the Woman Voter made her observation, in St. Louis, police raided a bingo party in New York. Two thousand women staged a near-riot trying to get their admission fee back. Fifty extra policemen were called to restore order. The admission fee was a quarter.

Those ladies certainly appeared to be counting the pennies all right. But for what? Bingo! Well, it takes all kinds of economy and all kinds of economists to make a world.

Down in Menominee, John J. O'Hara, former auditor general who was appointed to the office by Governor Fitzgerald, is breaking into the limelight occasionally, but it is no indication he will seek the post he formerly held. His limelighting comes in the form of speeches, and it is not his own making. O'Hara is what the fellow on the street calls a humdinger of a speaker and it is natural he should be in demand. When it comes to scoring for patriotism, as he did a few days ago, O'Hara can hit the mark.

Right now the mining districts of the Peninsula are wondering what John N. Fegan, youthful chairman of the state tax commission, will do when he visits this section of the state. He has said he will advise local assessors on mining valuations and will sound out local sentiment on the suggested severance tax. If he merely advises local assessors, it will be something new. The tax commission has always been in the habit of setting the mine valuations. Fegan by the way, is not as loquacious as he used to be, suggesting that perhaps the governor had an understanding with him.

If the Lions club in Negaunee has its way, the Community Chest will be re-established. It was originally started in 1926 and functioned until 1932 when it was abandoned. In recent years it has been a case of one organization after another conducting a drive for funds, the drives sometimes following at close intervals. So now the Lions think it might be a good idea to go back to the "one big pot" plan and disburse funds from the Community Chest.

Escanaba police the other day sought the name of the driver of a stolen car that caromed down one of the streets. And they had numerous reasons for wanting to learn his identity. Here's what the car did: Wrecked three cars, broke one horse block, broke off one tree and damaged another, knocked down a school sign, demolished a set of porch steps and knocked down a fence. That was quite enough for one joy ride.

Resignation of Albert Mongrain from his job as fireman at Iron Mountain brought to light one of the shortcomings of cities. It developed that the job of fireman paid him only $70 a month and he resigned because he found another job. That's a niggardly salary for any fireman, much less for one who like Mongrain had served seven years in the department. He could come fairly close to that amount if he got one of the choice WPA jobs offered by Harry Hopkins.

Slightly more than a million and a half dollars will be spent on secondary trunk lines in 65 counties of the state. That isn't a great deal, but as the old saying goes, every little bit helps. Nine of the 15 Upper Peninsula counties will profit by the arrangement. They are Houghton, Iron, Luce, Mackinac, Marquette, Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Menominee and Gogebic. If the funds for secondary trunks are distributed proportionately, the Upper Peninsula counties will get about 14 per cent, or about $210,000.

The influence of the United States forest service and the tree planting program it directs for the civilian conservation corps is to be noted near Sault Ste. Marie. At Dafter about 40 high school boys are planting 5,000 pine trees on a school forest of 400 acres that was deeded to the school board recently by the state. The picture would be completed if the boys, or their successors in high school, were called upon to keep a check on the development of this plot, noting how many of the trees live and the growth they make.

World Affairs Reviewed

WITH CHINESE RED ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN CENTRAL HOPEI, North China (AP)—When Chinese war lord armies retreated before the Japanese advance through North China last fall, the slothful Chinese farmer rarely lifted a finger to help.

Now those peasants are fighting demons.

Vague reports indicated the Chinese Red Army had organized them. An Associated Press correspondent recently penetrated the Japanese blockade and spent 100 days in the new Red territory in Hopei province to investigate.

—'ANNIHILATE HIM'—

He saw how the guerrillas carried out their raids and he heard from the Red commander, General Yu Cheng-tsao, how the lethargic farmers had been organized. They have won more than 90 victories in Hopei province since the start of 1938.

The Red strategist, Mao Tzetung, defined his guerrilla tactics thus:

"When the enemy attacks, we retreat. When he retreats, we attack. When he stops, we harry him, surround him, annihilate him."

The Associated Press correspondent recently visited the walled town of Schenchai, scene of a battle.

"The Japanese approached in sixteen trucks," the local commander explained, "but we had only 40 Red fighters in the town. I divided them equally at the four gates.

"The Japanese, using artillery from a quarter of a mile away, destroyed our west gate, but our men hiding on top of the wall never fired. When three truckloads of troops finally drew up to the city wall, we hurled hand grenades among them before the Japanese could dismount, killing 57. The rest retreated, leaving their dead behind."

—EVIDENCE FROM THE DEAD—

This, like most guerrilla stories, was substantiated by the display of Japanese rifles and clothing taken from the dead.

Night attacks on railway stations are favorite Red diversions. Scouts report the location of every house in which Japanese are living. Then guerrillas pounce on the sentry and rush the sleeping garrison before an alarm can be raised. The only purpose of such raids is to get military supplies, as the guerrillas retreat as soon as the Japanese send reinforcements.

In a week of travel through this new Red territory (only four months old) The Associated Press correspondent rode a Japanese officer's horse, ate Japanese dried fish and vegetables, slept in Japanese blankets, and inspected Japanese guns and ammunition at every Red battalion headquarters.

Bronzed Chinese farm boys who have been fighting the Japanese through a cold winter pull back ragged Chinese coats and display woolen Japanese garments beneath. They say they cannot wear the Japanese cloth on the outside; their own peasant guards would shoot them for Japanese at the next village.

—PRICED IN HUMAN LIVES—

Guerrilla leaders work methodically. They evaluate every military objective in terms of human life, as Lawrence did in Arabia. Capture of a railway station or destruction of a railway bridge, for instance, is considered worth three to five casualties. Capture of a large walled town with plenty of Japanese supplies is worth more—20 to 30 casualties.

Discipline is good. One of the methods of enforcing it is the oath which every Red soldier takes—that he won't retreat without orders and agrees to be executed if he does.

Contrary to Japanese reports, Red leaders say, the guerrillas never fight in plain clothes. All attacks by day or night, it is asserted, are made in uniform to protect the ordinary farmers against the Japanese charge of being guerrillas.

Most of the guerrillas are simple country boys, and the secret ambition of each one is to seize a Japanese wrist watch and fountain pen, the only luxuries allowed in this spartan organization. Cameras, field glasses, and pistols found on dead Japanese must be surrendered to Red headquarters.

The communists charge that in retaliation the Japanese have burned many villages.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—A tear and a smile—that's the formula for tale telling, if the eye-dew may be brushed away so the story leaves you laughing.

For instance, there's the stranger-than-fiction truth about Connie Boswell. She has been on the stage and in the movies. Her threnodies are popular on the radio. Her records sell 1,000 per cent above the average. She has fame. And she has fortune. Yet there was a time when life looked dreary to Connie Boswell.

Put a reverse toss on Time's flip-book and riffle back twenty years to a day when the second of Ma' and Pa' Boswell's three daughters was a little girl playing in the summer sunshine of gentle old New Orleans. There were dozens of other kids romping in the drowsing streets that afternoon, but it had to be the lively, leaping Boswell babe who got a ride in the home-made wagon of the neighbor's boy.

No one knows just how it happened. Really it doesn't make much difference. There was a scream and a crash. And Connie Boswell lay unconscious at the foot of a telegraph pole. At the hospital the surgeons looked seriously into the anxious eyes of the parents, then shook heads sadly. If she lived, they said, she'd never move again. The lively laughing child was paralyzed from the head down. It looked as if all light were out.

Undaunted by Paralysis

It must have been pretty discouraging for all the Boswells in the first few years that followed. But the indomitable Connie was cheerful all the time and her family mind was made up to give her every helping hand. So that's the way it was that, skipping over months of massage, mudbaths, constant care, Connie in her teens made the old Camp street home a rendezvous of the prep school beaux and belles. She couldn't walk, but she could make a wheel-chair do tricks. She could make a 'cello moan low, a banjo swing high.

Connie and the kids loved this musical harmonizing, and so did the critical audience composed of their classmates. After a while they became pretty much of a fixture at benefits and amateur theatricals down at the Gymnastic Club. And she knew by now that a theatrical career was what she lived to achieve.

Success—And Romance

Joe Schenck — not the movie man, but the Schenck of Van and Schenck, vaudeville headliners—"discovered" the Boswell talent. And with his help the old folks were persuaded to let their fledglings try their wings of song. It was still an instrument act, but by now standard melodies were being played in new rhythmic arrangements, with plenty of hot licks being dropped in at the right places. The try-out was in Chicago. After three days there was a contract for an RKO vaudeville tour which took a year.

Pictures came next — "Moulin Rouge", "The Big Broadcast," "Artists and Models" — and, of course, radio. Connie found herself a national idol on the airwaves, her trio as popular in singing either "sweet" or "hot" placing her in a class by herself.

Being less of an individualist, woman is more of a socially minded human than man.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, May 5—Painless tax collection (which will probably be about as free of pain as painless dentistry) is soon to be offered to the citizens by their considerate Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Morgenthau plans to decentralize the entire revenue system before the year is out. In future, instead of heartless and occasionally rapacious emissaries of a distant Washington, the tax collectors will be just home folks.

Seriously, the new plan will only be regretted by the leeching swarm of Washington lawyers and lobbyists now battening on innocents who have disagreed with the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The plan is so simple, so sensible that one wonders why no one ever thought of it before Henry Morgenthau.

At present, the power to decide tax disputes is lodged in the Washington Bureau of Internal Revenue. To its chilly marble halls, unhappy pleaders must come hat in hand, from Maine or Oregon, New Orleans or Chicago. The technical staff at the bureau, being perfectly unacquainted with local conditions, is chilly and more than impersonal. Collisions with the bureau are said to be worse for the blood pressure than any other form of contact with an often irritating government.

Now Mr. Morgenthau expects to delegate the bureau's powers to eleven regional offices. Whenever a revenuer and a citizen quarrel, the regional offices will judge the row on the spot and in the field, without long litigation or costly Washington expeditions. Each regional office will even have circuit riders attached to it, who will travel to smaller cities where disputes arise. Appeal will be taken direct from the regional offices to the board of tax appeals.. And the Washington bureau will survive merely as a standard-setting and supervisory agency.

THEY HEARD AN OUTCRY

The new plan is, in fact, an example of the sort of thing the Government can do if it cares to make life pleasanter for the people. And the story of its conception is a pretty good demonstration of how government ought to work.

For some time now, Mr. Morgenthau, who is at heart a sensitive fellow, has been disturbed by the outcry against his tax collection system. Some of the outcry was unjustified, for the most charming tax collectors are rarely beloved. Some of it was well supported by the facts.

Of course, Mr. Morgenthau could not do anything about the ardent treasury New Dealer—and there is one — whose first words are, "let me have that fellow's tax return," when he sees an anti-administration statement in the press. But Mr. Morgenthau was able to jail one agent who was making a tidy fortune out of advance inside knowledge of tax judgments, and banish one who was indulging in such petty graft as borrowing from taxpayers whose returns he had approved.

The same investigation which turned up these instances of wrong doing also suggested to Mr. Morgenthau that the whole system was at fault. It was too cumbrous, to distant and complex, particularly for the little fellow who cannot hire a Washington tax leech to fight a $50 judgment.

TRIAL IN LOS ANGELES

Mr. Morgenthau promptly called in Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and his own Special Assistant, Harold N. Graves. Mr. Graves is a tall, egg-bald, slow-spoken fellow, who has served the Government for thirty years in the Postoffice, Commerce and Treasury departments successively. At present he is the Morgenthau troubleshooter, relied on for such difficult tasks as improving the customs system and setting up the alcohol tax units.

Mr. Morgenthau suggested to Messrs. Helvering and Graves that the Treasury might imitate the Farm Credit Administration. Before his elevation to the Treasury, he had been administrator, and had installed a decentralized mechanism there. It had worked well, and he saw no reason why the same decentralization could not be applied to tax collection.

The other two offered no objection and it was decided to start a trial regional office in Los Angeles, with authority over all tax collection in Southern California and Arizona. Two months ago, the office was established, under the supervision of the trouble-shooting Mr. Graves. To date, the tax dispute rate in the Los Angeles regional offices has fallen from 1,400 to 500 cases a year. Settlements have been so accelerated that it's calculated litigation in the average case will take a year less. The whole tax protest system has been easier and more workable.

In sum, the experiment has been a success, and therefore the decision has just been made to extend the regional office mechanism until it includes the entire country. Perhaps Mr. Morgenthau has acted just in time. Taxpayers have been growing toughy lately.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

I JUST FORGET

I never yet a fruit have found
That hadn't started underground
And long ago. As like as not
The seed, the time, I both forgot
And plucked the fruit, or threw away,
As though it happened just today.

I never yet a tree have seen
That wasn't once a blade of green
But inches high. Forgot, I guess,
It takes a lifetime, more or less,
And broke a branch or bent a bough,
Still bent another life from now.

I never yet could come and go
But it took years to make it so,
And tears, and blood. Yet liberties
I'd peddle for a little ease,
Exempt from toil, excused from debt.
It must be that I just forget.

WARM WEATHER IS CONTINUING

April Third Consecutive Month Warmer Than Normal

The month of April was the third consecutive month this spring in which the temperature was above normal, according to the regular monthly meteorological summary issued yesterday by W. T. Lathrop, local meteorologist.

With a mean temperature of 40.4, this was the warmest April since 1925. Normal temperature for the month is 37.9 degrees, average daily departure being 2.5 degrees. This figure is less, however, than the average daily departure since January 1, which is 3.6 degrees.

The warmest day of the month was the 19th when the thermometer registered 66 degrees while the low was 19 on the sixth.

Snowfall during the past month was but 0.5 inches, the least of any April since 1931. This is in contrast to Chicago's 13.5 inches.

In addition to being warm, April was a windy month, the average velocity being 11.6 miles per hour. This mark has been exceeded only in two instances in Escanaba history, in 1921 and 1907.

Only four days of the month were clear, seven were partly cloudy and 19 cloudy. There was measurable precipitation on 13 days with trace on seven more.

Handicraft Project Receives Approval

Washington, D. C.,—Congressman John Luecke, of the 11th Mich. District, today announced that Executive approval has been given W.P.A. project No. O.P. 465-51-3-106, State Serial No. 20780.

The project, signed by the President on April 26, 1938, carries an allotment of $62,050 in Federal funds to provide employment for needy professional, educational and clerical persons to teach handicraft arts and trades to the needy. Articles produced will be distributed free of charge to public institutions, to the needy, or used in collections or exhibits in furthering education in historical data and the conservation of natural resources.

The project will operate in Alger, Baraga, Delta, Dickinson, Marquette, Menominee and Ontonagon counties, with headquarters for purposes of supervision at Iron Mountain, Mich. The project is sponsored by the State Department of Conservation and is now awaiting confirmation by the Comptroller General, Washington, D.C., which is expected at an early date.

Doings About Capitol

Lansing—Liberal doses of 1938 economics are being fed to Michigan citizens this spring. It's a giddy whirl!

First, Senator Vandenberg goes on the air in rousing denounciation of Roosevelt's new pump priming campaign.

Second, Governor Murphy speaks on a coast-to-coast network endorsing liberal public spending as a cure for depression sickness with a reservation or two to the effect that congress should also remove unreasonable handicaps to business.

The liberal spending policy by government looms as one of the issues of the 1938 campaign in Michigan. Murphy defends his increasing state deficit as being caused only by the present depression. Yet while more state millions are being authorized for public relief, Budget Director Harold Smith is studying methods to effect drastic economies for the new fiscal year beginning July 1. This would mean less spending, not more, at Lansing.

Additional Taxes

The governor has always insisted that public spending must be done with a balanced budget. At the legislative council session here last week, he declared that additional taxes would be necessary until the relief burden was reduced in the near future.

Thus we have a prospect of more state and local taxes for 1939. Greater expenditures inevitably necessitate a greater tax load. Someone has to pay the piper, and it's usually the man back home.

Will the state set an example by reducing payrolls and otherwise cutting its spending? The 1938 situation in Michigan has interesting contradictory possibilities.

Annual Wage Blasted

As we pointed out in this column a month ago, the annual wage proposal appears to be an economic mirage to Michigan automobile workers.

It's all right for the Hormel meat packing company in Minnesota, because regardless of prosperity or depression we still have to eat. But the experience of the last depression taught us that people don't have to buy new automobiles. When times are hard, they delay the purchase of new furniture, new automobiles, and so on.

At the White House the other day, Henry Ford blasted rumors that he was planning to inaugurate an annual wage for workers in his River Rouge industrial empire. He informed Roosevelt, so Detroit reporters were informed, that the law of supply-and-demand still prevails. For that reason he said it was "silly" to talk about fixed production, fixed wages, and other arbitrary floors and ceilings in the automobile industry.

But don't be surprised if you hear of a "monthly wage".

It is being studied as a feasible step, if only a modest one, towards the desired goal of increasing the worker's security.

Profit Sharing

Of interest to Michigan citizens, because industrial payrolls here have slimped 41 per cent within 12 months—the greatest decline in any state in the nation—is the effort by Senator Vandenberg at Washington to get a modest $30,000 appropriation for a federal survey of profit sharing systems for factory workers.

Gar Wood, famous sportsman, is introducing the idea to his Michigan plants. Twenty per cent of declared dividends will be set aside for profit sharing among his employees. Wages are not being cut.

Furthermore, Wood is cutting his own salary 50 per cent.

Gar Wood is making his coworkers "dividend conscious." And that means just this—they are going to read corporation statements with new interest. Payroll taxes, profit taxes, and other charges against the business mean less profits for the worker. The idea is revolutionary.

$100 Month WPA Pay

Left-wing leaders in the Michigan C. I. O. ranks are making plenty of trouble for John Lewis.

Here are some recent developments:

Lack of responsibility as evidenced by Flint dues picketing in violation to signed agreements.

Strike vote by Chevrolet and Buick employees at Flint at a time when one of every three persons in Flint is already on relief.

Demand by the state C. I. O. council for a $100 a month minimum "wage" for WPA workers, and for more generous relief allowances.

According to reports from Detroit, Lewis himself is not in sympathy with the extreme demands of the United Automobile Workers. Like grabbing a bull by the tail, he doesn't know when to leave loose. The Michigan C. I. O. is the bull in Lewis' china-closet—and no fooling!

Housing Problem

Raymond M. Foley, state FHA director, has announced that $11,000,000 in residential insurance applications have been filed to date in Michigan. Under recent amendments effective Feb. 4, 90 per cent of the loan on a home costing up to $6,000 can be insured by the federal government.

Foley forecasts a marked increase in home building.

Unless the legislature is called into special session this year, federal slum clearance funds will be limited to Detroit according to terms of the state housing act. This restriction has irked housing leaders in Flint, Jackson, Grand Rapids and other industrial centers. Pressure has been applied by these cities, but so far in vain. Because of the political risk involved in a special session before the 1938 primaries, chances are 3 to 1 that Murphy will not accede to requests.

PROSPECTS FOR FLYING GOOD

About 20 Pilots Now in Activity; Visiting Planes Expected

Escanaba airport officials are looking for one of the most active years in local history and are making preparations to care for a large number of visiting planes, Wally Arntzon, airport manager, said yesterday.

Seven ships carrying 15 passengers visited the local airport during the month of April, acording to a report given to city manager George Bean yesterday. Net revenues for the month amounted to $43.58, the report said.

An extensive campaign to advertise the local airport will be undertaken this year, the first of its kind in the history of the local airport. Information about local facilities will be supplied to various flying centers throughout the country in hopes of attracting visiting ships.

With the five individual hangars almost complete, the airport can care for several ships more than it did last year. The hangars are being constructed by WPA labor and will be ready for occupation within a few weeks.

At present, there are about 20 fliers, solo and dual, now working out of the local airport. New students are being signed weekly and interest in aviation appears to be at its height.

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

THE MODERNIZED VERSION

To The Editor: The United States version of the Twenty-third Psalm ought to beth is:

"With Roosevelt and La Follette my shepherds, I am in want.

"They make me lie down on park benches, they lead me beside the still factories.

"Disturbing my soul, they lead me in the paths of destruction for their parties' sake.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadows of recession, I anticipate no recovery, for they are with me—their policies and diplomacies.

"They prepare for me a reduction in salary And in the presence of my enemies they anoint my small savings with taxes. My expense runneth over.

"Surely unemployment and poverty shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in a mortgaged house forever. Amen."

POLICE WORK GETS HEAVIER

Cases Handled by City Forces Doubles Over Previous Year

A total of 897 city and state cases was handled by the city police force during the fiscal year, which ended March 31, according to a report of Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhofer to city manager George Bean.

This figure more than doubles the number of cases handled last year. Of the 897 cases handled this year, 627 were city cases and 270 state cases. Traffic violations contributed the largest number, 179 arrests being made for overtime parking, 122 for incorrect parking, 50 for parking in bus zones and 12 for making U-turns. Eight cases of motor drunk were taken to court.

During the past year, the department made a total of 4,484 calls, collected $3,588.05 in fines and costs to be turned over to the city and county treasurers, turned in $379 from city scale fees and $231 for the sale of operators licenses

Two hundred and seventy nine dogs were exterminated.

The chief reports 744 local fingerprints on file, 969 outside prints and 123 personal prints.

Concrete Streets Resist Spring "Break-Ups"... Save Thousands of Dollars for Taxpayers

IT'S tough on everyone when spring thaws break up your streets. Business suffers when streets are closed for repairs. Motorists don't like the muddy chuckholes and ruts. And taxpayers pay the repair bills.

The answer is to pave with concrete—safe, smooth-riding and trouble-free the year around. Skid-resistant, wet or dry. Permanently free from mud, ruts and bumps.

Remember, too, concrete costs less to build as well as to maintain than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity. Be sure your streets are paved with concrete.

MINSTREL WILL BE ON MAY 13

End Men Are Chosen for Annual "E-Men's" Production

The E-Men's "Lucky Thirteen" Minstrel will be presented with an air which defies the superstitions connected with the date,

TICKETS RESCERVED
Reserve tickets will be available at the junior high school beginning Saturday morning at eight o'clock.

Friday, May 13 at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium.

Rehearsals for the eighth annual minstrer with the six gag pulling darkies entertaining and their interlocutor are now under way with Principal Edward E. Edick directing the cross fire. R. P. Bowers is handling the musical numbers.

The end men who will be fed by questions from interlocutor Dick Thompson are Thor Nilsen, Ray Eis, Bill Peterson, Robert Ouimette, Lawrence Grenier, and Charles Thatcher. The black boys and their interlocutor will add to their act by singing a minstrel number and a popular song. Dick Thompson will sing "Caint Yo Heah Me Callin' Caroline" and "It's Wonderful" as the interlocutor. End man Thor Nilsen will sing "Brother Noah Gave Out Checks for Rain" and "The New Apple Tree"; Ray Eis has "Old Man River" and "Heigh Ho"; Bill Peterson starts with "Meenie From Meenisota" and finishes with "Whistle While You Work"; Robert Ouimette sings "Good Night, Elaine," and "On the Sentimental Side;" Lawrence Grenier croons "Minstrel Strut" and "Sissy"; and Charles Thatcher finishes with "Much Obliged to You" and "Good Night Angel."

A feature of the evening in the way of a different surprise is promised but is being kept secret.

The chorus of girls chosen by Mr. Bowers is composed of Marguerite Osier, Pearl Laviolette, Ileen Anderson, Anna Mae Thompson, Ruth Smith, Betty Logan, Gloria Larson, Rose Mary LaCrosse, Eileen Benne, and Selma Bentson.

75 PURCHASES MADE AT SALE

Delta County Delinquent Tax Land Brings Only $5,000

Only 75 parcels of Delta county land were sold for taxes during the reading of the delinquent tax list, which was finished yesterday morning. The list was the largest in the history of the county, with 8, 245 land descriptions offered for sale, but the selling was slow throughout the reading of descriptions. The state of Michigan is conducting the sale, through the office of Ralph R. Olson, Delta county treasurer.

Only 8 Escanaba descriptions found purchasers, and there were only 2 Gladstone parcels sold. Other tax delinquent lands which were sold were distributed evenly throughout the county, Olson stated yesterday .

Over 4,000 land descriptions were read during the first day, when a total of 30 purchases were made by buyers who paid taxes amounting to about $400.

Few persons were present at the county courtroom during the reading of descriptions of delinquent tax lands, and little interest has been shown in the sale according to County Treasurer Olson.

Sales Tax Collections for April Increase Over March

Sales tax collections during April showed an increase over the previous month's total for the first time since the start of 1938, it was revealed in figures released today by Draper Allen, Managing Director of the State Board of Tax Administration.

The April yield from the sales tax amounted to $3,708,389.52 as compared with collections of $3,314,340.03, an increase of $394,049.49. The total, however, was slightly more than a million dollars less than the collections for April 1937. This was partially accounted for by the fact that most of this year's Easter business will be reflected in the May collections while the tax on the Easter trade a year ago was collected in April.

Collections in the Detroit office were about $75,000 ahead of those in the Lansing office. Most of the large chains doing a state wide business and having their main office located in Detroit are now making their payments at the Wayne county branch office of the sales tax instead of at Lansing.

Use tax collections in April continued to show a steady climb. A total of $40,627.61 was realized from this source as compared with $36,555.87 in March. The use tax collections have increased each month since the levy has been in effect and the total yield now amounts to $153,922.60.

STEAM WILL GO AHEAD SLOWLY

Location of Proposed Waterplant Affects Expansion

In spite of the fact that revenues accrued from the first five months of operation have been highly satisfactory, further progress in central steam in Escanaba will move slowly, City Manager George Bean said yesterday.

Expansion, Bean said, within the next year or two will be motivated by outside interests rather than by the city administration. The reason for the change in policy is that the administration is desirous of awaiting final decision as to the site of the proposed water plant.

If the water plant site is changed from its present location to a spot in the vicinity of the postoffice building, the city will be able to combine gas, water and steam very effectively and reduce the rates on all three utilities. If such a project is effected, dimensions of steam mains and equipment would have to be altered from their present status.

Gross revenue to the city from the sale of steam for the first five months of operation amounted to $2,800, according to a report issued by the city manager yesterday. This figure, he said, will be approximately $3,000 when the regular steam service is curtailed for the summer months on June 1. Bean estimates the net profit will be about $1,200 for the five months.

FAIR TOUR TO STOP IN CITY

New York Celebration's Good Will Car Will Visit Escanaba

Escanaba has been designated as one of the key cities to be visited by a good-will tour of officials of the New York World's Fair, according to information received by Harold P. Lindsay, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, from Grover Whalen, president of the exposition.

One of the 49 automobiles which are visiting every state in the Union and Washington, D. C., will stop here on the afternoon of May 20, bearing the greetings of New York Fair officials.

A local committee has been appointed to arrange a program for the members of the tour. Those serving on the committee, which held its first session yesterday afternoon, are Fred Earle, Harold Gessner, R. E. Olson, Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhofer, Norbert Reidy, E. J. French and Dewey Meunier.

The good-will car is scheduled to arrive at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and will be met at the city limits by a police escort. The visitors will be conducted to the city hall, where they will be greeted by Mayor Peter Logan and City Manager George E. Bean. They will be guests at a luncheon at the Sherman hotel.

The good-will car which will stop here was in Lansing yesterday, where the keys to the fair were presented to Governor Frank Murphy. The New York fair opens on April 30, 1939.

Theatres

At the Delft

Uproarious and star-glorious, with band-leading hits by Bullock and Spina, and Gordon and Revel, 20th Century-Fox's "Sally, Irene and Mary" is Darryl F. Zanuck's newest contribution to screen entertainment.

Currently at the Delft Theatre, the hit-maker's latest effort brings Alice Faye and Tony Martin to head the cast with Fred Allen, of radio's "Town Hall Tonight."

Alice and Tony sing the tunefullest songs ever heard and Fred keeps the mirth running when he tries to run a Hudson River showboat jam-full of joyful pepper-uppers. Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante is in the show too, with some brand new Durantics.

Gregory Ratoff, Joan Davis, Marjorie Weaver and Louise Hovick are also featured in the film, which was directed by William A. Seiter.

Christmas Party In May Inspired By Hardy Tree

Mrs. Louise Isaacson, 214 North 18th street, who has just returned from a visit dating from the day after Christmas, to find the decorated Christmas tree she had left in her home, still as fresh and green as it was during the holidays, decided to have a Christmas party in May.

She entertained a group of close friends Tuesday evening, and the customary holiday decorations with red tapers predominating, and an exchange of gifts featured the party.

Cards were played during the evening, Miss Florence Londerville holding high score and Mrs. George Kjellberg, second high, and a holiday lunch was served later in the evening.

Mrs. Isaacson spent the past four months with her daughter, Mrs. McRae, in Clinton, Iowa, and with relatives in Green Bay.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Women ought to think a while before they left financial burdens from men. Because as a general thing men like to do the providing.

Depression—recession—or prosperity, the feeling doesn't change. And it is just as strong in the young man who refuses to go "Dutch treat" for an evening with the girl of his choice as it is in the husband who would gladly forego an inflated style of living to have his wife take all her orders from him.

It isn't a logical feeling in an age when girls are being almost as well-trained for work as men and when two pay envelopes are often necessary to keep a family.

But still it is there, and women are foolish to ignore it. If working is a necessity—well and good. Well and good, too, for the woman who is working because she would be lost without her job.

But if a woman is getting up every morning and going to an office just to lighten a husband's financial burden, she might do well to listen to her husband's first protests. Chiefly because the protests are likely to stop soon.

• • •

Instead of laughing when he says that he wants to take care of her she might do well to encourage the feeling. A man likes to think that a woman couldn't get along without him. It gives him an excuse for being. Just as a woman needs to feel that a man would be lost without her subtle guidance.

And if it is a matter of pride with him, that, too, is important.

As for the matter of girls paying their way before they are married, that is takin g care of itself. Young people are voting it down. When a young man asks a girl for a date—he wants to pay. And if she is smart she won't suggest anything else.

Even when put to a vote by a number of the younger generation, with both sexes having their say, the answer was "No" to Dutch treats. Young people reaching the dating age today think the young men should do the paying, despite the fact that many etiquette authorities champion "fifty-fifty" evenings.

Women's willingness to pay their way hasn't met with as much gratitude as they expected. If they were smart, right about now they would say, "Let's forget it."

TRIPLE COVER BAG

If your accessory budget allows for only one purse, a bag with detachable covers is economical and versatile. One roomy handbag of this type has a clever handle and three separate covers—plain navy or black to accent a gay print, a dashing figured cover to point up a dark sheer frock, or vivid Roman stripes to contrast a tailored suit. The covers simply snap on.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

"Tip-Off Girls" and "Rawhide" are on the Delft Theatre double feature program today and Saturday.

The sinister connection between girls who want thrills and men who want loot is made the subject of a bold screen attack in "Tip-Off Girls", Paramount's drama of the highway hijacking racket.

For its daring expose of this racket, which last year took an estimated fifty million dollars in tribute from American industry, Paramount selected a cast of experienced dramatic players. Heading the cast is Lloyd Nolan, who has the Hollywood distinction of having been such a successful screen villain that the fans demanded the studio make a hero out of him. He played important roles in "The Plainsman" and "Wells Fargo."

The slugging star first baseman of the World Champion New York Yankees teams up with singin' scrappin' Smith Ballew in a happy blending of colorful romance and thrilling action in the new 20th Century-Fox release, "Rawhide."

It's a new type of war on the range, with "Larrupin' Lou" Gehrig dropping his baseball spikes for spurs and trading his bat for a six-gun—to team up with the popular singing cowboy in driving the rustler-racketeers out of the West.

The two stars are ably supported by beautiful Evalyn Knapp who plays the role of Gehrig's sister.

AT THE MICHIGAN

Dancing in the clouds one minute—knee deep in a murder case the next!

Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen plan their honeymoon in Manhattan's highest hi-de-ho spot, only to find what they think is "just another routine murder case" is just about the most exciting mystery of the year.

"Island In The Sky" brings these screen sweethearts together again 70 stories above Broadway, 70 times more excitement, thrills, unexpected laughs and romantic romance than you ever could imagine pack this new 20th Century-Fox hit, opening today at the Michigan Theatre.

When Assistant District Attorney Michael Whalen announces his engagement to secretary Gloria Stuart at the "Island In The Sky" night club, Paul Hurst marches in with news of a new murder which knocks the couple's plans for a honeymon into indefinite postponement.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 326): "The purpose and motive to live aright can be gained now. Working and praying with true motives, your Father will open the way."

Winifred Royce Prominent in School Event

Winifred Royce of Escanaba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Royce, is actively engaged in preparing for Veishea at Iowa State college, the annual three-day open house to be held May 12, 13 and 14. She is working on a float, Veishea Vodvil, cherry pies, home economics open house and publicity.

Veishea, the only collegiate open house of its kind in the world, is essentially a student production. There will be open houses on Friday, May 13, in each of the 45 departments and their laboratories, including a whole bevy of comely co-eds dispensing 3,000 cherry pies which they have baked themselves in home economics kitchens. The type of work done by graduates in agriculture, engineering, industrial science, home economics and veterinary medicine will be exemplified.

All departments in every division will also enter floats in the traditional Veishea parade to climax the celebration, Saturday afternoon, May 14, at 1:30.

Over 1500 Iowa farm boys are expected to attend the sixteenth annual High School Agricultural Congress held during Veishea. The annual Homecoming Congress is expected to bring over 800 Iowa high school girls.

Athletic events include two polo games—one with Missouri and one with Illinois; two baseball games with Nebraska; golf with Grinnell and Carleton; track with Drake.

Sunday School Teachers Meet

A joint meeting of Sunday school teachers will be held at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church at Hyde this evening at eight o'clock. Teachers of the following Lutheran churches are to attend: St. Paul's Hyde; Grace, Powers, and Trinity, Hermansville.

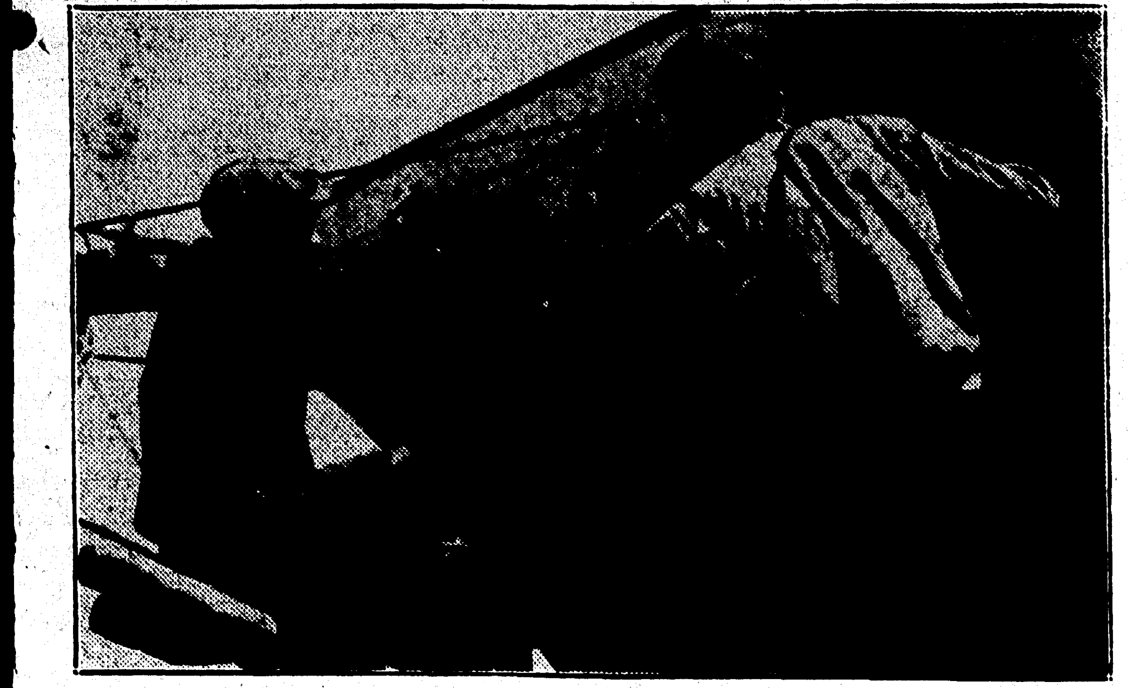
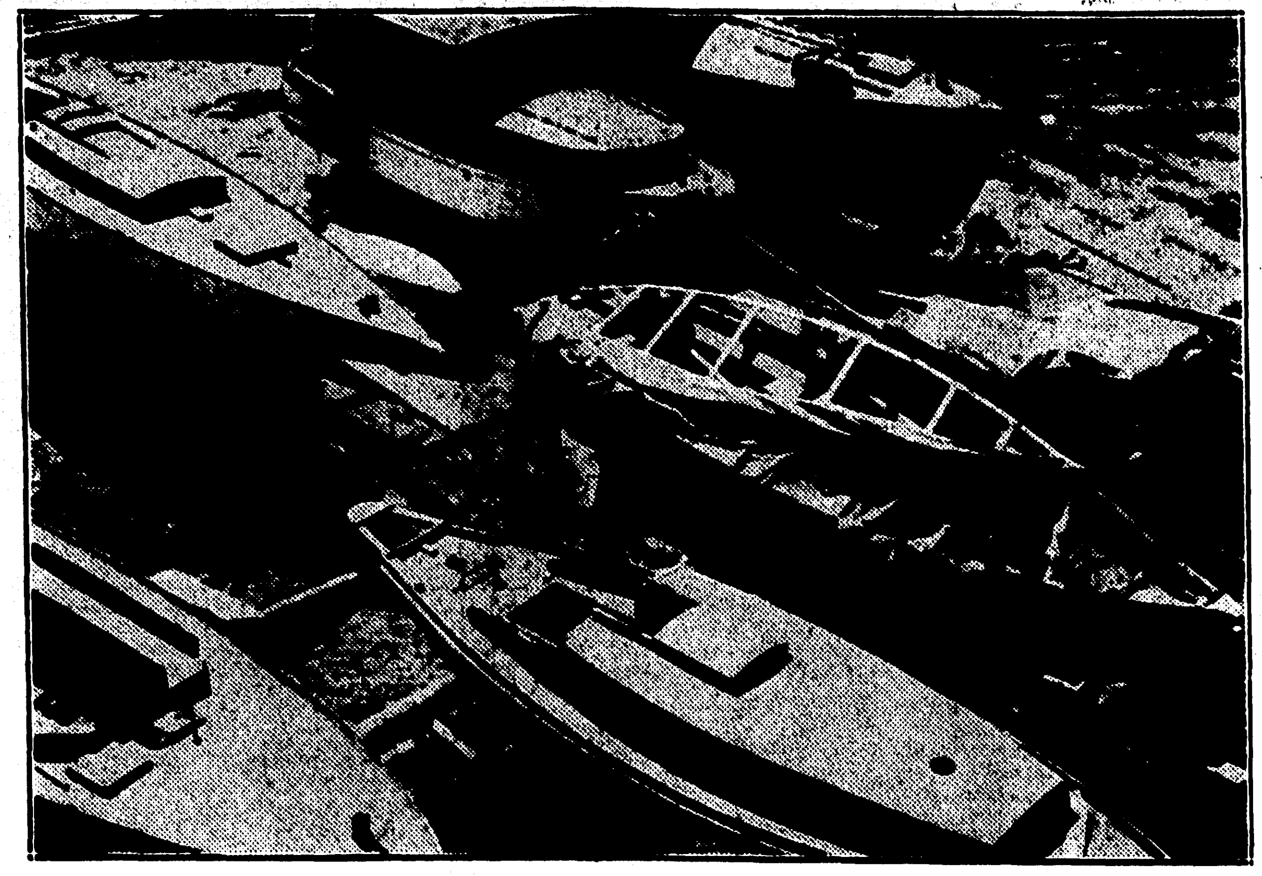
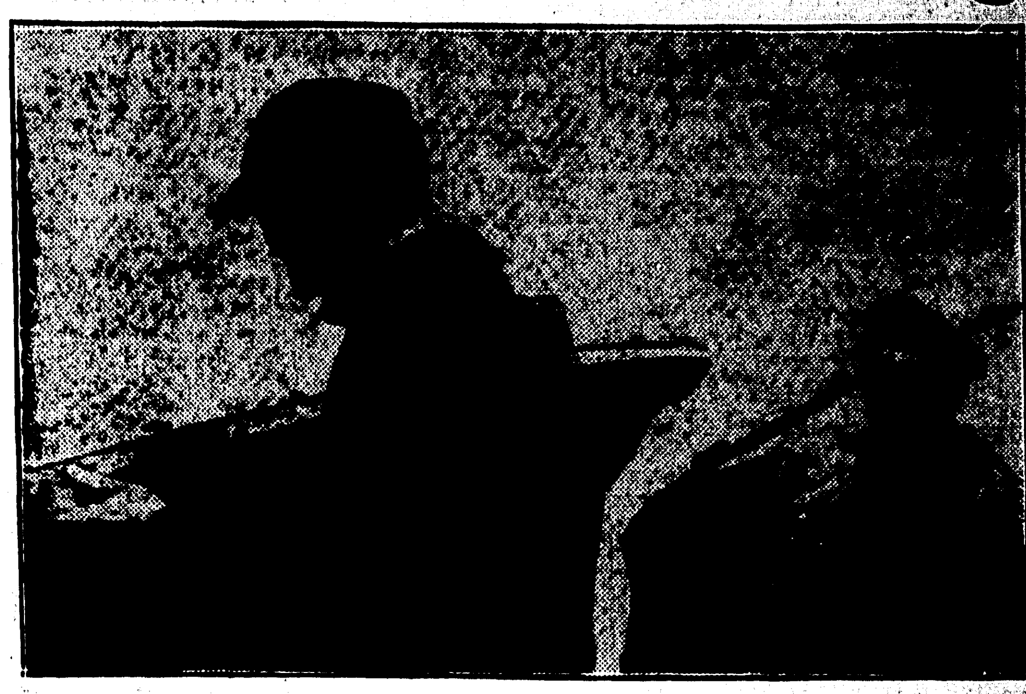
Escanaba Yachtsmen Scrape And Paint Their Craft For Launching







Scraping and painting hulls, sanding and varnishing decks and overhauling gear, local yachting enthusiasts have been busy the past few weeks with preparations for the opening of the yachting season. Ken Mallman is shown above painting identification numbers on Vice-Commodore Charles Stoll's Mindemoya, largest of the local craft.

Power and sailing cruisers of the Escanaba Yacht club fleet (right) are drawn up on shore in the local boatyard beside the municipal yacht basin. It is here that fitting-out activities are going on as the boats are made ready for launching. According to many local yachtsmen, half the fun of sailing is in preparing craft for the water during fitting out season and in making repairs and adjustments after the boats are in the water.

FAIR BOARD TO HOLD MEET

Running Race Program Will Be Decided on May 12

Whether running races will be held at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba August 9 to 14 will be decided definitely at a meeting of the full board of managers here Thursday, May 12. The meeting will start at 10 a. m.

Ed Dowling, member of the Michigan state racing commission, will attend the meeting to advise the board concerning various phases of the racing game.

Officials believe that this year's fair, with the new program of events that will be offered, will be the biggest in the history of the institution. The world's championship log rolling tournament will be held again this year. Sol's Liberty Shows, one of the outstanding carnivals on the road, will provide the midway attractions. Thrill Day on Wednesday, August 10, will be featured by two sensational shows, Jimmie Lynch and his Death Dodgers and Capt. Frakes, daredevil aviator.

The board of fair managers has decided that there will be no passes issued to anyone this year. The general gate admission fee also has been increased from 25 to 35 cents.

The board members are: Nicholas J. Niks, Munising; Louis J. Hillyer, Baraga; Verne Lipsett, Pickford; J. H. Boyle, Bark River; George Nygaard, Metropolitan; Frank L. Van Gorder, Ironwood; Isaac N. Haas, Houghton; August Casagranda, Crystal Falls; James Jackson, Jr., Keweenaw; John A. Barrett, Newberry; Aloysius Roggenbuck, Moran; Timothy Hurley, Marquette; Charles J. Salewski, Menominee; John Spargo, Ontonagon; G. R. Matthews, Manistique.

Opium planting in the Jehol province of China has been increased. The Japanese regard opium as a profitable crop and encourage its cultivation by cutting the production tax in half.

Boatyard Odors Mingle With Breeze at Harbor

A sure sign that spring is really here is the activity at the Escanaba municipal yacht harbor boatyard. The visitor can test his senses there, as he hears the rythmic thump of the caulking hammer, the whir of the sanding machine and the nautical conversation of skippers and crews as they argue the merits of kinds of paint, varnish or rigging. The odor of fresh paint, tar, treated rope and pine, cedar and cypress shavings mingles with the clean smell of the breeze blowing in off the bay.

And what a cosmopolitan crowd of men one finds there, dressed in dirty dungarees, their faces taking on a lethery color as they strain at good, hard work they all enjoy. They are men whose social contacts differ widely, but whose common hobby brings them together on a common ground.

Near one boat we find a gentleman farmer directing a crew of painters; here a timber buyer whose boat one would recognize by its beautiful towering spars; here a painter whose vessel is the last word in shining paint and varnish although the age of its hull is so great that nobody can remember when she was first launched; here a lawyer questioning all local experts on a job he is considering and then basing a decision of his own upon the evidence they have presented; here a school teacher directing a couple of helpers in the proper manner of sanding a hull with the least possible effort and best results; here a carpenter whose boat anyone would know by the expert craftsmanship displayed in its snug, new cabin; here a truck owner calmly going about the business of making an old hull look like a new one; here a book keeper's boat, easily distinguished by its exact appointments looking for all the world like a neat row of figures, and whose owner keeps a card index of equipment; here an insurance man's boat, equipped in the latest and safest in fire extinguishers; here a hardware man's, carrying all the latest gadgets in brightly polished brass. Who owns that motor craft covered with canvas? A peep under the cover reveals a bright and shining motor. You guessed it—he is a mechanic.

Some of the local craft are already in the water, and all will be launched by the middle of May. Then the friendly rivalry will start again, with arguments over whose boat is fastest and whose can "point up" into the wind most sharply. And as one vessel passes another there may be a short length of rope dangled over the stern, which is a subtle way of asking "want a tow?"

After launching, trials and much polishing of brasses, the local craft will be ready for the first yachting event of the season, the Yacht Parade on June 19.

Michigan In Washington

The Democratic members of the Michigan delegation—five Detroiters, Sadowski, O'Brien, Lesinski, Rabaut, Dingell and three out-staters, Hook, Luecke and Transue—are pleading with Governor Frank Murphy that those party culprits of the election recount of 1934 had been punished enough.

Of those accused of "blue-pencilling" in the recount who are still serving sentence are Elmer O'Hara, former state chairman, and A. J. Wilkowski, state senator.

Voiced through the chairman of the group, George G. Sadowski, the Democrats stress that the offense charged against the recounters sprang out of a terrific and bitter political fight of 1934, which extended into the trial and court room.

Henry Ford came to the White House not long ago but the New Deal did not announce the visit as a victory.

Now a withdrawal of a case by the National Labor Relations Board before the United States Court of Appeals at Covington, Kentucky, seeking to compel the Ford Motor Company to obey an order issued in 1927 is considered a victory for Ford.

The case deals with issues raised by Ford counsel in public hearings held last summer in Detroit. The order issued by N. L. R. B. called on the Ford Motor Company to reinstate 29 discharged employees and to cease interfering with efforts of employees to organize. It also would dissolve the Ford Brotherhood, which the N. L. R. B. claimed was a company union.

The Ford counsel protested that the company had not been permitted to present all of the testimony it desired.

To political and labor observers the motion filed at Covington indicates a now policy of the N. L. R. B. No longer, it is said, will examiners reject evidence made by employers, when the examiner thinks sufficient testimony has been heard.

LOCAL I.O.O.F. TO CELEBRATE

Odd Fellows and Phoebe Rebekahs Observe Founders Week

Members of the local Odd Fellows, Impellant Lodge No. 460, I. O. O. F., and Phoebe Rebekah Lodge No. 179 will participate jointly in the fraternity's program to observe Founders Week with special ceremonies to be held this evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. Founders Week, which closes tonight, is the 119th anniversary of the founding of the Odd Fellows order in America.

Thomas Wildey and five associates started the order in Baltimore, Md., in 1819. It was instituted in the state of Michigan in 1843, and in 1868 the Escanaba Lodge No. 118 I. O. O. F. was instituted. It was combined with Impellant Lodge No. 460, I. O. O. F. on February 10, 1913. It was one of the city's first lodges.

A variety program, with Charles N. Wood as master of ceremonies, has been arranged by a joint program committee for tonight's meeting. Lunch will be served following the program, and dancing and card games will be enjoyed. All visiting members of the order are invited to attend the program for the evening.

On Monday evening, May 16, Captain Milton Saxon and his Initiatory Degree team will exemplify the Initiatory Degree at the local hall. On Saturday afternoon, May 21, the candidates and several members will travel to Newberry, where Ahmeek Lodge No. 150 I. O. O. F. of Ishpeming will confer the First Degree at the William J. Collins district association meeting.

According to many scientists of today, the earth had a diameter of only about 5500 miles when it first came into existence. Then, by drawing planetesimals into itself, it grew to a diameter of 8100 miles, but shrinkage and buckling now has reduced its diameter to 7926 miles.

Other Upper Peninsula aviators who will participate in the flights which are a part of the National Air Mail Week program, are Mario Fontana of Iron Mountain, Norman J. Shaffer of Ontonagon and Sigard Wilson of Marquette.

They will pick up mail at 25 stops in the peninsula and deliver it to Sault Ste. Marie, which will be in the terminal of the first airmail service in the peninsula. This service is expected to be started during the summer bids on the route have been opened May 3. In the Lock City the mail will be transferred to a plane which will fly to Detroit.

Many of the cacheted envelopes will go to stamp collectors throughout the country, advised of the special flights through stories in Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee newspapers and philatelic magazines. Already Dr. John N. Lowe, cachet director, has received requests for covers, as cacheted envelopes are known to stamp collectors.

The Postoffice Department is issuing a new six-cent airmail stamp in connection with National Air Mail Week and the new issue will be available for use on May 19, John S. Courtney, Marquette Postmaster, and member of the committee promoting the flight, announced. The stamp will go on sale May 14 at Dayton, Ohio, the home of the Wright brothers who were first to fly a heavier-than-air machine, and at St. Petersburg, Fla., where the first passenger flight was made.

Upper Peninsula flyers who will carry the airmail, their stops and the time of departure from the fields follow:

DEATH CLAIMS MAX KURZ, 65

Was Engaged in Stable Business Here for Many Years

Max Kurz, 65, well known former Escanaba resident, died in Chicago yesterday morning after an illness of several months duration. He had recently returned from Florida, where he spent the winter in an effort to recover his health.

Mr. Kurz was born in Germany. He immigrated to this country and settled in Iron Mountain in 1898, where he and his brother, Mose, entered in the business of buying and selling horses. The Kurz brothers partnership also opened a sales stable in Escanaba at the same time, with Mose Kurz in charge. When he died in 1914, Max Kurz moved to Escanaba to take over the business, which later branched out into the automobile and truck sales field.

Mr. Kurz disposed of his business interests here in 1930 and moved to Chicago, where he served as president of the Western Chain company.

He was a member of the Masonic, Elks and Modern Woodmen lodges.

He was unmarried. Surviving are a brother, Solomon, Chicago, and two sisters, Mrs. Johanna Deutelbaum, Chicago, and Mrs. Julia Samter, Detroit.

Funeral services will be held in Chicago Friday. William Clark, who was associated with Mr. Kurz in business here for many years, will attend the funeral.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

BOXING CONTROL SETUP PRAISED

Opposition of New York Group Is Rapped by Edward C. Foster

BY ALAN GOULD

New York, May 5. (AP) — Notwithstanding New York's "hands off" policy toward the newly-formed International Boxing association, working machinery has been set in motion to bring about the closest approach to universal pugilistic control since punch-tossing was legalized anywhere.

This was the word brought back today by Edward C. Foster of Providence, R. I., executive secretary of the National Boxing association, from the Rome conference that resulted in establishment of the I. B. A.

Foster not only hailed the new international setup as "the greatest thing that has happened for boxing's benefit in 25 years" but quickly took issue with the negative attitude of Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

Phelan Contradicted

Phelan also was at Rome but his participation, Foster asserted, consisted principally in banging the conference table with the book containing the New York commission's fistic regulations and insisting, "There's the law, gentlemen, and we propose to stand by it."

Foster not only confirmed that agreement was reached on the world championship list, exactly as now recognized in this country, but contradicted Phelan's assertion that two other major objectives of the U. S. delegates were not reached.

"The conference adopted the 'no-foul' rule, with the exception that England agreed, for the time being, only to advocate use of the foulproof cup," Foster explained. "Agreement also was reached upon 15 rounds as the standard for all world championship matches, except where existing national regulations specify differently."

Foster added that South Africa, where 12 rounds now is the limit, soon would seek a 20-round law and, in addition, apply for associate membership in the National Boxing association of the United States. The N. B. A. now represents 37 states in this country, as well as the boxing control organizations of Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Title Race Standardized

The most important stabilization move made at Rome, in Foster's belief, was to set up a "world professional boxing championship commission." Its purposes are to standardize title recognition, already achieved, and to list championship contenders by the consensus method, on a monthly basis.

The seven-man membership of this commission originally included three Americans, Phelan, Foster and Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, who was represented by proxy at Rome by Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune. Phelan has already served notice of his withdrawal. Colonel Middleton, the British delegate, was elected secretary and will be the clearing house for fistic ratings of the commission.

"It looks like we will have to do the best we can without the support of Phelan or the New York commission," commented Foster. "Phelan went to Rome without authority to act. His attitude contrasts with that of the representatives of 21 nations, all seeking and achieving agreement on matters of basic importance to boxing."

Ypsi Will Dedicate New Athletic Plant

Ypsilanti, Mich., May 5 (AP)—Michigan State Normal college's new $150,000 athletic plant, the gift of Walter O. Briggs, owner of the Detroit Tigers, will be dedicated here tomorrow afternoon.

A baseball game between Michigan Normal and the University of Michigan will follow the dedication ceremonies which will be attended by Walter O. Briggs, Jr.

The athletic plant consists of a field house, a baseball stadium seating 3,000, and a football stand seating 2,200.

Martin Zachar, who last week held Oberlin college to one hit, will pitch for the Hurons. He will oppose Ed Andronik.

Production Halted At Allis Chalmers By Sitdown Strike

Milwaukee, May 4 (AP)—Members of the United automobile Workers local (CIO) halted production today at the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. In a two hour sitdown which union leaders said was an unauthorized protest against the company's refusal to meet union demands.

The union's bargaining committee deferred calling a general strike at the plant at the expiration last night of a 48-hour truce.

Union leaders said they had enrolled 8,000 production workers. About 3,000 other employes continued to work.

The bargaining committee resumed negotiations today with representatives of the company and of the state labor board.

The union demanded a closed shop, a contract covering Allis Chalmers plants here and in Boston and Pittsburgh, unqualified seniority rights and an unrestricted steward system.

Ex-Matinee Idol Sues Daughter

HILLTOPS PLAY SMU NEXT YEAR

Fourth Appearance Will Be Made on Soldier Field in Chicago

Milwaukee, Wis., May 4—Marquette university will make its fourth football appearance in three years at Soldier Field, Chicago, on Friday night, Oct. 7, with Southern Methodist university of Dallas, Texas, providing intersectional opposition.

The game will be sponsored as a charity affair by the Chicago Catholic archdiocese with his eminence, George Cardinal Mundelein as honorary chairman of the committee in charge. It will be a benefit for St. Vincent's orphanage.

Chicago archdiocesan leaders arranged the sponsorship after a conference with Conrad M. Jennings and James H. Stewart, athletic directors of Marquette and Southern Methodist respectively. The game originally had been scheduled for Soldier Field as a benefit for the employees' voluntary welfare fund of the Chicago park district.

Marquette made its gridiron debut on the lakefront gridiron in 1936 with victories over St. Louis university and St. Marys (Cal.). It was defeated there last fall by Santa Clara.

Spring football practice is being wound up on the Hilltop this week with Coach Paddy Driscoll satisfied that his charges are much farther along than they were at this stage of the season a year ago. Optimism is tempered by the fact that the Golden Avalanche will face such a heavy schedule next fall, but Blue and Gold hopes are high.

The Marquette schedule follows: Oct. 1, Wisconsin at Madison; Oct. 7 (night), Southern Methodist at Soldier Field, Chicago; Oct. 14 (night) Kansas State in Milwaukee; Oct. 22, Texas Christian in Milwaukee; Oct. 29, Iowa State in Milwaukee; Nov. 5, open; Nov. 12, Michigan State in Milwaukee; Nov. 19, Arizona at Tucson, and Nov. 26, Texas Tech at Lubbock.

SET NEW RECORDS

Milwaukee, Wis.—Marquette track athletes set two new university records as they participated in the recent Drake relays, but came away with no championships. The sprint team ran the half-mile relay in 1:27.1, as compared to the 1:27.3 and 1:28.4 clockings with which Metcalfe-anchored Hilltop quartets won at Drake in 1932 and 1933. It was third this year. The Marquette mile quartet was timed in 3:19.1, as it qualified for the Drake finals in which it placed fifth. The former Hilltop record was 3:21.3.

Chrysler Declares 50-Cent Dividends On Common Stock

New York, May 5 (AP)—Directors of Chrysler Corp. today voted a dividend of 50 cents a common share as the company reported net income for the first three 1938 months of $2,109,969 after charges, equal to 48 cents a share on the common.

The quarterly earnings bulked larger than Wall Street analysts had anticipated, and the dividend declaration marked a resumption of flow of earnings to stockholders, for no dividend payment had been made in the preceding quarter.

Announcement of dividend and earnings came after the close of the New York stock exchange. But on reception of the news on the west coast, Chrysler shares on the Los Angeles stock exchange stepped up to $42.50 a share, or $1.12 above the New York close. The final Los Angeles quotation was $42 bid, $43 asked.

He also received a formal invitation to the fair from E. E. Knox, of Detroit, official courier for the fair, who called upon the governor before setting out to visit every mayor in Michigan.

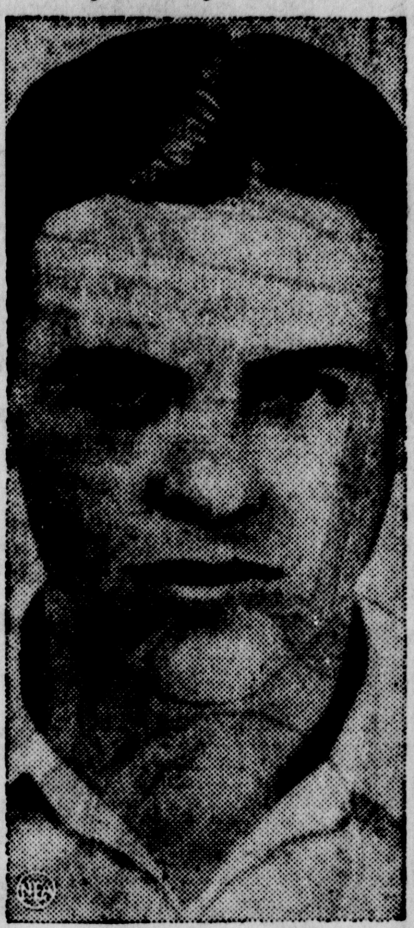
Mystery Death



Although police credited a robbery motive in the slaying of Paul McLean, above, 32-year-old sports writer of the University of Chicago press relations bureau, they admitted undisclosed "circumstances" may have inspired the killer, McLean, a former Dartmouth college football player and Montana political reporter, was found dying in an alley near his home.

Dowagiac Amnesia Victim Welcomed Home By Family

Dowagiac, Mich., May 4 (AP)—The family of George Melvin, 74, superintendent of the Colby Milling Co. here, welcomed him home today.

Melvin, apparently a victim of amnesia for two weeks, had been sought by his family in several cities.

First word from him came by telephone yesterday from Chicago. He said, according to relatives that he suddenly recalled his identity after bumping his head during a ride on an elevated train.

He added that he was unable to recall what he had done during the two weeks but believed he had been in St. Louis, Mo., He recovered his memory while returning to a small Chicago hotel from a baseball game.

HOOVER SEES CHAOS AHEAD; OFFERS CURE

planned economy. We are to have more budget deficts, new inflations, more increase in national debts, more taxes for the future. We put the pea of $1,400,000,000 of gold under the other shell. These new actions may produce another shot in the arm.

"There is in these proposals a hopeless confusion of cause and effect. x x x Truly you can mortgage your house and go on a spree. It does not add to your productivity and you may lose your house."

Confidence Needed First

Mr. Hoover said constructive action to allay fear and re-establish confidence in the future "would release the enormous reserves of private enterprise in place of a trickle of government money" and would "take men back to their jobs tomorrow and permanently."

"For a start," he said, "we need to:

"First, re-establish confidence that there will be no more attacks upon the safeguards of free men. That is the independence of congress and of our courts.

"Second, restore common morals and intellectual morals in government. In a democracy or in a Christian country the ends do not justify any means.

"Third, abandon this economy of scarcity and go in for production, work, and thrift.

"Fourth, stop this spending and inflation and pump-priming.

"Fifth, revise the taxes so as to free the initiative and enterprise of men. The original senate proposals were a step in that direction.

Cut Relief Waste

"Sixth, reduce relief expenditures by one-third, through decentralizing its administration. Take it out of the hands of wasters and politicians and put it back into non-political committees in each community and require that states and local communities to find five or ten per cent of the cost. That will provide greater and more sympathetic care for those in distress. It will restore confidence that the republic is not being destroyed by the purchase of elections.

"Seventh, by the savings on relief, and reduction of other expenses and the end of pump-priming, drive to really balance the budget.

"Eighth, stop credit inflation juggling. Make the currency convertible into bullion at the irreparable 59-cent dollar and repeal all authority for currency inflation.

"Ninth, set up a court of 25 responsible, non-political men representing business, labor and agriculture to direct federal reserve policies and thus take that control of credit out of the hands of politicians.

"Tenth, give the employer and all branches of labor the same rights before the labor board and appoint judicially minded men to the board.

Causes at Home

"This is solely our own depression," he said, "its causes must be searched for right here at home. And we can also eliminate the usual causes of our home made depressions.

"President Roosevelt in his message to the congress on November 15, 1937, confirmed the fact. He said:

"'The fundamental situation is not to be compared with the far different conditions of 1929. The banking system is not over-extended. Interest rates are lower. Inventories are not dangerously large. We are no longer over-extended in new construction or in capital equipment. Speculation requiring liquidation does not overhang our markets.' x x x

"If there are none of these signs or forces in the financial and business world, such as did exist in previous depressions, obviously the origins cannot be blamed upon finance and business. x x x

"It is nonsense to say that either big or little business is on strike. It is not so. We have had no such strike. We have been struck.

"There is only one place left to search for the causes of this depression. Despite every alibi, this depression is the direct result of governmental actions."

He said the major causes of the 1929-32 depression were absent and now—

"Certainly I did not create this depression, so you can eliminate that."

He ascribed the 1929-32 depression to "our crazy boom stimulated by federal reserve policies begun in 1927 and which cracked up in 1929" and the "1931 collapse of Europe."

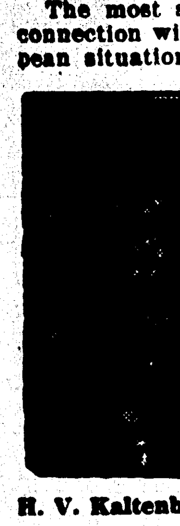
KALTENBORN
"Views the News"

By H. V. Kaltenborn

Soviet Russia's Weakness.

The most significant fact in connection with the present European situation is the relative importence of Soviet Russia. The mightiest state in Europe both in area and population, Russia nevertheless finds herself ignored in the current round of European visits and treaty-making.



H. V. Kaltenborn

The Soviet Union is thoroughly militarized with the largest army in Europe. Like Germany and Italy she is autocratically governed by a single man—thus enhancing this army's ability to strike quickly without preliminary notice. She has defensive military alliances with France and Czechoslovakia. Nevertheless her voice is not heard in those current European conclaves whose chief purpose it is to check the aggressive forward march of Soviet Russia's chief enemy—Nazi Germany.

Why is this? What has happened to silence Foreign Commissar Litivinov whose voice has shrilled at every important European parley? What makes it possible for Germany to dominate Europe, and Japan to dominate the Far East, while great Russia remains aloof and offers little help by word or deed to her anti-Fascist League of Nations associates?

Not at One With Herself

The answer must be sought in Russia's internal situation. She is not at one with herself. Within a few months she has carried out purges among old Bolshevik leaders and new army commanders. She has felt obliged to issue decrees against a reviving religious movement and against ruthless leaders of collective farms. Thousands of Communists holding key positions in Soviet industry have been jailed or executed. There is no field of Soviet activity that has not felt the harsh hand of arbitrary control under the direction of the omnipresent secret police.

The May Day celebration in the world's only Communist state had its usual colorful parades and demonstrations this year, but it is significant that the propaganda leaders who manufactured the slogans devoted their talents to internal as well as to external enemies. This keynote was struck by the red banner which read: "Uproot public enemies—Trotskyist - Bukharinist - Bourgeois - Nationalist spies, wreckers and hirelings of foreign intelligence services. Death to traitors to the Fatherland."

This enumeration is comprehensive. The fact that it comes at time when internal purges have followed one another in quick succession has its own significance. It means that Soviet Russia's internal enemies are still at work. The Soviet Union is weak externally because it is weak internally.

It is never easy to say just why things happen in the Soviet Union. The fog of censorship and the fear of reprisal are too omnipresent. But the most important single fact in present-day Russia is that Joseph Stalin has replaced the Communist party as ruler of the proletarian state. The best evidence of the party's complete eclipse is Stalin's failure to respect the constitutional command of the 17th Party Congress—that he summon a party meeting at least once in three years The last one took place in February, 1934, and no one knows when there will be another.

Only Three Old Leaders Remain

One by one the men who, with Stalin, created the Soviet Union have been executed, jailed or exiled. Only three leaders of the present Soviet hierarchy have any assurance of maintaining place or power. They are Nikolai I. Yeszhoff, Commissar of Internal Affairs who rules the political police; Lazar M. Kagonovitch, who built the Moscow subway and brought some measure of efficiency into the decrepit Soviet railway system, and Marshal Klementy E. Voroshiloff, Commossar of Defense. With Stalin they make up the 1938 horsemen of the Soviet Apocalypse. And any day Stalin may decide to dispense with one or the other because he threatens to become a rival.

His personal policy has been pursued with the ruthlessness and pertinacity of an Oriental despot. Like Hitler, who once said to the writer that no ruler could expect to sit forever on bayonets—Stalin has a personal propaganda department to glorify and popularize his name. One must return to Russia year after year to recognize the steady process by which Stalin has succeeded Lenin as the guardian angel of the Soviet State. The younger generation is permitted to know Lenin's theories, but is constantly bombarded with the story of Stalin's achievements

Just because Russia has become a personal dictatorship like Germany and Italy, it is difficult for democratic France to emphasize her Soviet alliance. Today there is little difference between the men and methods ruling Russia and those which determine the destiny of Fascist states. Conservative England naturally distrusts a Communist state, while Stalin's ruthless rule alienates British liberals. Internal conditions make it unlikely that Soviet Russia could risk a war on foreign soil to maintain her treaty with Czechoslovakia, a country from which she is geographically and politically separated. This fact is fully appreciated in both Paris and London, and plays its part in current discussions between political and military leaders.

TRIAL FLIGHT

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.

ROGER BRECKNER — hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.

BERYL MELROSE — wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.

EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

• • •

CHAPTER III

The field was not a large one, but it had two concrete runways, a radio tower, a revolving beam and floodlights. The days were getting longer, so now as Jackie and Roger watched the mechanics wheel the ship, that looked like an awkward big bug on the ground, out of the hangar, the sky was a soft gray in the east while in the west the horizon still held the last lingering rosy patches from the sun.

"I love this time of day!" Jackie said with a sort of awed reverence. "The world is so hushed and perfect, like a beautiful bubble holding all the rainbow colors."

"Wait till you see it all wrapped up in its dark blanket," Roger predicted. "With the stars popping through and the moon trailing behind us. Then those other stars below, little towns lighting their thousands of candles and the string of jewels along the highways, like a diamond necklace. No one has ever seen anything, until he's flown at night."

He helped Jackie into the cockpit, climbed in beside her. It was as luxuriant as any limousine with its leather upholstery and polished dashboard with so many shining instruments. The automatic starter sent the propeller whirling; they waited a few moments until the engine's hum was rhythmic and steady, then taxied across the field.

Now came the moment that never failed to thrill Jackie, that last rushing contact with the earth, and then that swift upward surge as they left it behind. It seemed to her as though it was the world below that was falling away, rather than the plane that was moving. There was always that other moment, too, when they had gained altitude and started flying on a level, in which the ship seemed to have stopped suddenly, held suspended by unseen hands high up in the heavens.

Jackie forgot everything else for awhile, even Roger close beside her, as she looked down watching the miracle of night take place. She almost held her breath it was so beautiful, the gathering shadows growing darker and darker and then the little blinking lights turning on one by one in tiny toy villages until the world lay all glittering and dancing, like a lady's sequin shawl. The stars came out, too, myriads of them, and the moon, round and golden, trailed along behind, as Roger had promised.

Only after she had filled all her senses, as one might breathe deeply of some strange hypnotic fragrance, did Jackie remember, with a little start, that he had made her another promise as well.

"What was the idea you had, Roger?" she asked, turning toward him. "It will have to be a good one. You don't know Mother. And you do know how I feel about marriage and love and all that sort of thing."

Roger assured her he knew all about that. She had impressed it upon him often enough. "But your mother can't force you to marry him, or anyone," he reminded. "That just isn't being done in this enlightened age." They had only to raise their voices ever so slightly as the moto: was not noisy. The air was very calm; they were at an altitude of 3000 so that only now and then, when they hit an air-pocket, was there much sensation of movement.

"You don't know Mother," Jackie repeated darkly.

"You'll have to get married sometime, won't you-"

"Not necessarily. . . . Oh, maybe, when I've done everything else I want to do and feel myself getting bored, I might get married just to keep from being too lonely in my old age—to whomever happened to be handy. But goodness, Roger, I thought you said you had an idea!"

"Don't rush me!" he cautioned. "Remember I have to keep my mind on a few other things, too." He banked the ship sharply, turning it almost on its side. But since he had given her "all the works," rolls, loops, spins, dives, and whip-stalls, in the open ship he used for stunting, Jackie did not let out so much as a murmur. She could take anything he could hand out ,which may have been why he threw her a side-glance of silent admiration.

Or again perhaps the moon—which Jackie had assured Evelyn they never noticed—had had something to do with it. For now it shed its silvery sheen over Jackie's face, bathing her in an almost ethereal beauty. Roger caught his breath—and looked away.

"I don't believe you have any plan at all!" Her voice held a tinge of impatience. It ought not take him this long to concoct one. Besides, she knew that this ship practically flew itself.

"Sure I have. Nothing to it." Roger snapped his fingers in illustration. "Simply tell your mother that we are going to get married."

"But we're not!"

"You never can tell. What I mean is, I might happen to be that guy who happened to be handy when you get old and bored and feeble. But that isn't the point." He kept her in suspense a minute, cleared his throat, leaned forward to pretend to adjust an instrument. He would have to watch his step or he might say something that would make Jackie reject his plan. This was a "fine" way to try to win a girl, he thought grimly. When he should have simply swept her into his arms and smothered her with kisses.

Still, even were such a proceeding possible—which it certainly would not be with Jackie—it might not be wise to attempt it at an altitude of three thousand feet and a speed of a hundred and forty miles an hour.

"We can pretend we're going to get married, can't we?" Roger said. "Pretend we're engaged. A sort of trial flight engagement—make believe. . . ."

"But I never heard of such a thing!"

"I promised you you hadn't. I never did, either. But if we can put it over, your mother can go ahead and marry her Mr. John Paul Scott and you can go ahead and do all the things you want to do with your life. . . ."

"You mean we wouldn't really have to be engaged at all—never get married, unless of course, as you say. . . . But Mother didn't say a thing about marriage! She simply said if she knew I was engaged she could accept Mr. Scott. Why, Roger, that's a perfectly swell idea! You're a perfect lamb to think of it, to help me carry it through. . . . You will help me, won't you?"

"To the bitter end," he vowed solemnly. He put out a hand. They shook on it gravely. A fine way to seal an engagement, Roger thought!

They were circling the field now; they could watch the wide arc made by the beacon as it switched this way and that, like a gigantic, illuminated eye. Roger adjusted the earphones. He plugged in another pair for Jackie. "Okey, Breckner," a thin squeaky voice burst suddenly on their ears. "Field all clear. Watch slight north-east wind . . . field all clear, watch slight north-west . . . ." They circled lower and lower as the message kept droning a repeat. Then the floodlights blazed on, turning the landing mat into a brightly lighted stage, the ship sailed smoothly down and down, skimming over the roof of the hangar, shaking slightly, like a bird settling on its nest, as it made contact with solid ground again, lumbering, its huge wings stilled, toward the runway.

Would their plan, that had seemed as feasible and simple as flying, work out so smoothly now that they were no longer up in the clouds, but back to earth again?

BUILDS TOURIST CABINS

Iron River—A summer cabin colony is being constructed on US-2 west of Iron River near Resthaven cemetery by Herman Beyersdorf, of Bates township.

Workmen are building a filling station on the property, formerly the Sensiba home, and the owner is planning the erection of a group of overnight cabins for the convenience of the tourists who pass by on the national highway.

The colony will be built upon the three-acre plot of ground which Beyersdorf recently acquired. The former Gibbs City man plans to erect eight log-siding cabins this season and will build seven next year. Water, electric power and sewer facilities will be extended to each cabin. Trenches for the sewer line are being dug now. Beyersdorf returned one month ago from Texas where he was associated with a grapefruit ranch.

Tomato Salad Dressing

12ounces tomato juice
3-4 cup vinegar
1-2 cup olive oil
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons grated onion
3-4 cup sugar

Put these ingredients in a large jar, and mix them thoroughly. Measure out 1-2 cup of the mixture, and to this add the following:

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Mix this half cup of spiced ingredients until well blended, then add it to the contents of the large jar. Seal the jar with a rubber ring as in canning fruit, and always shake thoroughly before using.

For bridge party luncheons, when a fruit salad is to be the main course, the following recipe makes an impressive dressing. It is distinctly a feminine dressing. Men as a rule do not care for sweet salads.

Sweet Fruit Salad Dressing

4 egg yolks
1-4 cup vinegar
1-2 tablespoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons sugar
24 marshmallows
1 cup broken nutmeats
1 pint heavy cream

Beat the egg yolks and vinegar together, then add the sugar and mustard. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cool, then add marshmallows cut into small bits. Also add the nutmeats, and finally the cream whipped stiff. Mix all completely, and use at once over fruit and lettuce combinations.

Baking Powder Rolls

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon shortening
2-3 cup milk
Melted butter
Caraway or poppy seeds or Mixture of 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Sift flour before measuring, then sift again with the baking powder and salt. Cut in the shortening, and add the milk all at once. Stir gently until all the flour is dampened, and then stir vigorously until the mixture forms a soft dough which follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out on a slightly floured board and knead lightly for 2 or 3 minutes. Roll 1-4 inch thick and cut into crescents or cut into strips which are 6 x 1-2 inches. If strips are made, toie tnese into a knot.

Brush the tops of the shapes with melted butter and sprinkle either with seeds or with the cinnamon and sugar mixture. Place the rolls on a greased pan and cover, letting them rise in a warm place for 20 minutes.

Bake in a hot oven ten minutes spread again with melted butter, and continue baking for about 10 minutes more. Remove from the oven and butter tops again. For the oven and for the final buttering, the best method is to let the melted butter drop on the rolls from a teaspoon.

The year 1934 was the most peaceful in Great Britain, so far as industrial disputes were concerned. Only 960,000 working days were lost that year, as compared with 162,230,000 working days lost in 1926.

HOMECOMING IS PROPOSED HERE

Completion of Improvements Seen as Urge for Celebration

A movement to stage a three-day homecoming celebration in Manistique this year, following the completion of the city's WPA civic improvement program, was launched at the regular meeting of the Manistique Lions club on Tuesday evening at the Odd Fellows hall, when the club unanimously endorsed the proposal.

It is proposed to make the event a city-wide undertaking in which all civic, fraternal and other bodies or groups of citizens in the community can participate.

To crystalize sentiment for the project, it is planned to invite groups of citizens to attend a meeting to be called some day next week, at which time the proposel will be discussed. If sufficient interest is shown, an organization to promote the homecoming celebration will probably be established at that time.

Extensive Improvements

The completion of Manistique's WPA program, comprising the construction of new pavement, storm sewers and water services, and the installation of new boulevard lighting system in the city's business thoroughfares should be the occasion for joyous celebration, and an opportune time to invite former residents back to the community, it was pointed out by proponents of the project.

It was also suggested that the dedication of the new state police post here could be included in the homecoming activities.

Within recent years the city council and the board of education have made extensive improvements within the community, including new school buildings, new athletic stadium, fine tourist trailer park, new boulevard lighting equipment and new concrete pavement, as well as other improvements. Hundreds of former Manistique residents have never seen these improvements, and it is believed these former residents would take the occasion of a homecoming celebration as a fine opportunity to return to Manistique for a visit with old friends.

Because of the necessity of making a homecoming celebration a city-wide event, with every citizen participating actively in order to make it a success, the Lions club, which launched the movement Tuesday night, indicated it would act as a spearhead to crystalize support for the program, but that the promotion of the celebration, if undertaken, must be by a separate organization representing all the varied interests of the community.

College Musicians Give Program Here

The Northern State Teachers' college band and glee club presented a short concert at the Manistique high school auditorium yesterday morning for students of the high school. The band, now on a tour of the peninsula, was very well received

Members of the band not only presented instrumental numbers, but also sang several selections.

COUNTY PLANS ROAD PROJECT

WPA Proposal to Offer Work to 66 Men for Eight Months

The WPA project proposal, prepared by the Schoolcraft county road commission and approved by district and state WPA authorities, will provide work for 66 WPA employes for a period of eight months, when final approval is authorized from Washington, it has been announced.

The proposal calls for the grading, drainage and gravel surfacing of six miles of county road in various parts of the county. The project specifically calls for improvement of the following roads:

Seul Choix road, Mueller township, from State Highway M-99 at Bulldog Creek, 13,500 feet.

Henry Miller road, Hiawatha township, 3,900 feet.

Flodin road, Thompson township, 3,000 feet.

The total cost of the project has been estimated at $37,841, of which the federal government will contribute $28,761, or 74 per cent, and the county road commission will contribute $9,080, or 26 per cent. It is probable this project will later be supplemented with additional projects.

A preliminary survey is being made now for the purpose of submitting a WPA project to relocate and construct a road from Thompson to Barque Point, following the lake shore.

The project provides for 32,550 yards of excavation, 12,000 yards of gravel surfacing, 300 feet of culvert and six miles of roadside cleanup.

About $30,000 of federal funds still remain on the first WPA project sponsored by the road commission. This project, started in 1935, provided for a total expenditure of $206,500, of which $174,800 was federal money and $31,635 was the sponsor's share. There were 34 separate road improvements in all townships of the county included in that project, covering a total of 40.15 miles.

Employment during that period varied from 40 to 150 men, the road projects acting as a satisfactory balance wheel for the other WPA projects in the county. When employment became slack on other WPA projects, the WPA men were transferred to the road project.

9 DOGS FREED IN DELIVERY

City Pound Reinforced; Crew Again Picks Up Pooches

The city dog catching crew was busy again yesterday after a several day layoff while the local pound was being repaired and reinforced.

It seems that over the weekend some person or persons effected delivery of nine canines which had been impounded. It was not by the usual manner of paying pound fees. Instead in the dead of the night, doors were torn off the pound and all incarcerated animals dashed to freedom.

While efforts were being made to learn who effected the delivery, city workmen using two-inch plank reinforced and rebuilt the pound in a manner that is believed will defy repetition of the occurrence.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 4 (AP)—Sharp bidding for gold shares imparted some life to the stock market today and helped turn a forenoon retreat into a further rally.

The gold stocks boomed on expectation of another devaluation of the French franc, announced by Premier Daladier, of France, after the New York stock exchange closed.

A wide fall in the currency, equivalent to an advance in the price of gold in France, immediately started a buzz of discussion in speculative circles of possible consequences for the dollar.

Copper and other industrial shares, following the golds, turned up in rather brisk late trading on what observers took to be a mild return of inflationary psychology, influenced by the French monetary events.

Transactions totalled 550,600 shares against 472,470 yesterday. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks advanced .4 of a point to 39.1 on top of yesterday's gain of nearly a point.

Whether revaluation of the franc—involving modification of the monetary accord concluded in 1936 among France, the United States and England—eventually would lead to a higher domestic price for gold was the major topic of conjecture in Wall Street linked with currency developments.

United States government and most corporate bonds resumed the recent recovery trend, despite the inflationary interpretation many put on monetary events.

Most commodities lagged, although wheat futures at Chicago snapped out of an early decline to finish unchanged to 3-8 of a cent a bushel higher. Corn was up 1-8 to ½ cent. Cotton lost 10 to 25 cents a bale.

Trade news was eclipsed by monetary developments. Midweek barometers still portrayed an unsatisfactory industrial trend. Steel observers saw no indication of an early turn in that key industry. However, U. S. Steel's move to market $100,000,000 in bonds next month for plant expenditures excited hope for wider resumption of corporate financing.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 4 (AP)—Influenced by likelihood of a spread of rust damage northward from Texas, Chicago wheat prices late today more than overcame earlier losses of 1¼ cents.

Rank growth was reported in Kansas and Nebraska, making crops very susceptible to rust. Advices told of excessive rainfall at various points in Texas and Kansas, three to 5 inches, and anxiety was expressed should high temperatures ensue.

Another late stimulus was 16,000,000 bushels increase of world import estimated requirements, owing partly to British government purchasing. The Dutch government was also reported as preparing for a large war-time reserve stock of foodstuffs.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were around the day's top level, unchanged to 3-8 higher compared with yesterday's finish, May 80 5-8 to 80 3-4, July 78 3-4 to 78 7-8, corn 1-8 to ½ advanced, May 57 1-8, July 58 5-8 to 58 3-4, oats unchanged to 3-8 up, rye showing ½ cent bulge, and provisions varying from 7 cents setback to a gain of 2 cents.

Helping to rally prices were vessel charters for 480,000 bushels of wheat from Chicago to Buffalo, together with late strength of securities. At the outset, however, the market here was shaken by emphatic refusal of Liverpool to reflect yesterday's two-cent advance this side of the Atlantic. Liverpool quotations, due 7-8 of a cent to 2 cents higher, closed today exactly unchanged after showing at one stage ½ cent net loss.

Corn values displayed independent firmness owing to big export purchases, 1,250,000 bushels. Sharp falling-off in country offerings was reported, notwithstanding today's receipts here were large, 478 cars. Oats and rye chiefly followed corn.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing with cottonseed oil.

New York, May 4 (AP)—The domestic bond market stepped forward today as Wall Street smacked its lips over the best-tasting financial news of recent weeks.

Served up on the overnight platter, and digested during trading hours was news emergency legislation to facilitate govrenment to needy railroads would be speeded.

Giving strength to bonds generally was United States Steel's plan to offer $100,000,000 of bonds next month. A possible clue to how such an offering might be received, if the new investment market holds up, was seen in the underwriters' announcement General Foods corporation's 150,000 shares of $4.50 preferred stock, publicly offered today, had been quickly sold, and that the shares, offered at 101, had immediately gone to a three-point premium.

While today's bond gains individually were not large, the biggest among the leaders ranging up to only 1 or a bit more, advances were widespread throughout the entire domestic list.

A sharp break in the French franc failed to upset French dollar bonds. French 7½s, stamped, sold on 15 days' delivery unchanged at 100¼, and the unstamped bonds unchanged at 93. French 7s were untraded.

U. S. governments were buoyant, with gains in treasury notes ranging up to 7-32 of a point.

The Associated Press average of 10 industrial bonds rose .6 of a point, the utility bond average was up .5, and the railroad average up .3. The foreign bond average dipped .1.

Transactions totalled $4,921,025, face value, compared with $4,238,100 Tuesday.

Northern Michigan-Wisconsin Loop Opens May 8

NEGAUNEE IS NEWEST ENTRY

All Veteran Teams Look Stronger; Escanaba at Niagara

(By U. P. Sportswriters Ass'n.)

Iron Mountain, Mich., May 4—Fans are looking forward to the closest and most spirited pennant race in Northern Wisconsin Michigan Baseball league history as the circuit's six clubs, the strongest in the northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan region, buckle down to final drills for the opening hostilities on May 8.

The Iron Mountain-Kingsford Ford Twins, defending champions, expect to as strong, or stronger than it was last year, but even so they will be no favorite to retain their title. Niagara, Wis., king pin of the loop in 1936, has rebuilt on a wholesale scale and is preparing for a "pennant or bust" campaign which Badger fans are predicting will shoot their team back to the top of the heap.

Negaunee Entered

Escanaba, strengthened by a year's experience in the "fast company" the N. W. M. league provides, and expected to be fortified by addition of new players, will be one of the darkhorses of the race, as will Negaunee, newly admitted to the wheel this season. South Range finished strong last autumn in its initial N. W. M. campaign and Manager John Pastore makes no secret of the fact he expects his outfit to be "in there at the pay-off" when the title is passed out in September.

Crystal Falls will be better prepared for a fast start this year than in many past. Hugh Orphan, Newberry righthander and one of the league's leading pitchers in 1937, has already reported for pre-season workouts and will again shoulder the mound burden for the Falls. Upon Orphan's ability to repeat his fine performance of last year hinges most of the Iron county nine's flag hopes.

Backing up Orphan will be such veteran hitters and fielders as Bill Waytulonis, slugger de luxe, Tony Pivatto, and Eddie Chambers, in the outfield; Paul Challancin, third base, and "Doc" Davidson, second base. New faces will probably be seen at first base, vacated by Chambers in favor of a fielding position, shortstop and behind the plate.

Gober Big Question

Like Crystal Falls, the Twins are banking heavily upon a star. If Tony Gober retains his ranking as the loop's leading hurler, the Twins anticipate no trouble keeping in the thick of the championship fight. Gober will have a seasoned supporting cast including Harry Petroske, catcher; Al Kircher, first base; Harold Soderberg, second; George Schultz, short; Baldy Anderson, third; and Eli Enger, Tommy Lawrence and George Mason, in the outfield. Only Mason and Soderberg are newcomers to the team. Mason came here last fall as high school coach, with a reputation as an able fly-hawk and hitter. Soderberg is a transfer from Niagara.

Acquisition of Chet Smogaleski, outfielder, and Leonard Kenville, shortstop, from Two Rivers, Wis., has rounded out a Niagara Badger team that looks to be one of the most formidable turned out in that red-hot baseball town. Smogaleski is a long-distance clouter, while Kenville is one of the classiest shortstoppers seen in this section.

The Niagara mound corps is the largest and, potentially, strongest in the league. It includes Jerry Davis, Cedric Richardson and Louis Bush. "Rip" Collins will again hold down first base, "Bing" Miller will be at second, Kenville at short and Ralph Wells at third. The outfield will be patrolled by Randy Thibert, Smogaleski and Tony Caruso.

Escanaba officials have been lining up the best talent from the team of last year as well as the Delta-Menominee league and appears to be ready to enter big time competition in earnest. Several former college players have been added to the roster. The team this year will be outfitted in a set of uniforms purchased from the Detroit Tigers.

Manager William Goldsworthy at Negaunee is making his outfit a Marquette county team. He is picking the best talent from Negaunee, Ishpeming and Marquette and has indicated he expects to have a team on the field which will compare favorably with league competition.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

The Chicago Cubs have more second guessers among fans than any other major league team . . . and Cholly Grimm is accused of poor judgment more often than any other major league manager . . . or, at least, it seems that way . . . and yet we cannot help notice the common sense being used by Grimm in the case of his high priced piece of machinery, Dizzy Dean . . . Dean has pitched in four games and won three . . . and yet he only has finished one game this year . . . in all others, he was relieved while holding a lead and relief pitchers finished the game.

Grimm's strategy is obvious . . . he realized when Dean came from the Cards that he was not getting the Dean who had been mowing down the batters so easily for several years . . . he knew the Cards had parted with Dizzy because they felt he had lost much of his effectiveness . . . and that was true . . . he is not the Doz of old . . . but he still is far better than an average pitcher and he can, with a bit of judicial handling, still go a long ways in league competition . . . there is the possibility, too—and Grimm apparently is working on it—that by using Dean only sparingly and pulling him at the least sign of fatigue or trouble, he can nurse Diz back to his old form as well as instill in him some of the confidence, which abviously is lacking.

—o—

Dean is quite likely to respond more favorably to the treatment he is receiving from the Cubs than that which he suffered from the Cards . . . when with the Cards, Diz not only worked about every three games but also did relief pitching about every other day . . . it stands to reason that a man, regardless of his physical qualities, would find it difficult to stand up under such a work schedule . . . on the other hand, with sufficient rest, we believe that Diz will return to his old form—or pretty nearly—and be of great value to the Cubs.

TOLEDO STOPS MICHIGAN, 9-8

First Baseman Forgets Play for Runner In Twelfth Inning

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 4 (AP)—Michigan's baseball team dropped its second extra-inning game in five days today, losing to the University of Toledo 9 to 8 in 12 innings.

Relief Pitcher Dick Smith scored the winning run when Elmer Gedeon, Wolverine first baseman, became confused after fielding Dick Craig's grounder and failed to try for a play at first base. An out would have retired the side.

Michigan scored five runs in the first inning on four hits, an error, two walks, and a sacrifice and added two more in the third when Danny Smick hit a home run with one on base, but the Rockets tied the score in the sixth wdith a four run rally.

Smith, a southpaw, was the winning pitcher. He allowed only six hits in 1 innings. Jack Barry, who followed Russ Dobson to the box for the Wolverines, was charged with the defeat.

Smick and Gedeon, who also hit for the circuit in the fifth, were the batting stars. Each drove in three runs.

Mealticket Hubbell Winner Again, With Jimmy Ripple's Aid

Cincinnati, May 4 (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the mealticket, came through again for the New York Giants today, but he had to have a lot of help from Jimmy Ripple before he subdued the Reds 3 to 2.

Ripple belted four-for-four—a triple and three singles—to lead a ten-hit attack that finally overcame Peaches Davis after he had blanked the National league champs for five innings. Hubbell allowed a total of seven hits, fanned five and walked only two.

Rain Storm Chases Bees And Cardinals With Count Knotted

St. Louis, May 4 (AP)—The Boston Bees and the St. Louis Cardinals battled through five innings today to a 3 to 3 tie and then were chased from Sportsman's Park by a drenching rain storm.

The short game likely will leave more than a tie score on the records, however, because of an argument between Jimmy Brown, Cardinal shortstop, and Umpire Goetz. Brown was ordered out of the game in the fifth when he protested he had been hit by a pitched ball after Goetz had ruled the ball a foul. The count was two strikes, no balls.

Larry French Knocked Out of Box; Score Is 6 and 4

Chicago, May 4 (AP)—The Phillies whipped the Cubs, 6 to 4, today when the Chicago team handed the lowly Philadelphians the two runs which gave them their margin of victory.

After knocking Larry French out of the box in the sixth, the Phills scored their fifth run in the seventh when Clay Bryant walked Chuck Klein and the latter scored on a stolen base and two errors. The Phils counted their sixth run when Bryant walked three men in a row in the eighth and then uncorked a wild pitch.

The Cubs knocked Claude Passeau out in the eighth, but Al Smith came in to put a halt to the uprising with the bases filled.

DIZZY TAKES REST

Chicago, May 4 (AP)—Dizzy Dean will be absent from the Cubs' lineup for at least a month, Dr. J. F. Davis, club physician, announced today although X-ray examinations failed to disclose any damaged muscles or ligaments.

Dr. Davis ordered Dean to take a complete rest for two weeks. He added that it probably would be another two weeks before the big right hander could return to the game.

Dr. Davis said there was still a lingering inflammation in Dean's salary arm, due to a muscle injury in his shoulder last year, and that it was his belief it could be completely cured with absolute rest.

Lloyd Waner's Bat Bad Medicine For Brooklyn Pitchers

Pittsburgh, May 4 (AP)—Little Poison Lloyd Waner was big poison to Brooklyn pitchers today. He hit a homer, two triples and a single, drove in five runs and scored three to pace the Pirates to a 9 to 5 victory over the Dodgers.

The win ended a five-game Pirate losing streak. The Dodgers were held to three hits by Russ Bauers and Joe Bowman, but took advantage of Bauer's wildness to take an early lead before Lloyd Waner's bat did its heavy damage.

Talent Called Out By Munising Bonds

Munising, May 4 — Former players and recruits who wish to play with the Munising Bonds this year are asked to come out for practice at the playground Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Manager Theron J. Malone. The Bonds will play in the Inter-County league and Manager Malone is anxious to get practice sessions underway as soon as possible.

Long Wallop Gives Yanks 3 to 2 Win

New York, May 4 (AP)—For the first time this year, the Yankees today stretched a winning streak to three straight by nosing out the St. Louis Browns 3 to 2 on Bill Dickey's eight-inning homer with Joe DiMaggio on base.

That wallop broke up a pitchers' duel between Rookie Joe Beggs and Oral Hildebrand, giving the youngster his first major league victory on a seven-hit pitching performance. Hildebrand, who also went the route, gave up eight hits.

Athletics Release Pitcher Kelley To Senators At $7,500

Philadelphia, May 4 (AP)—The Athletics tonight announced the release of the veteran Harry Kelley, right-handed pitcher, to the Washington Senators for the waiver price of $7,500.

Kelley, who won 15 games for the A's in 1936, before undergoing an operation, has been knocked out in the three games he started this year, once by Washington, once by New York Yankees, and once by Boston Red Sox. Last year he won 13 games.

Kelley, 32 years old, pitched for Atlanta in the Southern association before Connie Mack gave him a trial two years ago.

PITCHERS MIX FOR 13 INNINGS

Rookie Leonard Grabs 1 to 0 Decision for Senators

Washington, May 4 (AP)—Rookie Dutch Leonard pitched the Senators to a one-to-nothing victory over the league leading Cleveland Indians today in thirteen innings.

Fluttering his knuckle ball with deadly effectiveness he allowed only six hits, struck out five, and did not pass a batter. The Senators filled the bases in the thirteenth off young Bill Zuber who went to the mound in the eleventh after Bob Feller had been lifted for a pinch hitter. Rookie Taft Wright was sent in to hit for Rick Ferrell. He came through with a fly to Saulters in left and Big Zeke Bonura slid home after the catch. Zuber had retired one Senator in the fatal thirteenth and apparently had another when he leaped on Travis' bunt. But he threw wildly to third and all hands were safe. Wright's fly ended the inning.

The hurling duel between Leonard and Feller was a beauty to behold. A fast ball artist versus a fast knuckle ball artist. Feller gave up only three hits, all singles, and whiffed eight Senators. He walked nine, however. But Leonard's performance was greater. He walked nobody, allowed no Indian to reach third, and only two got as far as second.

DETROIT MOVES TO SIXTH PLACE

Revamped Tiger Lineup Stops Red Sox by 4 to 1 Count

Boston, May 4 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, teeing off against righthander Jack Wilson, made at least one hit and had runners left in every inning today when they topped the Red Sox, 4 to 1 to deadlock the current series.

With a revamped lineup, that included Donald Ross at third base and catcher Rudy York in left field, the Tigers whaled Wilson for 13 hits in eight innings and then collected three more from Byron Humphreys in the finale. Boots Poffenberger went the route for the Tigers and held the home forces to six hits, half of them two-baggers.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox into third place, below the Yanks, and Detroit moved up to sixth place.

Hitting Improves

With York in left field, Dixie Walker shifted to center and Birdie Tebbets caught. It was York's first major league game in the outer gardens, and he wasn't quite as impressive as a more experienced fielder. The pitching with Tebbetts behind the plate appeared improved.

Only twice did Poffenberger allow a Red Sox man to get as far as third, and one of those occasions gave Boston the chance to score its single run.

The Tiger hitting improved generally, but Pete Fox was the exception. In five trips he failed to get a safe blow. Hank Greenberg and Tebbetts led the attack, with Billy Rogell, Ross, Charley Gehringer and Walker also contributing.

The Bengals won the game in the second inning with two runs. With one down, Ross singled and Tebbets doubled. Then both scored on Rogell's double. Rogell reached third on a putout but died there.

Walker Robs Higgins

In the fourth Detroit loaded the bases but a double play ended the attack.

Boston made its run in the home half of the frame. Joe Vosmik and Jimmy Foxx singled and advanced on Manager Joe Cronin's sacrifice. Walker made a spectacular catch of Pinky Higgins' fly, Vosmik scoring while Foxx held second. Ross threw out Ben Chapman.

Detroit's third run was produced in the seventh. Fox was out at first, then Walker singled and went to third when Gehringer followed with a single. Greenberg doubled to score Walker and Gehringer stopped at third. An intentional walk for York loaded the bags and then Ross hit into a double play.

Wilson, who was charged with the loss, was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Byron Humphrey took up the hurling in the ninth, allowing the final Tiger run. Gehringer popped, then Greenberg and York singled. Jo-Jo White ran for York. Ross flied out. Tebbetts singled to center, scoring Greenberg and sending White to third. Tebbetts moved to second on the throw home. Rogell was walked intentionally, again filling the bases and Poffenberger flied out to end the scoring.

For the last half of the ninth White replaced York.

Report Given by Titus On Activities of MEA

A comprehensive report on past and planned activities of the Michigan Education association was presented by C. P. Titus, county commissioner of schools, at a meeting of the Delta county unit of the MEA here Tuesday night.

Titus quoted figures showing that the association had increased from 25,749 to 32,647, a gain of over 7,000 in the past three and one-half years.

Among school problems that need solving the speaker listed improvement of teaching conditions; general increase of teachers' salaries throughout state; adequate and definite state aid; adequate school housing; more accurate acounting of school funds; increased schooling of administrators in elementary and special education; concentration of efforts on greater eficiency of instruction; general use of textbook rental plans, and repeal or modification of teacher loyalty oath law.

Resolutions adopted by the representative assembly of the Michigan Education associations at Lansing a month ago were read and their adoption urged. They include:

School Financing

That since education is essentially a function of the state, the state should provide definite, permanent, and adequate revenues to guarantee a reasonable minimum program of public education in every community, and

That final appropriations by the State Legislature for public schools should not be subject to cuts, and

That State-aid for schools for the coming biennium should be not less than $47,000,000 annually, and

That state and local support of schools should be suplemented by federal aid for school building construction, thus leaving present sources of revenue for operation of schools, the control of same to remain with the state and local governments, and

That a fixed tax limitation through the adoption of a prescribed millage is inconsistent with sound taxation principles, since it leads to the arbitrary curtailment of needed public services including education, and

That the Association's study of the financial situation should include a comprehensive survey of the effect on schools of the 15-mill limitation.

Teacher Tenure

That inasmuch as greater professional security in service is necessary to achieve higher standards of instruction, careful selection of teachers, and greater participation in the privileges and responsibilities of democracy, it endorses as essential and adequate to a sound tenure law the principles embodied in House Bill 428 as originally introduced in the Legislature during the 1937 session.

That, since the reduction of excessive teacher loads, and the promotion of adequate disability regulations, teacher credit unions, and group health and accident insurance are conducive to improved teacher welfare, the efforts of the Association in these and related fields should be continued and extended.

That the State Constitution should be amended to increase the membership on the State Board of Education and to provide a longer term of office for the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

That it urges the formation of larger school administrative units which in many cases could be organized to serve natural community centers, thus making possible better administration, adequate salaries for teachers, and reasonable security of employment.

Curriculum

That it urges every member to take a professional, cooperative interest in present efforts to adapt the curriculum to the individual needs of the child and the composite needs of society.

That it commends the State Board of Education for the higher standards established by the state certification code, and

That it urges continued efforts to improve the selection and training of teachers.

That, since the district is the basic democratic unit of the M. E. A., and its active functioning is essential to the successful operation of this organization, the staff members be commended for their extensive distribution of informational material to district officers and their large number of direct district contacts during the past year, and

That, in view of the fact that it is most desirable to get the thinking of district committeees back to the M. E. A. Commissions and thus establish a two-way exchange of ideas, these efforts to encourage and assist the district units be continued and increased so far as the somewhat limited number of staff workers will permit. .

That, in view of the tremendous pace of social change and the widened responsibilities of the teaching profession, with consequent increased demand for expanding services of the M. E. A., the problem of what constitutes adequate personnel to meet efficiently these many demands on the Association is recommended for study and report by our Commissions.

THEATRES

Called into action on New York's Great White Way, Charlie Chan invades the night clubs to seek the killer whose double murder casts a shadow of terror over Manhattan's gayest spots in the newest of his screen adventures, 'Charlie Chan On Broadway," opening at the Rialto Theatre.

It's "candid-camera night" in a swanky midtown cabaret, and as the flashlights of a hundred enthusiastic "minicam" fans boom, death strikes, then strikes again, bringing Chan, fresh from his sleuthing triumphs in distant lands, to confront the most baffling adventure of his career.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all those who so generously donated towards the valuable gift we received when our home was recently destroyed by fire. We especially wish to thank the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, the WPA, and all others for their wonderful kindnesses which will ever be remembered by us.

SPECIAL CACHET ORDERED BY P.O.

Pickup of Mail at Local Port During Air Mail Week

A special cachet for use on local mail going out on the special air mail pickup here on May 19 has been ordered by the Gladstone postoffice.

Suitably designed for the occasion, it also bears the Gladstone slogan 'The Gateway to the Hiawatha National Forest."

The pickup here will be made by Wally Arntzen, well known Escanaba aviator, who will fly from Menominee to Sault Ste. Marie. The time is set at 11:45 a. m.

Santa Barbara, Calif., is making special observance of National Air Mail week because of the fact that the city has the unusual honor of being the home of the late Earle Ovington, who in 1911 in his Bleriot monoplane carried the first sack of mail ever delivered by air in the United States, thus proving that mail by air was not a dream but would be a reality, acording to a bulletin received at the post office yesterday.

A special Santa Barbara cachet is being applied to all air mail letters leaving Santa Barbara on the week of May 15 and in addition a special Ovington cachet will be applied to all mail leaving on May 19.

History of Steamboats On Lakes Is Reviewed

GILBERT R. JOHNSON
Sec'y of the Lake Carriers Ass'n

A. L. Sawyer in his "History of the Northern Peninsula of Michigan" states that in the summer of 1849, there were but few boats of any kind on Lake Superior.

In 1807, however, Robert Fulton's steamer the "North River," later named the "Clermont," made its first trip from New York to Albany. From that date, steamboats gradually moved westward and northward.

No doubt steamships would have been attracted into the waters of Lake Superior in a short time had it not been for the rapids at Sault Ste. Marie. It had been possible to move some smaller craft up the rapids but a steamboat could hardly accomplish the trip.

Since it was impossible to move steamboats through the Sault Rapids, the only other alternative was to go around them. A rough framework was devised which would support a steam vessel. In 1845, the "Independence" was placed in this framework and moved over rollers around the rapids into Lake Superior. In the next year another steamer, the "Julia Palmer," was carried around the rapids in the same manner and placed in service on Lake Superior.

The need for some means of floating freight vessels around the rapids was becoming more urgent although it was nothing new. In fact, Mr. Sawyer writes that the first lock was built in 1797 while General Washington was still living. Located on the Canadian side of the river, oxen supplied the power to propel vessels through it. This lock was destroyed, however, in 1814 by the American soldiers during the War of 1812.

Built Canal in 1837

One of Michigan's first efforts at internal improvement was the construction of the St. Mary's Ship Canal in 1837. Contractors moved onto the scene in May, 1839. Just as they were about to begin work, they were notified by the United States War Department that they must not interfere with the millrace at the rapids. The contractors apparently decided to do the job anyway and were promptly met by a company of Federal soldiers who took away their tools and drove them away at the point of bayonets.

The Federal government apparently changed its attitude, for in 1852, Congress granted to the state of Michigan 750,000 acres of land to aid in the construction of a canal around the rapids of St. Mary's River. This was accepted in the following February and on April 19, 1855, C. T. Harvey opened the sluice gate to the outer cofferdam on the Lake Superior level and let its waters flow into the finished canal.

The completion of this project was the signal for a rapid increase in steamboat shipping on Lake Superior. In fact, there can be little question that the construction of the St. Mary's Ship Canal and the locks was the most important single event in the development of steam boat transportation on Lake Superior.

Steel Vessels

Closely following the development of iron steamers came the introduction of steel vessels, the type which universally prevails today. There was steady progress from that time until the present in the improvement of steamboat construction. There is a wide difference between the first steamboat on Lake Superior and the 600-foot freighters which are now recognized as the standard type for the bulk trade. These modern vessels have a capacity ranging up to 18,000 tons.

As industry grew throughout the interior of Michigan, new types of steamships were developed to suit the various needs of new products and new raw materials. Oil tankers are now an important part of the traffic on all the Great Lakes. Several companies have purchased older type bulk freighters and fitted them with elevators thus permitting automobiles to be carried both in the hold and on deck.

Most of you are familiar with the railroad company type of steamship. The main decks are fitted with standard gauge rails and railroad cars are run directly from shore tracks onto the vessels and fastened securely. Most of these boats operate the year around. They are staunchly built and powered by engines of about 50 per cent greater horsepower than ordinary vessels of the same or greater size.

Passenger steamers are also frequently seen on the waters of the Great Lakes. This trade, however, has been subject to wide variations with the result that developments along this line have not been so important nor so great as in the freight trades.

There is no question that the cheap transportation made possible by steamship navigation of our Great Lakes has been responsible for much of Michigan's progress.

In 1881, the smallest of the present series of four locks, was completed. At that time also the state turned the project over to the Federal government with the agreement that the locks would be operated free of charge. This has been the policy of operation ever since.

It would be improper to leave this phase of our subject without some reference to the waterway crossing the Keweenaw Peninsula. This project was undertaken in 1865. Vessels using this route save 22 miles between Marquette and Duluth.

Previous to the construction of the Sault Locks there were only two steam vessels on Lake Superior. In the first year of the locks operation a total of 14,503 tons of cargo passed through them. Compare this with the peak year of 1929 when a total of 92½ million tons of cargo passed from Lake Superior to the lower lakes.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

The National Progressives

Whether a new political party has really been started, or whether a new and sharp realignment of the old parties will be the result, I am convinced that something extremely important for America started last Thursday night in Madison, Wis.

Dorothy Thompson

As criticism and analysis, Governor Philip La Follette's speech was brilliant, and in its phraseology and appeal, it showed remarkable political instinct. For Philip La Follette knows what is wrong with our economic society, and he knows what are not the ways out. He recognizes the fundamental fact of the stage of economic development in which we now are: namely, that industry and technique have run miles, and generations, ahead of finance. Industry and technique are revolutionary. Finance is conservative. Industry and technique have created a new earth; they have pulled down fire from heaven; their ingenuity is breath-taking; they have set tons of steel swimming through the air; they have harnessed unseen waves of ether to make a voice and a song travel as fast as light from one end of the world to the other; they have turned beans into automobile bodies and air into fertilizers and acetyline gas into wood substitutes, and wood into velvet—thereby destroying one set of economic values and creating others, all at the same time, and with upsetting speed, while finance has shown no similar imagination or ingenuity, and probably least of all in this country.

He sees that the essential problem is to make capital work, to imbue it with a new enterprising spirit, and he knows that new social and financial inventions are needed for that.

* * *

He also knows that what is no longer permissible in this world is revolution. He knows that the class struggle leading toward revolution is not allowed. It is not permissible, because the society in which we live is so interdependent and complicated, that under revolution, or even with the breakdown for a few hours of the highly complicated economic mechanism, millions of people would perish.

* * *

He knows that the theory of over-production is stark nonsense. Certainly there is over-production of certain commodities, simply because the more economic production of other commodities to take their places, or changes in habits of living, or new forms of world organization affecting international markets, drive them into obsolescence. But the frontiers for horizontal expansion, the social and economic frontiers, are not only not yet exhausted, they are not even visible yet to the imaginative eye.

* * *

He sees that the work-relief program, which simply shunts off a large part of the population into what threatens to become a permanent substandard class, living in an illusory world on the humanitarian instincts of the rest, is not "progressive," but pure defeatism.

He sees that we are headed for disaster if we continue to put the emphasis on distribution rather than on production, to believe that the cake can constantly be recut to provide enough for all, when the cake is growing steadily smaller. "We are consuming more than we produce"—and we have never in our history produced enough to give everybody in this nation a decent economic existence.

He sees that capital, labor and government, have all been laboring under a common economic fallacy, and that the net effect of all of our policies for years, whether capitalistic, governmental, or trade union policies, has been to freeze production and ownership where they are and steadily to diminish them.

And, oh, how refreshing it is to hear a speech from the non-Marxist left cut itself loose from the social work, settlement house and benevolent feudal landlord mentality that has dominated the New Deal ad nauseam!

But when it comes to practical proposals, the speech is weak and the manifesto even weaker. The one concrete proposal is the nationalization of the banking system. I suppose that is what Governor La Follette means when he puts as the first plank in his platform "the public ownership and control, without qualification or reservation, of the banking system."

I suspect that the Governor has been greatly impressed by what Nazi Germany has done with public credit. I suspect that the Governor figures that if Germany, with no money at all, and with serious shortages of raw materials, can do what she has done in the economic field, by the use of public credit, this country can certainly do it too, and do it very much more impressively, with less danger of inflation. The Governor has certainly studied Fascism and learned something from it, and I suspect that there will soon be a cry that this is a Fascist program. That seems to me, at the moment, a superficial observation. There is nothing exclusively or specifically Fascist about many things that the Fascists have done. The means, tempo, and temper of doing them, the philosophy and purposes that lie behind them, are all part of the total picture of Fascism.

But Germany has been able to do what she has done with nationalized banking largely because Mr. Hitler inherited from his predecessors an old, established, efficient, and incorruptible bureaucracy, comparable to no other in the world, and what would work there certainly wouldn't work in the same way here.

* * *

Governor La Follette has also learned a great deal from the Fascists about psychological appeal. Instead of offering benefits, he makes demands. He promises no individual anything out of this new movement, except hard work. He believes that a good society as well as a successful party is the one that asks most. That is shrewd and it is also sound. Also, instead of appealing to organized groups, he appeals to every one—to the vast and preponderant unorganized—and that is the technique of the modern party.

But the banners, the crusade, the exaggerated emotional appeal and the exaggerated nationalism are all somewhat disturbing. This new party, we are told, is going to be a "religion."

Now, this is the way to create fanatics, but it is not the way to create reasonability, and if the Governor begins mixing up economics and mysticism he may be starting something that will run away with him. Because this is the way that you start an intolerance that ends up in burning the heretics in a fanatical totalitarianism.

And with one statement of the Governor's this column takes exception, and picks it out, because it is so typical a statement of these times. "American freedom," he says, "is based on abundance," and the implication in this whole section of the speech is that unless we are rich we shall cease to be interested in being free.

I recommend him to read again the inscription on the Plymouth Rock monument, or Robinson Jeffers' great poem that contains the words: "Freedom is poor and laborious." Or to consider the fact that freedom still lives most vigorously in some of the world's poorer countries, like Denmark and Norway, which cannot compare their national or individual abundance with the great Empires. And that the poor Vermonter has a great deal more of the spirit of freedom than most rich New Yorkers.

The birthright of freedom is not something to be sold for a mess of potage—no, nor for a mess of caviar.

TRIAL FLIGHT

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

COPYRIGHT, 1938, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.

ROGER BRECKNER — hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.

BERYL MELROSE — wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.

EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

* * *

Yesterday: Roger proposed a trial engagement, merely to satisfy Jackie's mother. And Jackie accepts. But will their plan work so smoothly, she wonders.

CHAPTER IV

Roger's idea went over beautifully. Evelyn was delighted to think her Jacqueline was engaged to be married! "I do think, darling, it's too romantic!" she said, ecstatically.

Jackie denied that there was anything romantic about it. "We simply decided to get engaged," she said. "So now, Mother, you can go ahead and marry Mr. Scott."

"So I can," Evelyn said, but rather off-handedly. She wanted to know when Roger was coming to the house. "There are a great many things to discuss," she added thoughtfully.

Jackie experienced that same strange foreboding once again. She did not see what there was to discuss. If she and Roger were engaged that was all there was to it, wasn't it? Apparently bitter experience had not taught Jackie everything, yet.

Roger was surprised that next morning when Jackie came to see him take off. "Gosh," he said, taking both her hands in his, "to think you'd get up almost at sun-up just to wish me happy-landings! That was pretty swell of you, Jackie."

"It wasn't my idea," Jackie said shortly. She pulled her hands away. Why, Roger was acting as though they were engaged! "Mother insisted I ought to see you off. Not that I don't wish you 'happy-landings,' Roger," she added. She did wish he hadn't been leaving on such a dangerous undertaking. She would be pretty jittery until he got back.

"Thanks," Roger returned, rather shortly, too. "Mighty nice of you to be so concerned." He turned to the mechanic, "Make contact, will you, Jerry? And give her the gun.'

"You will be careful, won't you, Roger?" Jackie had a peculiar empty feeling in the pit of her stomach. Almost as though she were the one who was going to do those test dives.

"Oh, sure, I'll be careful," Roger said carelessly. He adjusted his helmet, buckled on the big, clumsy chute. He was flying an open job.

That empty gnawing in Jackie's stomach persisted. She was glad Roger would have that rip-cord to rely on.

The mechanic had the ship warmed up now. He climbed out and Roger took his place. "Well, so long!" he called, raising a hand in salute.

Jackie ran up beside him, straining on tiptoe. "Happy landings!" she called again. She wanted him to know this time she meant it. She could not imagine why she felt so panicky. She didn't feel any different toward Roger just because they were pretending to be engaged. "Oh, yes!" She clung onto the side of the ship. "I forgot—Mother wants you for dinner the first night you're back."

"For dinner?" Roger leaned over the side. Jackie had never noticed before how blue his eyes were, like the sky on this May morning. He certainly was not had to look at in his pilot's outfit. He was enough to make any girl's pulse quicken.

Maybe that was why Jackie's heart started throbbing so rapidly now. Or maybe it was because his lips—for one brief moment—had been so close to hers.

She jerked herself back sharply, "You'll come, won't you, Roger?"

"Sure, I'll be there. With all my medals." He placed a hand over his heart. "Didn't I promise to stand by no matter what happens!"

Jackie had to step back now. He was ready to take off. In a few minutes he would be only a small dark object high up in the sky, getting smaller and smaller, vanishing completely. She raised her hand in a salute, too, a gesture of farewell and God-speed. She wished he had chosen different words to say in parting; "no matter what happens" had an ominous sound. The sort of journey Roger was headed for might so easily not have that happy landing.

She watched that small dark object as long as her eyes could follow it, then turned away. She felt very much alone and forlorn. She told herself, angrily, that she was behaving like a little fool. Roger was a good pilot. They didn't come any better. He would come back safely—stand by—as he had promised.

Nevertheless, Jackie searched the evening papers to see if there were any accounts of crack-ups. She heaved a sigh of relief, then a sharp exclamation, as her attention focused on an entirely different item. There, heading the society column, was her own name!

Her mother was serenely sitting before her triple-mirrored dressing table with its confusion of jars and bottles.

"Did you see this?" Jackie demanded, dashing in on her. She held out the paper at arm's length. Her lovely eyes flashed their golden fire; her face was flushed.

Evelyn finished the perfect cupid's bow of her mouth. "What is it, darling?" She saw the paper; her eyes lighted up, too. She stretched out a hand. "Why, how very nice! 'The announcement is made,' " she read aloud, " 'of the engagement of Miss Jacqueline Dunn, daughter of the romantic actress, Evelyn La Farge, to Mr. Roger Breckner. I wasn't at all sure they could get it in so soon," she added with something like triumph.

"Do you mean that you put that in the papers?" If Jackie's pretty face had been flushed before, now it was crimson.

"Why, of course, darling."

"But I didn't say you could. You didn't even ask me. . . ."

"It scarcely seemed necessary. After all, an announcement always comes from the mother of the bride-to-be. . . ."

* * *

"But I'm not going to be a bride!"

"Not going . . . Why, my dear child, whatever are you saying!" Evelyn got up to put a cool hand on her daughter's brow, to force her gently to sit down. "Didn't you tell me last night that you and Roger are engaged? Didn't you get up almost before daylight this morning to go see your fiance off—such a pity that the poor dear boy should have to go away practically on the eve of your betrothal. . . ."

"I wish you wouldn't talk that way!" Jackie said. Her face was a thunder-cloud now.

"Of course, darling. . . . Naturally you're upset because Roger had to leave, you're terribly worried about him. . . ."

"I'm not!" Jackie winced at a denial that somehow did not ring true. "You had no right, Mother, to tell the whole world." Jackie had not expected quite such fast developments.

But apparently this was only a beginning. "No right? Why, darling, of course I shall tell everyone that my little girl is going to be married! We must have a big party, and then there will be showers given for you, and we must start shopping right away for your trousseau. . . . Jackie, what's wrong? Where are you going, darling?"

But Jackie did not hear this last for she had taken flight from her mother's plans, which were indeed working out much too fast to suit her.

CAPITAL-LABOR PEACE TALK HEARD

HOOVER SEES CHAOS AHEAD; OFFERS CURE

FORMER PRESIDENT BLAMES SLUMP ON NEW DEAL

Oklahoma City, May 5 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, declaring the Roosevelt new deal is heading the nation along "that dangerous road for democracy that led to disaster in Europe," offered tonight a program which he said "would at least be a start on a saner and more cheerful road."

The former president asserted "despite every alibi, this depression is the direct result of governmental actions."

Eleven Steps Listed

These included an end of "spending, inflation and pump-priming," tax revision, a one-third reduction in relief expenditures through decentralization of administration, a drive to balance the national budget, the same rights for employer and employe before the labor board, and a stop to "indiscriminate defamations of business and the creation of class hate."

Mr. Hoover spoke before a "grass roots" convention of Oklahoma Republicans. The address was broadcast nationally.

Still 12 Million Jobless

Discussing his recent trip to Europe, he said 'the torch of liberty has been dashed out by some sort of Fascism" in 14 nations of more than 240,000,000 people—They all undertook new deals under some title, usually, "planned economy," as panaceas to cure economic difficulties.

"Now what road have we been traveling in the United States?" he asked. "We followed a sign marked planned economy, the way to end all depressions. The subtitle was to abundant lift. We at least know now where we have got to. x x x

"The new deal started with a government debt of $21,000,000,000 And today finds itself with a debt either direct or guaranteed of $42,000,000,000. It started with 12,000,000 unemployed; it finds itself after five years with 12,000,000 unemployed."

More Inflation

The former president added that "there should be improvement from this immediate situation no matter what the government does—but it will not be real recovery with full or permanent employment if we continue down this dangerous road."

"But what does the new deal propose to do about this depression of their's?" he went on. It proposes to travel farther down this dangerous road. More bureaucratic dictation to business, more inflation, more pump-priming, more

Shanghai, May 6 (Friday) (AP)—Chinese, jubilant in hopes of a second major victory on the Shantung front, reported their legions today were continuing to sweep back Japan's front lines.

Thrusting through the center, the Chinese said they were approaching Szechuchen, 18 miles north of Pihsien, in southern Shantung province. Only a week ago Japanese were threatening Pihsien.

On the right wing, Chinese said a flying column had skirted Tancheng and had established itself north of the city, cutting Japanese communications.

Tancheng had marked the southernmost advance of the Japanese toward the Lunghai railway, 15 miles away. Now, Chinese said, it is surrounded and a Chinese army has recaptured Matowchen, a walled town four miles to the northwest.

On the Lini-Tancheng highway, along which the Japanese offensive thundered southward two weeks ago, Chinese asserted they had captured 100 Japanese trucks carrying food and ammunition and had destroyed 20.

Chinese reported more than 2,000 Japanese had been killed within the past two days. Their own losses, however, were believed to be much higher since they were charging against superior artillery.

Neutral observers expressed the view that the situation again was becoming deadlocked. Japanese, breaking a silence of several days, denied the Chinese had taken the offensive. They acknowledged, however, they had no actual accounts of recent Shantung fighting.

Japanese warplanes, working in relays, continued their efforts to block Chinese reinforcements. Ten times yesterday Japanese bombers raided villages south of Tancheng where 10,000 Chinese are billeted.

Despite such attacks, Chinese declared they soon would be able to put 300,000 men into the front lines in an effort to consolidate their gains and would build up virtually endless reserves behind them. Chinese have estimated their total force in Shantung at 800,000 men.

ORDER AGAINST FORD VACATED

Labor Relations Board Wins First Tiff in Court of Appeals

Covington, Ky., May 5. (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board won the right today to vacate its order against the Ford Motor Co. and thus regain jurisdiction of the case for elimination of issues as to validity of its procedure.

By unanimous decision, the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals granted the board's request.

Philip G. Phillips, ninth regional NLRB director, termed the action a "complete victory," but added "the battle is just beginning. We certainly don't expect the Ford counsel to take this lying down."

Almost immediately, Frederick H. Wood, chief Ford counsel, telephoned the court from New York and in a dictated statement urged that it weigh carefully portions of a previous Ford petition seeking to prevent withdrawal of the record.

Court attaches said that withdrawal of the papers which was granted would present a moot question that might govern the supreme court's acceptance of the case, in event of an appeal.

Today's decision in effect returned the case to its status as of Dec. 22, 1937, when the labor board issued the order, simultaneously denying a rehearing of its charges that Ford discharged 29 workers in Michigan plants for asserted union activity.

The board made its move in the light of a U. S. supreme court decision vacating an order of the secretary of agriculture because the appellants had not been given a full hearing.

WIFE LEAVING; HE PICKS DOG

Ex-Mailman Lived With Animal 13 Years, Mate Only 3

Salem, Mass., May 5. (AP)—Asked by his wife's counsel to choose between her and his German shepherd dog, John F. Spencer, 63-year-old retired letter carrier, today chose the dog.

"The way things stand right now," Spencer testified at a probate court hearing in which Mrs. Spencer sued for separate support, "I'll chose the dog."

"He's a good animal and I like him. I like my wife, too, but in a different way."

Mrs. Spencer, charging cruel and abusive treatment, pleaded that she should not be forced to share her husband's affections with the 13-year-old animal.

Mrs. Spencer, 51, has been married for three years to Spencer, who has owned the animal 13 years.

Installment Sales Drop; More Liberal Policies Advocated

New York, May 5 (AP)—Pointing to a 33 per cent drop in retail installment sales in the first three months of this year compared with 1937, A. W. Zelomek, economist, warned today "over-cautiousness" had been carried so far as to hurt trade.

"Any liberalization of installment policies which would stimulate sales would be reflected in greater business activity," he asserted, contending expansion in installment sales would be reflected in industries producing durable goods for the consumer. These, he noted, have recently undergone most depressed conditions, resulting [illegible]

EMPLOYES GET SENIORITY PLAN

Detroit Street Railway Bone of Contention Is Removed

Detroit, May 5 (AP)—A system seniority plan for employes of the city-owned Detroit Street Railways, bone of contention in a 32-hour street car strike here April 7 and 8, will be made effective here tomorrow as a result of a state supreme court ruling today.

The high court upheld the system seniority plan, approved in a city referendum but contested by the Motor Coach Operators association.

Fred A. Nolan, general manager of the D. S. R., explained the new plan will mean that street car men may replace coach operators on a seniority basis, and coach operators who were hired at the head of the separate seniority list may be moved far down the preferential list.

Birth Rate Gains In Michigan Over Last Year Record

Lansing, May 5 (AP)—An increase in the state's birth rate from 17.69 in the first quarter of 1937 to 17.80 in the first quarter of this year was reported today by Dr. W. J. V. Deacon, director of records and statistics for the state department of health.

He said there were 213 more births and that deaths of infants under one year of age declined in the past quarter. The total of 1,076 infant deaths this year was 213 less than in the same period last year. There were 84 deaths of mothers from childbirth causes compared with 86 in 1937.

Dr. Deacon reported 1,836 fewer persons died from all causes in the state in the first three months of 1938 compared to last year—a decline of 1.47 deaths per 1,000 of population.

In Chains After Gun Battle

Engineer To Quit After 55 Years On New York Central

Harmon, N. Y., May 5 (AP)—Railroad engineers at the New York Central roundhouse tied down their whistle cords today when old Bob Butterfield brought in the Lake Shore Limited from Albany.

After 55 years with the road, Butterfield announced he was quitting, at 71. Internationally known among railroaders, he piloted the Twentieth Century Limited for 15 years.

His record for the New York-Albany run still stands—143 miles in 142 minutes with a top speed of 105 miles an hour, claimed to be the fastest time by any locomotive on a regular run.

The same trip from New York to Albany took him four days in the blizzard of '88.

State Seeks to Preserve Scenic Values of Ontonagon River

Lansing, May 5 (AP)—Ready to go to court to restrain the Copper District Power company, of Houghton, from diverting waters from upper peninsula water falls, the state today mapped an innovation in legal proceedings—a suit to determine the public's right to preserve scenic values.

Attorney General Raymond W. Starr said he would file suit in Ingham county circuit court next week, asking an injunction restraining the company from diverting water from the Bond and Agate falls, two famed beauty spots on the middle branch of the Ontonagon river.

Starr said he would attempt to extend the established right of the public to protect fish life to protection of scenic values also.

The company planned to construct a dam to turn water from the middle branch into another tributary on which power dams will be located.

Navy Stages Parade As Il Duce And Hitler Cement Partnership

(By The Associated Press)

Naples, May 5.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini, standing on the bridge of an Italian battleship, exchanged views today that may indicate the future course of their Nazi-Fascist partnership.

They talked aboard the Conte Di Cavour while Italy's massed naval power showed the Fuehrer that Rome, whose ancient galley ships once made all others tremble on the seas, again could bid for dominance on the Mediterranean.

Hitler, a good-weather sailor himself, saw one of the greatest and most powerful fleet of fighting ships ever assembled in Mediterranean waters in full action.

Guns thundered; submarines rose and dove in the beautiful blue waters of Naples Bay; war vessels of all sizes went through daring movements; torpedo boats darted in and out of smoke screen shrouds; a "phantom," crewless ship moved in the fleet guided by radio from another vessel.

But it was the display of intimate comradeship between the two dictators that impressed observers.

Belief spread that Hitler successfully had repeated his assurances that he would forego the German-speaking Italian Tyrol in his relentless march toward inclusion of all Germans in a greater Germany.

It was believed also that the Fuehrer spent some time explaining in detail why he felt forced to annex Austria so swiftly that he had no time to notify his Fascist colleague, who had high stakes in the preservation of that country's independence.

SECOND TEST FACED TODAY BY NEW DEAL

PRESTIGE AT STAKE IN WAGE-HOUR BILL VOTE

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, May 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt's leadership, recently backed by a majority of Florida's Democratic primary voters, is again at stake in the effort beginning formally in the house tomorrow to force a vote on the revised wage-hour bill.

Although it is not the only factor involved, the overwhelming victory of administration-supported Senator Pepper in the Florida contest has had a distinct influence, observers and administration aides believe, in rallying support in the house for wage-hour action at this session. There has been a tendency among hesitating Democrats to read into it evidence of Roosevelt strength with the mass of party voters.

Union Prodding Helps

Wage-hour bill leaders in the house have canvassed the membership and report pledges of more than the necessary 218 signatures on a petition to wrest the bill from the hostile rules committee and send it to the house floor. That petition will become available for signing tomorrow. If there is anything like the rush to sign which the leaders foresee that rush may have its own effect on still hesitating members. If the petition were completed at once it would assure a house vote later in the month.

There is little doubt that the size of Senator Pepper's majority in the Florida senatorial primary impressed house Democrats. Even many who anticipated his ultimate nomination in a run-off with either of his leading opponents had not expected a two-to-one turnout for him. It is obvious that his sweep and his straight-out campaign to make President Roosevelt and his policies the issue provided the final stimulus for bringing the wage-hour contest in the house to a quick conclusion, even though the pounding of both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. labor groups may have exerted far greater relative pressure.

May Start Stampede

Should more than 200 house members act under their reported pledges and hasten to sign the petition, the rush to join them might develop into the stampede predicted by the wage-hour steering committee group. The 218 signatures needed represent a majority of the house. If many more than that were affixed to the petition it might mean house passage of the bill by a margin that would make improbable even a senate filibuster to prevent enactment.

Even if the house passed the bill, however, senate action still would be a factor with which the White House would have to reckon before it could write off the wage-hour item of the president's program for this congress as accomplished. There are already whispers that some senators intend to take their time considering house changes in the legislation if it goes back to the senate, which passed a wage-hour bill last year. Nobody uses the word filibuster, but any die-hard argument at a time when congress is fuming to adjourn for campaigning purposes would take on filibuster shadings and might prevent wage-hour action.

A kerosene stove exploded, trapping the child Mrs. Luehman and her sister, Fern Schultz, 16. The city ambulance crew rescued Fern. She and her father, Leonard Schultz, 52, are both in a hospital with first degree burns. Schultz was the only one of the four able to leave the house.

Otto Luehman, husband and father, was at work in a Waukesha factory.

FRANCE EVADES FINANCIAL HOLE

Revalued Franc Pinned to British Pound at 35.80 to Dollar

Paris, May 5 (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier pulled Franse out of the immediate financial hole today by revaluing the French franc and pinning it to the British pound sterling.

The government fixed a lower limit of 179 francs to the pound sterling as the new bottom—equivalent to 35.80 francs to the dollar at the rate of $5 to the pound.

Devaluation—the third since the World War—will give Paper profit of more than 31,208,000,- gold reserves. This step may be delayed for technical reasons.

The government, which Daladier earlier estimated would need 35,000,000,000 france to carry through 1938, however has an obligation of more than 40,000,000,000 francs to the Bank of France.

GETS U. S. SUPPORT

New York, May 5 (AP)—French capital flowed out of New York and London today, back to Paris, reflecting the support given to the Franc following its devaluation by the Daladier government.

The French stabilization control fund sold francs heavily throughout the day to prevent a sharp rise. In New York foreign exchange trading the Franc held mostly around the devalued price of 2.79 cents, in terms of the dollar,, but closed at 2.80 cents.

SPANISH FORCES LOCK IN BATTLE

Loyalists Holding Peak Positions in Path to Mediterranean

Hendaye, France (At The Spanish Frontier), May 5. (AP)—Spanish government and insurgent armies were locked together today in the Canada mountains in a battle for a path to the Mediterranean.

The insurgents struck southeast from the Aliaga sector toward the mountain town of Villarroya De Los Pinares in an effort to crush resistance south of the wedge they already had driven to the sea between Valencia and Barcelona.

Military advices reaching the frontier said the insurgent infantry, preceded by tanks and supported by artillery and warplanes, attacked, but the government was holding its ground in easily defended peak positions.

Direct Relief Load Declines 10 Percent

Lansing, May 5. (AP)—George F. Granger, acting state emergency relief administrator, reported today that the number of employables on direct relief had declined better than 10 per cent from April 15 to April 29.

He said the employable load decreased from 59,898 to 45,523 in that period. The latter figure represents 35.7 per cent of the total relief load.

Granger reported 148,014 persons formerly on direct relief have been transferred to WPA projects, an increase of 10,000 since April 15. He declared 73 per cent of the state's total load of 127,494 came from the 12 major industrial counties in Michigan, that more than three of every seven relief cases came from Wayne county and that one of every two employable cases were in that county.

CHIEF OF UAW RAPS GENERAL MOTORS HEAD

TEAMWORK URGED IN INDUSTRY BY AFL

Washington, May 5 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States urged repeal of the Wagner labor relations act today and asked that "management and labor work together without recourse to the federal government."

These resolutions were passed by the private organization of business men toward the close of an annual convention notable for speeches asserting a need for cooperation between employer and employe. During the convention delegates' attention was attracted by an American Federation of Labor manifesto, couched in conciliatory terms, and calling for capital-labor teamwork.

CIO Still Hostile

Whatever the effect of this pronouncement, the relations between the C. I. O. and many of the delegates to the chamber convention continued hostile. A speech by William Knudsen, president of General Motors, attacking the National Labor Relations board and the C. I. O., drew a reply today from Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.), who accused the motor manufacturer of a "sudden apparent love for craft unions" motivated by a knowledge of "the efficiency and effectiveness with which the industrial union operates."

The C. I. O. goes in for industrial unions taking in all workers in a plant or industry, while the A. F. of L. contains many unions organized along craft lines.

Before the chamber adjourned tonight it re-elected George H. Davis, Kansas City grain man, to be its president.

Labor Board Unfair

Speeches accusing the labor board of partiality culminated in the passage of the resolution advocating repeal of the Wagner act or, that failing, its amendment to protect workers against "interference with any of their rights x x x whether the interference comes from employers, employes or any one else."

This was in line with many employers' complains that while the act forbids employer coercion, or interference with unionization, it does not prevent coercion by unions. The resolution also called for amendments so employers will be "afforded protection."

A resolution on "management and labor," after saying that in other countries" the encroachment of government in the field of business has led to the partial, and in some cases, complete liquidation of the rights and authority of management and labor" said:

"We believe that management and labor should work together without recourse to the federal government on those things of common concern which fairly conserve their respective interests, promote industrial peace and stimulate employment, on which the prosperity of the country depends."

Among other resolutions approved one said "government measures already taken" affecting business "should be re-examined" in order that "unnecessary regulations may be removed and additional measures taken directed to recovery." Such measures, it added, "should free initiative in enterprises promoting employment."

LaFollette's Party Is Ignored By AFL

Washington, May 5. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor decided today to ignore the LaFollette third party movement, for the time being at least.

After the Federation's policy-making executive council concluded its spring meeting, President William Green said "we felt there was nothing to do or consider" about the LaFollette brothers' plans, but "that we would simply have to await developments."

So far, John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chairman, has refused to comment on the LaFollette movement.

SCOUT PROGRAM GETS RESULTS

Child Delinquency Is Reduced, Citizenship Improved

That the Boy Scout movement in Manistique, as in hundreds of other communities of the United States, is reaping big profits by providing better citizenship and reducing child delinquency is the unqualified opinion of hundreds of local residents, Manistique scout leaders have reported.

Although the Scout movement was reorganized here only one year ago, considerable progress has already been made, with 150 boys embraced in the program.

In addition to the Boy Scout Troops, which embrace 12 years of age and over, Cub Packs have been organized here, which provide a well rounded boys program for lads 9, 10 and 11 years of age. The program for these boys is under parent leadership, and the Cubs receive monthly inspections for rating in the various phases of their program, just as do their older brothers who are in Scout troops.

Next Monday, a one day campaign to solicit funds for the promotion of the Scouting program here for the ensuing year will be conducted in Manistique. A goal of $1,000 has been fixed, of which $750 will be used as Manistique's part of the expense of maintaining the newly organized Red Buck Council. The remainder will be used to carry on local projects.

The total forest area of North America is almost 1,500,000,000 acres.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys—How To Get Happy Relief
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ESCANABA MAY GET AIR MAIL

Detroit - Sault Service May Be Extended to This City

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—R. Stuart Weeks of Port Huron was low bidder on the proposed new air mail route between Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie via Bay City and Port Huron.

Bids for the route were opened by the postoffice department. It was learned from the office of Senator Prentiss M. Brown that an attempt by a Sault Ste. Marie interest to postpone opening until another bid could be submitted was ignored.

The contract for the new route will not be let until postal authorities have investigated the equipment of Weeks, and his ability to fill the requirements of the department under the airmail set-up.

Weeks bid was 28.5 cents per mile.

Senator Brown said the proposed route would connect Detroit and the upper state at Sault Ste. Marie. Extension of the line beyond that point to Escanaba and Duluth will come later.

Cities on the new line will include in addition to Bay City and Port Huron, Saginaw, Flint and Cheboygan.

Today's development carried another step forward the long sought air mail route up the Lake Huron side of the state into the northern section. In event Weeks is able to meet postal requirements a contract will probably be let within the near future, and service will be started immediately after the contract is given.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 5 (AP)—The stock market lost its rallying urge today to close moderately irregular.

The list dipped at the opening but braced itself in the second hour when utilities developed strong support. Aircrafts and specialties swung upward and it looked for a time as though Wednesday's advance would be extended substantially.

Selling in steels at the last put recovery proponents on the defensive and even utilities and aviations backed away from best levels. Rails, on the whole, held better than even.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 39.1. Transfers expanded to 687,220 shares, due to the relatively fast morning push. The aggregate, even though under the mark at which most commission houses can show a profit, was the largest since April 22.

The power and light company stocks apparently were motivated largely by rumors the administration was getting ready to make some sort of a conciliatory proposal to these concerns.

Steels were handicapped by talk of lower prices for third quarter deliveries, although observers in this field were far from being in accord on this question.

Traders were given a pleasant surprise after the close when Chrysler directors disclosed a profit of 48 cents a share in the first quarter and voted a dividend of 50 cents a share on the common. No payment was made in the initial quarter. In the same 1937 period the corporation earned $2.51 a share. Guesses on the 1938 first quarter operations generally were for a deficit ranging from 50 cents to more than $1 a share, and few expected declaration of a dividend. The stock finished with a loss of 5-8 of a point at 41 3-8. General Motors was unchanged at 30 5-8. After the New York close, Chrysler was lifted sharply on the San Francisco exchange.

Carrier and utility bonds displayed strength. Aiding the loans department were further signs of a break in the new financing dam. Following U. S. Steel's announcement of a $100,000,000 debenture offering for June, Commonwealth Edison, important mid-west utility, revealed it would soon register for the issuance of bonds and debentures probably involving more than $70,000,000.

Most commodities were unable to get ahead. Wheat at Chicago was down ¼ to 7-8 of a cent a bushel and corn was unchanged to up 3-8. Cotton yielded 25 to 40 cents a bale.

Support Gives Curb Some Modest Gains

New York, May 5 (AP)—The curb market attracted enough support for a modest advance today.

After a hesitant start utilities and industrial specialties moved ahead for gains ranging from fractions to around 4 points. Extreme gains were shaded by late profit selling.

Cities Service "NW" closed ½ higher at 9½; American Gas & Electric up ¼ at 27; American Light & Traction up ¼ at 12 5-8; Northern States Power "A" up 5-8 at 10½.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass finished at 74, up 3; Sherwin Williams 83 3-8, up 7-8; Pan American Airways 14¾, up 5-8; Newmont 54 3-8, up 2 7-8, and McWilliams Dredging 9 5-8, up ¼.

Aluminum Co. of America dropped 1½ to 77½.

Fear Train Change

Ishpeming.—Officers of the Ishpeming Industrial association will send a letter to the Chicago and North Western railway endorsing and supplementing the action taken Tuesday by the Town club, which voted to contact the railway concerning reports of a possible change in sleeper service here and at the same time giving assurance of cooperating in patronizing the road.

A spokesman for the association said: "I believe heartily in the soundness of the action taken by the Town club. All matters of community service are two-way propositions. You can't expect a business, railway or any other, to go out of its way to assist a community when residents of that place are going out of their way to patronize a competitor.

"And that, of course, is exactly what has happened in Ishpeming for several months."

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, May 5 (AP)—The fed steer and yearling market strengthened today when the run dwindled to starvation proportions. The killing condition, however, was better and the general opinion was that any improvement today was not a reflection of the undertone to the trade. Hogs and lambs sold weak to lower on moderately increased supplies.

Hogs 13,000, including 3,500 directs; slow, steady to 10 lower than Wednesday's average, closed at full decline; top 8.25; good and choice 170 to 260 lbs., 7.90 to 8.20; 270 to 300 lbs., 7.80 to 8.00; 310 to 360 lbs., 7.60 to 7.90; most good packing sows, 7.00 to 7.25; smooth butcher kinds to 7.40; big weights under 7.00; shippers took 800; estimated holdover 2,000.

Cattle 3,500, calves 1,500, fed steers and yearlings active and strong but killing condition improved; best steers available 9.60, average 1,256 lbs.; light yearlings up to 9.00; bulk of steer and yearling crop 7.75 to 8.75; she stock scarce and steady to strong; mixed steer and heifer yearlings 8.85; several loads heifers 8.00 to 8.50; bulls strong to 15 higher and weighty vealers steady; light kinds 25 lower; weighty sausage bulls frequently up to 6.90; choice weighty vealers 9.00 to 9.50; light kinds 8.00 down.

Sheep 9,000, including 1,500 direct; fat lambs weak to 15 lower; wooled lambs 8.25 to 8.75; bulk to packers around 8.50; top clipped lambs 8.15 on outstanding 90 lb. weights; medium to choice offerings mostly 6.75 to 7.90; sheep steady; native ewes 4.50 to 4.75; good wooled ewes 5.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 5 (AP)—Tumbles of virtually 3 cents a bushel at Winnipeg made Chicago wheat prices average lower today despite transient fractional gains.

Heavy liquidating sales by holders of Winnipeg May contracts were associated with dearth of North American export business, together with persistent downturns of Liverpool quotations. Cables said timely rains had halted Italy's threatened crop disaster, and that Australian arrivals bulked large in Europe.

Much talk was heard that the 1938 Canadian crop had been assured an excellent start, and that to tender new crop United States wheat on the Liverpool July option without loss the offer would have to be at 90 cents, as against present cost of about 98 cents.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ¼ to 7-8 down compared with yesterday's finish, May 79 7-8 to 80, July 78 3-8 to 78½, corn unchanged to 3-8 higher, May 57½, July 58 3-4 to 58 7-8, oats showing 1-8 to 3-8 decline, rye varying from 3-8 off to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to 40 cents setback.

Contributing to price downturns here were suggestions that sharply lower temperatures tonight southwest and west with possible frost would end rust menace to crops, temporarily at least. At first, however, drenching rains in Kansas last night were reported as likely to increase rust hazard. Considerable buying of new crop futures here resulted in short-lived gains.

Chicago May contracts led price declines here, and fell to 79 5-8 cents, off 1 1-8 cents overnight, but at 79 7-8 to 80.

Corn displayed firmness throughout the day owing to curtailment of rural offerings. Chicago arrivals, however, continued liberal, 521 cars today. Export takings totalled 400,000 bushels. Estimated Argentine clearances this week, 1,131,000 bushels, were the largest this season. Rye and oats mostly followed wheat.

Warehouse interests were sellers of provisions.

New York, May 5 (AP)—Bonds helped to brighten the Wall Street investment sector today by scoring gains on a wide front.

The market topped its previous efforts in the May uphill push which got under way at the start of the week. Rails, out of the running for a long time, came back as leaders with final gains running to around 2 points in some of the secondary ratings.

Utility loans were almost equally impressive, showing many advances of a point or more under buying which trading circles credited to recently appearing signs of more harmonious relations between the federal government and the privately owned power companies.

The better demand for rails was attributed to the further steps taken by Washington authorities to make available to some of the carriers funds for new equipment and other purposes.

Trading continued at a moderate pace, although total volume of $5,256,400 was somewhat ahead of recent sessions. It compared with $4,921,025 yesterday.

U. S. governments, which had guided the market into higher ground since President Roosevelt announced the government's credit expansion policies around mid-April, were somewhat reactionary, with a majority of losses ranging from 1-32 to 12-32 of a point.

Japanese government obligations were soft. In most leading foreign groups fractional gains predominated.

Those in charge of both jamboree and Ottawa forest trip are Professors U. J. Noblet and R. B. Miller, and the forestry club president, Jud Bentley.

RATE SCHEDULE BEING DEBATED

REA Officials to Confer With Power Firm on Lower Prices

In an effort to obtain a satisfactory wholesale rate for the cooperative rural electrification projects centering in Ontonagon and Delta Counties, F. Harper Craddock, chief of the REA Rate Section, will confer in Lansing with officials of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company, representatives of the two projects, and members of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. The exact time of the conference has not yet been set, but it will probably be on Thursday, May 5.

The power company has arranged to send its General Manager, William E. Schubert of Appleton, Wisconsin, to Lansing for the conference.

The rate offered by the power company, and which the company reports it is unwilling to reduce, is objectionable in several respects. It would average 1.59 cents per kilowatt-hour when the projects reach their anticipated development, which REA believes is much too high to permit the cooperatives to operate successfully and which is out of line with the current trend in wholesale power rates offered for rural power projects in other parts of the country. It involves a minimum charge which REA believes may penalize the farmers unduly in the early stages of the project. Moreover, the rate is not of the inducement type but is a flat rate irrespective of the actual quantity of electricity used.

Because of these objections to both the level an dthe form of the wholesale rate quoted, REA has requested a further and more direct discussion of the subject. The power company readily consented, and the conference with Mr. Graddock and Mr. Schubert was arranged.

Mrs. Delia Derouin Dies Suddenly At Her Home Thursday

Mrs. Delia Derouin, 63, wife of Joseph Derouin, died suddenly at the family home, 822 North 18th street, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Derouin had been shopping during the afternoon and soon after she returned to her home suffered a heart attack which caused her death.

Mrs. Derouin was born, Delia Guilbeault, on May 22, 1875, at Calumet and first came to Escanaba as a child eight years old. She had made her home in and near Escanaba since that time. Forty-nine years ago on April 28 she was married to Joseph Derouin at St. Anne's church here.

The body was taken to the Boyce Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and will be returned to the family home this afternoon. Funeral arrangements will be completed today.

She is survived by her husband, three sons, two daughters, four sisters, three brothers and 22 grandchildren. The children are: Mrs. Harvey Deault, Escanaba; Mrs. Leo Doubar, Wells; Adolph Derouin, Louis Derouin, of Escanaba, and Joseph Derouin, Jr., of Detroit. The sisters and brothers are: Mrs. Fred Gardner, Wells; Mrs. Jacob Sullivan, Escanaba; Mrs. John Dumas, Duluth; and Mrs. Clyde Gardner, Chicago; John Guilbeault, Racine; Charles Guilbeault, Escanaba, and George Guilbeault, Duluth.

The heaviest rainfall in Los Angeles was in 1884, when more than 38 inches of rain fell.

Cubs Swamp Phils, 21-2; Big Guns Win For Tigers

EIGHTH INNING NETS 12 RUNS

Four Pitchers Blasted; Chicago Rookie Gives Only Six Hits

Chicago, May 5 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs presented rookie Paul Epperly with 12 runs in the eighth inning today, but the 20 year old pitcher up from Moline of the Three Eye League did not need them to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 21 to 2, in his major league debut.

Epperly held the Phils to six hits while Rip Collins and Augie Galan blasted out the Cubs' 19 th and 20th home runs as part of the 18 hit assault on Wayne LaMaster, Tommy Reis, Pete Sivess and Harold Kelleher. LaMaster was charged with the defeat although he pitched but three balls and a strike to the first batter, Stan Hack, before retiring with a strained arm.

The Cubs' 12 runs in one inning bettered the season's previous major league high of 10 established by Cleveland against Detroit Monday and was within two of the modern record held jointly by the Cubs and the New York Yankees. The Cubs made 10 hits in the single frame.

Washington, May 5 (AP)—Johnny Stone banged out a home run with the bases loaded today as the Senators beat the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 6.

The victory gave Washington the series, two games to one.

Zeke Bonura got three of the Senators' blows, and rookie George Case whacked out a couple.

Unable to score during the first five innings, Cleveland got three runs in the sixth, another in the eighth and two in the ninth. The tying runs were on base when Ken Keltner was called out on strikes to end the game.

Hail The Chief!

Stagehand Withdrawn From Kentucky Derby

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

Louisville, Ky., May 5. (AP)—A bomb exploded unexpectedly in the midst of Kentucky Derby preparations today, left America's most famous horse race practically certain to be without its favorite, Stagehand, and threw the $50,000 classic wider open than ever.

The Earl Sande-trained Cinderella horse, 5 to 2 choice to win Saturday at Churchill Downs as the result of his triumph over Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita handicap last March, was withdrawn when he developed a high temperature from a sore throat.

The fever reached as high as 104.2 degrees last night. When it failed to drop below 101 this morning, owner Maxwell Howard of Dayton, Ohio, announced his ace would not parade to the post and that he would rest his hopes on The Chief, conqueror of Stagehand and Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin Tuesday in the trial stakes. The ailment is similar to that which has kept many two-year-olds out of competition at the Downs this year.

Sande said late today Stagehand's fever had gone down and there was an indication that he would be formally entered for the derby when the books are opened tomorrow, by this the colt would be eligible in case Howard believed him as fit to run by Saturday. He was regarded as a doubtful starter despite this.

Sande said the Colt was normal again but added "the only condition under which we will enter him will be that he is kicking the stalls down (meaning full of life and activity.) but I don't think he will be. I'm not going to take any chance with the horse."

Sande himself was reluctant to admit that his string of luck had been broken with the horse that won five straight races on the west coast, whipping Seabiscuit by a nose in the rich Santa Anita handicap after failing to win a race last year. He clung to the hope that a miracle might occur but it was just hope

"While Stagehand's condition is not serious, I do not believe in taking chances with such a good horse," said The Earl as he walked up and down the barn with only a trace of his familiar smile. "Even if he shows improvement within the next two or three days, it will still mean I could not start him even in the Preakness, May 14, as it will be at least ten days or two weeks before he can be returned to hard training."

Stagehand's withdrawal was the derby's most severe blow since Equipoise, also the future book favorite, pulled up lame on the eve of the 1931 renewal. Stagehand, trained by one of the turf's most popular horsemen, had caught the fancy of the public as few horses have in recent years. Sande himself had handpicked the colt of J. E. Widener's stable as a two-year-old, paying $8,000 for him chiefly because he was a full brother of Sceneshifter, another Howard star.

The son of Sickle was not much as a juvenile, placing second once and third twice in eight races. He developed into a full fledged star at Santa Anita, however, climaxing his California campaign by winning the $50,000 Santa Anita derby and $100,000 handicap within a space of ten days.

The withdrawal reduced the probable starting field to ten, the smallest since ten faced the barrier in 1922, swept William Woodward's Fighting Fox into the favorite's position and rallied support for Warren Wright's Bull Lea, Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin and Hal Price Headley's Menow. Although The Chief equalled the track record for a mile in the derby trial, he is considered no such formidable contender as was Stagehand.

Bartenders Toss Balls Instead Of Drinks; Lose 12-11

Bats and balls flew through the air with greatest of abandon last night in the grudge game between the state liquor commission employes and the Escanaba bartenders, played at the old brewery diamond. A final checkup of the score showed the liquor commission ahead by a margin of 12 to 11.

Several errors in judgment cost the bartenders the game. Pat Foye didn't have his glasses (spectacles) and couldn't hit the ball, but he hit the catcher instead. A flighty bat, slipping out of Pat's hands, described a parabola, caromed off Mike Greis, and bopped a player on the snozzle. Then again, with the bases full in the ninth, Greis was up to bat, but couldn't be found. He thought the game was over and held down half of an automobile seat instead of the home plate.

One of the bartender stars, known as the "white father of the Sherman hotel," cut across from first base to third to simplify his base-running, but neglected to touch third, and the score wasn't counted.

Mike Walch, veteran ump, officiated at the regatta, and did a faultless job, considering the complicated plays attempted.

Councilman R. B. Stack, former star pitcher, threw the first ball to start the game. It was estimated that 3,000 people watched the evening battle.

White Sox Hammer Out 10-4 Victory Over Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 5 (AP)—Frank Gabler, former National league hurler, made a successful debut in the American league ranks today with a seven-hit mound performance as the Chicago White Sox hammered three Philadelphia Athletics pitchers for 17 hits and a 10 to 4 victory.

Boze Berger hit the first pitch of the game for a home run and added three more safeties to pace the winners' attack. Gee Walker hit one into the left field stands with Berger and Steinbacher on base in the third to tie the score at 4 to 4.

The White Sox added two more runs after Walker's homer in the third to clinch the victory.

RUDY YORK HAS TWO HOMERUNS

Fistfight in Fifth Sends Tebbetts to Showers; Sox Lose, 7 to 5

Boston, May 5 (AP)—Detroit's big siege guns—Rudy York and Hank Greenberg—slugged the Tigers to a 7 to 5 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the series finale here today, Rudy slamming out two home runs and Hank one.

Some other slugging—by Catcher George Tebbetts of Detroit and Right Fielder Ben Chapman of Boston, using fists instead of bats, —brought their banishment from the game in the fifth and broke up a Boston rally.

Vernon Kennedy, the former Chicago White Sox hurler, got credit for winning his third game for Detroit, although Slicker Coffman was called to quell a Red Sox uprising in the last of the ninth.

Schoolboy May Pitch

The victory gave the Tigers their first series of an eastern tour, two games to one. They invade New York tomorrow with Schoolboy Rowe or Elden Auker slated to face the Yankees.

York, starting the game at left field, was hitless until after the fight that sent Tebbets to the showers and brought the big Cherokee back to his catching pads. Then he made up for lost time by duplicating Greenberg's home run in the sixth inning, and blasting another in the eighth, this time scoring Greenberg who had singled. York's second homer broke a 4-4 tie and scored what proved to be the winning run.

Fred Ostermueller, who started on the mound for Boston, was the victim of the sixth-inning homers. York's second was hit off Archie McKain. Greenberg's homer was his fifth of the season; York's two brought his total to three.

The Red Sox seemed well on the way toward breaking up the ball game when the Tebbetts-Chapman fistic encounter occurred. The Tigers had taken a one-run lead on Don Ross' single, Willie Rogell's double and Kennedy's infield out.

The fireworks started in the Boston fifth. Five men in succession hit safely. Roger Cramer opened the inning with a triple. Joe Vosmik scratched a single to Ross, Cramer holding third, and both runners scored when Jimmie Foxx hit his fourth home run of the year. Joe Cronin doubled to left and Higgins singled to right. Cronin scored on a wild pitch.

Then Chapman came to bat. Kennedy struck him out, and Chapman argued a strike decision with Plate Umpire Rue, Tebbetts also getting into the dispute. A few insults were tossed as Chapman left the plate, and he and Tebbetts met swinging. Other players separated the fighters, who were escorted to the clubhouse.

The fight apparently settled Kennedy's pitching. Two flies by the next batters accounted for the second and third outs of the inning, and then the Tigers started to get back into the game.

The two sixth inning homers cut Boston's lead to a single run, and Kennedy batted in the tying run in the seventh, scoring Cullenbine who had walked and gone to second on Rogell's sacrifice.

Coffman Halts Rally

York's second circuit clout put Detroit in the lead and they scored another in the ninth off Relief Hurler Charles Wagner, filling the bases with one out on two singles and a walk. Rogell scored the seventh Detroit run as Charley Gehringer, who went hitless in five times at the plate today, hit into a force play.

Cronin walked to start the Red Sox ninth, and when Higgins singled Cochrane sent Coffman to replace Kennedy. Cronin scored from third after Nonnenkamp's long fly, but then the Slicker ended matters by fanning Pinch Batters Fabian Gaffke and John Marcum.

Old Diz Tames Down, Nurses $185,000 Arm

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, May 5. (AP)—Baseball's one and only Dizzy Dean worked out like a lowly rookie today—with his $185,000 arm just so much excess baggage.

The famed pitcher, for whom the Chicago Cubs turned over that much cash and three players less than three weeks ago to the St. Louis Cardinals, began the campaign he hopes will eliminate the arm soreness which threatens to knock a big hole in the Cub pennant chances.

Ole Diz, whose high-priced arm was X-rayed yesterday and found to be handicapped by an inflammation of a shoulder muscle, was not the loquacious Dean of old as he jogged around the lonely outfield expanse of windswept Wrigley Field, with three young sandlot hopefuls for company. He wasn't popping off. He said he wasn't discouraged, but made it plain he was serious about making good—within 30 days—on a comeback to former greatness.

"Maybe its the best thing after all that they found out something was definitely wrong with my arm," he said, sniffling a little with a cold. "I suspected things weren't right several days ago and I know I haven't been in good physical shape this year, mainly because I was sick during the first weeks of training. I weigh 193 pounds now and my best pitching weight is 185. When I get down to that and my arm gets rested, I'm sure I'll be all right again."

Manager Charlie Grimm ordered Dean to take daily running drills to increase his endurance powers, obviously at low ebb in Dean's four appearances on the hill as a Cub, even though he is credited with three victories and no defeats. He finished only one nine inning stretch and complained of "being tired" against Philadelphia Tuesday.

Dean threw no balls today and he won't use his arm for another two weeks. Then, for another fortnight, he will gradually limber up the "whip" which once blazed them past batsmen in a manner which gained Diz recognition as one of the greatest moundsmen of the modern baseball era.

Manager Grimm and Dean's teammates readily voice confidence that Dean, by June 4, will be ready for his regular turn on the hill and a chance to win what Diz maintains will count up to 20 victories for the season. Last year Tex Carleton suffered arm soreness and had his arm in a cast for a month. When he returned to duty he became the best Cub pitcher, and the Cubs now, with fingers crossed, are hoping Dean's case will turn out as well.

TERRY'S GIANTS GIVEN SETBACK

Cincinnati Reds Take 5-2 Decision, Grab Series 2 to 1

Cincinnati, May 5 (AP)—The rude Reds took a 5 to 2 decision from Terry's New York Giants today and thereby handed the National league champions their first series setback of the year. Today's win gave the Reds the set, two games to one.

Mel Ott's wild peg past first in a tight spot in the eighth inning let the Giants' defenses down enough to permit the Reds to shove three runs across, break a tie, and give Jim Weaver and Ray Benge the decision over Harry Gumbert, who went the route for Terry's Terriers.

The hero was Benge who was summoned in the eighth when Weaver found himself on a spot with Giants on every base and two balls and no strikes on Lou Chiozza at the plate. Benge took over and fanned Lou to stop the Giants' last threat.

League Entries Must Be Filed By Thursday Night

All teams planning to enter the senior softball league must file an official entry with the city recreation department on or before 9:00 p. m. Thursday, May 12. League play will start Monday, May 16.

All indications point to the biggest softball season since 1934. Nearly all of last year's teams are entering again this year and many new teams have been organized and will enter by the deadline date. Among the new teams are the State Highway, Carlson's, Indians, Delta Hardware, Forest Service, Columbian Squires, Fair Store, Gambles, Coca Colas, and one or two other teams who have not selected a name. If all teams enter that have planned to do so, there will be approximately twenty teams in the senior league alone.

Veteran And Rookie Both Alike To Bees

St. Louis, May 5. (AP) — The Boston Bees swarmed on rookie Max Macon and veteran Guy Bush for nine hits, one a homer, in the fifth and sixth innings today to take the final game of their first series of the season with the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 2.

The game started as a pitcher's battle between the young Macon and 32-year-old Milburn Shoffner. The first four innings were scoreless and hits were few.

Then in the fifth four hits and a walk gave the Bees three runs. The spree was climaxed by Cooney's double.

Score by innings:

St. Louis --- 000 000 020—2 8 0

EBEN TO ENTER MEET AT ROCK

Defending Champions In Class C to Open Track Season

Chatham, May 4—In an effort to fill many vacancies in the 1937 upper peninsula Class C and Alger county track and field championship team, resulting from graduation, transfers and accidents, Coach MacNeil has been drilling his Eben high school athletes hard in preparation for their first meet.

With strong competition on tap from Trenary, Munising and Grand Marais in the Alger county meet and from all Class C teams in other meets, the boys are working faithfully in the hope of attaining laurels won last year.

At Rock Saturday

Eben will compete at Rock Saturday and on May 14 the boys travel to Negaunee for the district meet. The Alger county track and field meet will be held May 18, and the upper peninsula regional is scheduled for Houghton, May 21. Topping things off, the Eben track and field men will enter the Northern relays at Marquette May 25 and the Escanaba relays on Memorial Day.

The high school girls' track and field team is improving rapidly. On Friday, May 6, entries in the junior girls' and boys' teams will be settled when the Rock River township meet is held at Chatham. Coach MacNeil is taking the following junior high relay team to Rock Saturday: Walfred Haqqola, Oliver Salmi, Howard Ylinen, Arnold Kallio, Leslie Ross and William Carlson.

The relay team will compete in the special invitational 440-yard relay for junior high schools.

WOLVES MEET ILLINI OUTFIT

Only Dual Track Meet of Season Will Be Held Saturday

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 5.—(Special)—Michigan's Conference championship track team, undefeated this year, will make its only home appearance of the outdoor season here Saturday in a dual meet with Illinois.

The Illini are expected to offer slight opposition to Michigan's team power and balance but close competition in all events is predicted on the basis of past performances.

Illinois strength is expected to assert itself in the sprints, hurdles, high jump, shot, discus and relay.

In the sprints Bill Lehmann, Bob Ashley and Nugent (Shotgun) Wedding will be favored over Michigan's entries, Bill Watson, who runs the hundred for the first time, Carl and Fred Culver, Norm Purucker and Jim Rae. In the hurdles the Illini have Jack Robinson, former Conference indoor high barriers champion and Dick Brunton, who was fourth outdoors. They will face Elmer Gedeon as favorite, however, despite the fact Gedeon has been concentrating on baseball during the spring.

In the high jump Bob Diefenthaler, who was third in the Big Ten outdoor meet and who has shot for 6 feet 8 inches in the winter, will meet Michigan's sophomore ace, Wes Allen, who is consistent around 6 feet 4 inches. George Gragg, with throws of better than 48 feet, will be the Illini hope in the shot against Bill Watson and in the discus Dean Frary, Drake Relays champion, will attempt to take the measure of Watson and John Townsend.

Best race of the meet is predicted in the mile relay. The Illini, at the Drake Relays last week ran the distance in 3:19 while Michigan, at the Penn Relays, was finishing fifth in 3:20.

Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich each hit his third homer of the season. DiMaggio also collected a triple and a single and drove in four runs. Billy Knickerbocker connected for a triple, double and single off his old mates and batted three runs across.

GORDON MIGHT JOIN CHICAGO

Packer Tackle Prefers To Remain Home Next Season

Green Bay, Wis., May 5—There is a possibility that Lou Gordon, veteran Packer tackle, may sport the uniform of the Chicago Bears this fall.

Gordon, who is a resident of the Windy City, prefers to stay at home as he is dabbling in politics, teaching in a high school and doing a lot of wrestling officiating in the Illinois metropolis.

Big Lou figures that in his spare moments he could play some football for the Bears as they will be at home a considerable part of the schedule.

Big Sixth Inning Wins For Pirates

Pittsburgh, May 5 (AP)—The Pirates came to life in a big sixth inning today, shoved over three runs on four hits, and whipped the rooklyn Dodgers 4 to 2 behind Red Lucas' five-hit pitching.

Except for that frame, old Waite Hoyt held his former mates in check. They made only three hits outside of that one inning. Going into the last of the sixth, he held a 2-1 edge on the strength of Dolph Camilli's homer with a mate aboard in the first half of the frame.

Conservation of Wildlife

NATURALISTS and conservationists say that the era of wildlife exploitation is now drawing to a close. Increased interest manifested by States and Federal agencies, by sportsmen, and by the general public has at last checked an abuse and neglect that started 300 years ago.

Previous to the coming of the white settlers, the North American continent possessed an abundance and variety of wildlife not surpassed by any other continent. Wildlife, like vegetation, is modified as its habitat changes, and it varies in form and abundance according to climate, soil fertility, and location. North America, with its crest of icy arctic and its base in the warm subtropical region of the Gulf of Mexico, Rocky Mountains in the West, Alleghenies in the East, arid deserts, fertile plains, and well watered valleys, was suitable for this abundance and variety of wildlife.

With the occupation of the land by the white settlers, wildlife began to diminish. The decrease was imperceptible at first, but it was definite nevertheless, for once the settlers had brought the primitive land under tillage or exploited it by industry, it long remained in that status. As they moved westward the new settlers subjugated more and more of the wild land, and the wildlife that remained in rear of the advancing line of frontiersmen was forced to adjust itself to a new environment.

The fertile ground that for ages had grown crops of wild game and fur animals was now required to grow corn, wheat, tobacco, beans, and cotton, and to support domestic flocks and herds. This condition, disastrous for many species, benefited others. The big-game species suffered first and most. While the bison, elk, deer, and bears were extirpated or forced to retire to areas remote from cultivation, some of the smaller creatures, including the quail, the rabbit, the raccoon, and the opossum, found the additional food supply grown by the farmer an encouragement to increase their numbers and extend their ranges.

Some of the great American fortunes were founded upon the fur trade, notably that of the Astor family. Their remote trading posts in a few years garnered the wealth of fur and left to posterity scarcely more than scattered remnants of what had been a tremendous resource. The pelts of fur animals and the hides of bison were commodities that would endure transportation from the wilderness to the settlements, but the flesh of game birds and mammals could not be sent back over the long trail.

Killing for the market did not become a serious factor in the reduction of game until stimulated by the growth of cities and towns and the development of railways. Traffic in game as food flourished after the Civil War and reached its peak in the 80's. During that time millions of passenger pigeons, prairie chickens, grouse, ducks, geese, upland plover, snipe, woodcock, quail, and other food species were annually sent to market by gunners. The passenger pigeon was exterminated and certain other game species were so badly reduced that they have never since recovered.

Market shooting seems to have enriched no one, for much of the game taken for the then legitimate market spoiled on its way. What was sound and salable brought a price so low that the receipts were often not sufficient to pay expenses. Many game birds sold for a few cents a pair, and the business was so badly organized and competition so keen that the markets were nearly always glutted. Shooting for the market was continued, however, until sportsmen and conservationists at the beginning of the present century became alarmed and sought State and national legislation to prohibit traffic in game.

Summer Health Round-Up

THE Parent-Teacher association again will sponsor the Summer Round-up of pre-school children, with the hope of having every child who will enter school for the first time next fall as free as possible from remediable physical defects.

Dr. Reolof Lanting, director of the county health unit, and Miss Gertrude Sheahan, R. N., school nurse, will be at the various schools in the city, beginning May 16, to give physical examinations to the pre-school boys and girls.

In 1925 the Summer Round-Up of Children was first inaugurated by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, based on the conviction that the home is responsible for the health of the preschool child and that the home can make no greater contribution to the school than a pupil physically ready to take advantage of the opportunities which education has to offer.

The Summer Round-Up results in the correction of defects and immunization against communicable diseases and is a medium through which valuable instruction in child health is brought to parents. It follows the theory that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". Parents may save themselves a lot of worry by cooperating in this very worthwhile health program.

All Parks to Open

WELCOME news to the tourist and resort interests of the state comes with the announcement of P. J. Hoffmaster, state conservation director, that his department will operate all state parks this year despite the fact its request for a minimum of $45,000 for maintenance and operation was met only in part by the state administrative board.

The state came more than half way in providing $25,000, considering the financial straits in which it find itself. With this allotment Mr. Hoffmaster has worked out a plan whereby the employment of WPA projects will make possible complete operation of the system. Credit goes both to the state board and to Mr. Hoffmaster for providing a solution to this problem.

Michigan's parks hold top rank among the tourist attractions of the state. In view of the growing trailer-tourist army it is imperative that the state provide accommodations. And any investment along this line is one that pays rich dividends. The tourist who passes through Michigan, even though he does not tarry in one spot, easily pays his way. If he drives 1,000 miles on Michigan highways he pays at least $1.08 in gasoline and sales taxes on his motor fuel alone. Probably he will pay an equal tax on the food he consumes and the things he buys. He leaves from $3 to $5 in the state's coffers even if he is here for only a few days. Multiply this by 100,000—which is only a small part of the actual traffic—and it is readily seen that there is a rich return.

Our state parks are an important part of the state's contributions to the tourist industry which contributes so much in return. With a solution of the financial problem met this year the state should resolve that it will not permit any threat to arise in the future that this service will be in any way contracted. At least not while expansion still is needed to meet the demand.

Getting and Spending

"WOMEN are entirely too conservative when it comes to spending money" was a chairman's declaration at the National League of Women Voters convention. It set the delegates to pondering a bigger and better budget.

Well, times certainly change. Or is the chairman's statement not an observation of a new truth, but a correction of an old error in the male conception of the female spending habit?

The day before the Woman Voter made her observation, in St. Louis, police raided a bingo party in New York. Two thousand women staged a near-riot trying to get their admission fee back. Fifty extra policemen were called to restore order. The admission fee was a quarter.

Those ladies certainly appeared to be counting the pennies all right. But for what? Bingo! Well, it takes all kinds of economy and all kinds of economists to make a world.

AROUND THE PENINSULA

Ironwood Globe

Down in Menominee, John J. O'Hara, former auditor general who was appointed to the office by Governor Fitzgerald, is breaking into the limelight occasionally, but it is no indication he will seek the post he formerly held. His limelighting comes in the form of speeches, and it is not his own making. O'Hara is what the fellow on the street calls a humdinger of a speaker and it is natural he should be in demand. When it comes to scoring for patriotism, as he did a few days ago, O'Hara can hit the mark.

Right now the mining districts of the Peninsula are wondering what John N. Fegan, youthful chairman of the state tax commission, will do when he visits this section of the state. He has said he will advise local assessors on mining valuations and will sound out local sentiment on the suggested severance tax. If he merely advises local assessors, it will be something new. The tax commission has always been in the habit of setting the mine valuations. Fegan by the way, is not as loquacious as he used to be, suggesting that perhaps the governor had an understanding with him.

If the Lions club in Negaunee has its way, the Community Chest will be re-established. It was originally started in 1926 and functioned until 1932 when it was abandoned. In recent years it has been a case of one organization after another conducting a drive for funds, the drives sometimes following at close intervals. So now the Lions think it might be a good idea to go back to the "one big pot" plan and disburse funds from the Community Chest.

Escanaba police the other day sought the name of the driver of a stolen car that caromed down one of the streets. And they had numerous reasons for wanting to learn his identity. Here's what the car did: Wrecked three cars, broke one horse block, broke off one tree and damaged another, knocked down a school sign, demolished a set of porch steps and knocked down a fence. That was quite enough for one joy ride.

Resignation of Albert Mongrain from his job as fireman at Iron Mountain brought to light one of the shortcomings of cities. It developed that the job of fireman paid him only $70 a month and he resigned because he found another job. That's a niggardly salary for any fireman, much less for one who like Mongrain had served seven years in the department. He could come fairly close to that amount if he got one of the choice WPA jobs offered by Harry Hopkins.

Slightly more than a million and a half dollars will be spent on secondary trunk lines in 65 counties of the state. That isn't a great deal, but as the old saying goes, every little bit helps. Nine of the 15 Upper Peninsula counties will profit by the arrangement. They are Houghton, Iron, Luce, Mackinac, Marquette, Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Menominee and Gogebic. If the funds for secondary trunks are distributed proportionately, the Upper Peninsula counties will get about 14 per cent, or about $210,000.

The influence of the United States forest service and the tree planting program it directs for the civilian conservation corps is to be noted near Sault Ste. Marie. At Dafter about 40 high school boys are planting 5,000 pine trees on a school forest of 400 acres that was deeded to the school board recently by the state. The picture would be completed if the boys, or their successors in high school, were called upon to keep a check on the development of this plot, noting how many of the trees live and the growth they make.

WITH CHINESE RED ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN CENTRAL HOPEI, North China (AP)—When Chinese war lord armies retreated before the Japanese advance through North China last fall, the slothful Chinese farmer rarely lifted a finger to help.

Now those peasants are fighting demons.

Vague reports indicated the Chinese Red Army had organized them. An Associated Press correspondent recently penetrated the Japanese blockade and spent 100 days in the new Red territory in Hopei province to investigate.

—'ANNIHILATE HIM'—

He saw how the guerrillas carried out their raids and he heard from the Red commander, General Yu Cheng-tsao, how the lethargic farmers had been organized. They have won more than 90 victories in Hopei province since the start of 1938.

The Red strategist, Mao Tzetung, defined his guerrilla tactics thus

"When the enemy attacks, we retreat. When he retreats, we attack. When he stops, we harry him, surround him, annihilate him."

The Associated Press correspondent recently visited the walled town of Schenchai, scene of a battle.

"The Japanese approached in sixteen trucks," the local commander explained, "but we had only 40 Red fighters in the town. I divided them equally at the four gates.

"The Japanese, using artillery from a quarter of a mile away, destroyed our west gate, but our men hiding on top of the wall never fired. When three truckloads of troops finally drew up to the city wall, we hurled hand grenades among them before the Japanese could dismount, killing 57. The rest retreated, leaving their dead behind."

—EVIDENCE FROM THE DEAD—

This, like most guerrilla stories, was substantiated by the display of Japanese rifles and clothing taken from the dead.

Night attacks on railway stations are favorite Red diversions. Scouts report the location of every house in which Japanese are living. Then guerrillas pounce on the sentry and rush the sleeping garrison before an alarm can be raised. The only purpose of such raids is to get military supplies, as the guerrillas retreat as soon as the Japanese send reinforcements.

In a week of travel through this new Red territory (only four months old) The Associated Press correspondent rode a Japanese officer's horse, ate Japanese dried fish and vegetables, slept in Japanese blankets, and inspected Japanese guns and ammunition at every Red battalion headquarters.

Bronzed Chinese farm boys who have been fighting the Japanese through a cold winter pull back ragged Chinese coats and display woolen Japanese garments beneath. They say they cannot wear the Japanese cloth on the outside; their own peasant guards would shoot them for Japanese at the next village.

—PRICED IN HUMAN LIVES—

Guerrilla leaders work methodically. They evaluate every military objective in terms of human life, as Lawrence did in Arabia. Capture of a railway station or destruction of a railway bridge, for instance, is considered worth three to five casualties. Capture of a large walled town with plenty of Japanese supplies is worth more—20 to 30 casualties.

Discipline is good. One of the methods of enforcing it is the oath which every Red soldier takes—that he won't retreat without orders and agrees to be executed if he does.

Contrary to Japanese reports, Red leaders say, the guerrillas never fight in plain clothes. All attacks by day or night, it is asserted, are made in uniform to protect the ordinary farmers against the Japanese charge of being guerrillas.

Most of the guerrillas are simple country boys, and the secret ambition of each one is to seize a Japanese wrist watch and fountain pen, the only luxuries allowed in this spartan organization. Cameras, field glasses, and pistols found on dead Japanese must be surrendered to Red headquarters.

The communists charge that in retaliation the Japanese have burned many villages.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—A tear and a smile—that's the formula for tale telling, if the eye-dew may be brushed away so the story leaves you laughing.

For instance, there's the stranger-than-fiction truth about Connie Boswell. She has been on the stage and in the movies. Her threnodies are popular on the radio. Her records sell 1,000 per cent above the average. She has fame. And she has fortune. Yet there was a time when life looked dreary to Connie Boswell.

Put a reverse toss on Time's flip-book and riffle back twenty years to a day when the second of Ma and Pa Boswell's three daughters was a little girl playing in the summer sunshine of gentle old New Orleans. There were dozens of other kids romping in the drowsing streets that day, but it had to be the lively, leaping Boswell babe who got a ride in the home-made wagon of the neighbor's boy.

No one knew just how it happened. Really it doesn't make much difference. There was a scream and a crash. And Connie Boswell lay unconscious at the foot of a telegraph pole. At the hospital the surgeons looked seriously into the anxious eyes of the parents, then shook heads sadly. If she lived, they said, she'd never move again. The lively laughing child was paralyzed from the head down. It looked as if all light were out of her life.

Undaunted by Paralysis

It must have been pretty discouraging for all the Boswells in the first few years that followed. But the indomitable Connie was determined to get well, and the family mind was made up to give her every helping hand. So that's how it was that, skipping over months of massage, mudbaths, constant care, Connie in her teens made the old Camp street home a rendezvous of the prep school beaux and belles. She couldn't walk, but she could make a wheel-chair do tricks. She could make a 'cello moan low, a banjo swing high.

Connie and the kids loved this musical harmonizing, and so did the critical audience composed of their classmates. After a while they became pretty much of a fixture at benefits and amateur theatricals down at the Gymnastic Club. And she knew by now that a theatrical career was what she lived to achieve.

Success—And Romance

Joe Schenck — not the movie man, but the Schenck of Van and Schenck, vaudeville headliners—"discovered" the Boswell talent. And with his help the old folks were persuaded to let their fledglings try their wings of song. It was still an instrument act, but by now standard melodies were being played in new rhythmic arrangements, with plenty of hot licks being dropped in at the right places. The try-out was in Chicago. After three days there was a contract for an RKO vaudeville tour which took a year.

Pictures came next — "Moulin Rouge", "The Big Broadcast," "Artists and Models" — and, of course, radio. Connie found herself in demand on the airwaves, with her ability to sing either "sweet" or "hot" placing her in a class by herself.

Being less of an individualist, woman is more socially minded than man.
—President William E. Weld of Wells College.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, May 5—Painless tax collection (which will probably be about as free of pain as painless dentistry) is soon to be offered to the citizens by their considerate Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Morgenthau plans to decentralize the entire revenue system before the year is out. In future, instead of heartless and occasionally rapacious emissaries of a distant Washington, the tax collectors will be just home folks.

Seriously, the new plan will only be regretted by the leeching swarm of Washington lawyers and lobbyists now battening on innocents who have disagreed with the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The plan is so simple, so sensible that one wonders why no one ever thought of it before Henry Morgenthau.

At present, the power to decide tax disputes is lodged in the Washington Bureau of Internal Revenue. To its chilly marble halls, unhappy pleaders must come hat in hand, from Maine or Oregon, New Orleans or Chicago. The technical staff at the bureau, being perfectly unacquainted with local conditions, is chilly and more than impersonal. Collisions with the bureau are said to be worse for the blood pressure than any other form of contact with an often irritating government.

Now Mr. Morgenthau expects to delegate the bureau's powers to eleven regional offices. Whenever a revenuer and a citizen quarrel, the regional offices will judge the row on the spot and in the field, without long litigation or costly Washington expeditions. Each regional office will even have circuit riders attached to it, who will travel to smaller cities where disputes arise. Appeal will be taken direct from the regional offices to the board of tax appeals.. And the Washington bureau will survive merely as a standard-setting and supervisory agency.

THEY HEARD AN OUTCRY

The new plan is, in fact, an example of the sort of thing the Government can do if it cares to make life pleasanter for the people. And the story of its conception is a pretty good demonstration of how government ought to work.

For some time now, Mr. Morgenthau, who is at heart a sensitive fellow, has been disturbed by the outcry against his tax collection system. Some of the outcry was unjustified, for the most charming tax collectors are rarely beloved. Some of it was well supported by the facts.

Of course, Mr. Morgenthau could not do anything about the ardent treasury New Dealer—and there is one — whose first words are, "let me have that fellow's tax return," when he sees an anti-administration statement in the press. But Mr. Morgenthau was able to jail one agent who was making a tidy fortune out of advance inside knowledge of tax judgments, and banish one who was indulging in such petty graft as borrowing from taxpayers whose returns he had approved.

The same investigation which turned up these instances of wrong doing also suggested to Mr. Morgenthau that the whole system was at fault. It was too cumbrous, to distant and complex, particularly for the little fellow who cannot hire a Washington tax leech to fight a $50 judgment.

TRIAL IN LOS ANGELES

Mr. Morgenthau promptly called in Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and his own Special Assistant, Harold N. Graves. Mr. Graves is a tall, egg-bald, slow-spoken fellow, who has served the Government for thirty years in the Postoffice, Commerce and Treasury departments successively. At present he is the Morgenthau troubleshooter, relied on for such difficult tasks as improving the customs system and setting up the alcohol tax units.

Mr. Morgenthau suggested to Messrs. Helvering and Graves that the Treasury might imitate the Farm Credit Administration. Before his elevation to the Treasury, he had been administrator, and had installed a decentralized mechanism there. It had worked well, and he saw no reason why the same decentralization could not be applied to tax collection.

The other two offered no objection, and it was decided to start a trial regional office in Los Angeles, with authority over all tax collection in Southern California and Arizona. Two months ago, the office was established, under the supervision of the trouble-shooting Mr. Graves. To date, the tax dispute rate in the Los Angeles regional offices has fallen from 1,400 to 500 cases a year. Settlements have been so accelerated that it's calculated litigation in the average case will take a year less. The whole tax protest system has been easier and more workable.

In sum, the experiment has been a success, and therefore the decision has just been made to extend the regional office mechanism until it includes the entire country. Perhaps Mr. Morgenthau has acted just in time. Taxpayers have been growing toughy lately.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

I JUST FORGET

I never yet a fruit have found
That hadn't started underground
And long ago. As like as not
The seed, the time, I both forgot
And plucked the fruit, or threw away,
As though it happened just today.

I never yet a tree have seen
That wasn't once a blade of green
But inches high. Forgot, I guess,
It takes a lifetime, more or less,
And broke a branch or bent a bough,
Still bent another life from now.

I never yet could come and go
But it took years to make it so,
And tears, and blood. Yet liberties
I'd peddle for a little ease,
Exempt from toil, excused from debt.
It must be that I just forget.

NEW BUDGET IS GIVEN HEARING

Diversified Program Is Considered By Councilmen

Such widely diversified items as a current budget, state sales tax, bank night, Chamber of Commerce and the city band occupied the minds of members of the city council at their regular meeting last night.

Copies of the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 were distributed but discussion was held on only one item—the city band appropriation. Frank Karas, band director, explained to the council that the band members felt they should be given an increase in their budget allowance to compensate for the additional concerts they will be required to play this year. He pointed out that none of the band members actually made any money last year, all purchasing their uniforms with the money they received for playing. Karas said most of the band members have opportunities to play in orchestras on Fourth of July, Labor Day and other special holidays and, unless the financial inducement for playing in the band was sufficient, most of them would not be available on those days, when they are needed for local celebrations. Members of the council expressed sympathy with Karas' opinions but said, in view of the present unfavorable economic conditions, they did not feel that the allowance could be increased.

Mrs. Matt Decker carried on her campaign on the sales tax issue, claiming that many Escanaba merchants are charging one cent tax on 15c purchases. She contended that that is contrary to the state law and presented a letter from the attorney general, which, she said, expressed the illegality of the procedure. Upon reading by the city manager, however, it developed that the state law does not prohibit merchants from charging any set tax as long as the total tax collected does not exceed the amount which the firm pays the state. The law specifies that merchants may add to the sale price an amount not to exceed three per cent. The ruling expressed in the attorney general's opinion to Mrs. Decker was to the effect that the printing of placards proclaiming any rate as being set by the state was illegal. Mrs. Decker was informed that, if she doubts some local merchants are operating within the law, she has only to call in a state inspector, who will check sales against the tax returns filed by that firm.

The city manager presented a letter requesting that the council outlaw the bank night in the local theatre. Councilman Carl B. Johnson said:

"Yes, sometime ago, we did away with slot machines but we left the biggest gambling affair in the city when we failed to get rid of the bank night."

Richter Approves

The former mayor declared that the city ought to put a stop to bank night, pointing out that too many people, who cannot afford it, are foolishly spending their money weekly on bank night simply because they are afraid not to patronize the theatre for fear of having their name called. Councilman Carl Richter, on the other hand, said people should be allowed to spend their money as they wish and it was no concern of the council's how they spend it. Johnson then declared that the council should be consistent, saying that the same problem was involved when they outlawed slot machines. After several expressions on the subject from the audience, the council agreed to request a ruling from the attorney general on the legality of bank night.

The council was definitely divided on the subject of a budget appropriation of $500 for the Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Peter Logan suggested that the fund be turned into the contingency and made payable only upon approval by the council. Councilmen R. B. Stack and Harold Gasman protested, pointing to the good work being done by the chamber of commerce, and saying that the $500 is well spent. Richter entered the argument, hotly proclaiming that 65 per cent of the city taxes are paid by the working class, which, he said, are opposed to such payment to the Chamber of Commerce. Johnson closed the argument by saying that, although he entertained ideas as to waste in certain phases of the Chamber of Commerce, he heartily approved of the allotment because, he said, the Chamber of Commerce assumes a great deal of work which the city would be required to handle were the former body not in existence. He told of the large amount of his work as former mayor being taken care of by the Chamber of Commerce.

The city manager was instructed to investigate the possibility of constructing a power line for several customers at Ford River with old copper line and by having the customers supply and erect the necessary poles.

The manager was authorized to install water meters in homes in the city which now are paying a flat rate.

A petition for construction of sanitary sewers in the 1400 block of North 21, 22 and 23 streets was denied because of lack of sufficient signatures and prohibitive cost of constructing a pumping station.

Half Of Northern Michigan Will Be Recreation Areas

Lansing, May 4 (AP)—Expecting to double its land holdings upon completion of the state tax sale, the conservation department today pondered the statement of P. J. Hoffmaster, its director, that reversion of private lands to the state may some day bring 50 per cent of land north of the Bay City-Muskegon line into public recreational areas.

The conservation department will receive all tax delinquent land unsold in the tax sale yesterday if after 18 months it is not redeemed by the delinquent owner. The state may not take full possession, however, for another two years.

Taking estimates that between 3,000,000 and 8,000,000 acres of land will revert to the conservation department, Hoffmaster pointed out that this would at least double the 3,500,000 acres the department now administers. The Federal park service operates over a total area of 500,000 acres, 30 per cent of which it owns.

Hoffmaster said that large plots of land—of 10,000 acres or more—received by the department would be turned into state parks even though the property is not all in one solid piece. Small plots will be placed on the market, he said.

Hoffmaster indicated the department would probably continue its policy of trading good parcels of land for lots to swell existing parks and forests or to obtain water frontage for inland sections which might make other public parks.

He contradicted those who are dubious about the extensive reversion of land to the state, declaring that Michigan has plenty of good farm land at present and the state will benefit from turning the northern lands back to their natural state for recreational purposes.

"Michigan has sufferred little from erosion because of its trees and it has some of the finest streams in the world for the same reason. From a recreational standpoint—and the people of Michiagn have found that means a sizeable revenue—the state is far better off than if its lands were all in agricultural production," Hoffmaster said.

Hoffmaster envisioned the day when possibly 50 per cent of Northern Michigan would be in hunting and fishing areas, park lands and public forests.

Scientific research, especially in the field of Chemurgy, the director said, has indicated that the state's development of timber land is following the trend of industry and may become a resource valuable in more ways than the purely recreational.

Feels One Hundred Per Cent Better Since The KruGon

Gas, Bloating, Indigestion Now In The Past; Rheumatism Wonderfully Relieved; Feels Like a Different Man

"KruGon worked wonders in my case for it accomplished what all others had made me believe impossible," said Mr. Nestor Make, Route No. 1, Box 396, Ironwood, Michigan. "For the past three years I have been a victim of severe stomach trouble. Indigestion, gas and bloating followed each meal I ate and the discomfort I endured from this condition was indescribable. My bowels were so irregular that my entire system had become filled with poisons. Rheumatism attacked me and settled in my back causing such pain that at times I thought I could surely never stand it any longer. I tried everything I came in contact with, hoping I would eventually find some means of relief but met only with failure until I was finally persuaded to give this new KruGon a trial."

MR. NESTOR MAKE

"Kru Gon gave me results even greater than I dared hope for," continued Mr. Make. "After taking just one box I felt like a different person. My stomach and bowels have been regulated, those terrible gas pains are greatly relieved and rheumatism is being driven from my system. I feel 100 per cent better in every way, gaining in strength and energy and cannot find words strong enough to praise KruGon as it deserves."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

PATROL BOAT LEAVES DIS'T

Conservation Department Ship Taken to St. Joseph

Conservation Officer Dick Lahti left yesterday morning on the conservation department's local patrol boat for St. Joseph where the vessel has been transferred for use by Officer Fay Warner of Stevensville.

The patrol boat has been used to patrol Green bay waters from Delta county to the state line at Wisconsin for about ten years and last year was operated by Officers Lahti and Ervin Belfy. The latter was transferred for duty at Traverse City several weeks ago on the department's large boat, which patrols most of the territory around the state. Lahti, it is understood, will remain in the local district after he returns from St. Joseph.

Patrolling of commercial fishermen in local waters this year will be done by the department's boat No. 1, under command of Capt. C. J. Allers, and by a speed boat stationed at the local headquarters.

Lahti was accompanied to St. Joseph on the boat by Fire Warden Putvin of Garden.

Delta County Delinquent Tax Land Brings Only $5,000

Only 75 parcels of Delta county land were sold for taxes during the reading of the delinquent tax list, which was finished yesterday morning. The list was the largest in the history of the county, with 8, 245 land descriptions offered for sale, but the selling was slow throughout the reading of descriptions. The state of Michigan is conducting the sale, through the office of Ralph R. Olson, Delta county treasurer.

Only 8 Escanaba descriptions found purchasers, and there were only 2 Gladstone parcels sold. Other tax delinquent lands which were sold were distributed evenly throughout the county, Olson stated yesterday.

Over 4,000 land descriptions were read during the first day, when a total of 30 purchases were made by buyers who paid taxes amounting to about $400.

Few persons were present at the county courtroom during the reading of descriptions of delinquent tax lands, and little interest has been shown in the sale according to County Treasurer Olson.

SLIGHT JUMP IS INDICATED

Sales Tax Collections for April Increase Over March

Sales tax collections during April showed an increase over the previous month's total for the first time since the start of 1938, it was revealed in figures released today by Draper Allen, Managing Director of the State Board of Tax Administration.

The April yield from the sales tax amounted to $8,708,389.52 as compared with collections of $8,314,340.03, an increase of $394,049.49. The total, however, was slightly more than a million dollars less than the collections for April 1937. This was partially accounted for by the fact that most of this year's Easter business will be reflected in the May collections while the tax on the Easter trade a year ago was collected in April.

Collections in the Detroit office were about $75,000 ahead of those in the Lansing office. Most of the large chains doing a state wide business and having their main office located in Detroit are now making their payments at the Wayne county branch office of the sales tax instead of at Lansing.

Use tax collections in April continued to show a steady climb. A total of $40,627.61 was realized from this source as compared with $36,555.87 in March. The use tax collections have increased each month since the levy has been in effect and the total yield now amounts to $158,922.60.

STEAM WILL GO AHEAD SLOWLY

Location of Proposed Waterplant Affects Expansion

In spite of the fact that revenues accrued from the first five months of operation have been highly satisfactory, further progress in central steam in Escanaba will move slowly, City Manager George Bean said yesterday.

Expansion, Bean said, within the next year or two will be motivated by outside interests rather than by the city administration. The reason for the change in policy is that the administration is desirous of awaiting final decision as to the site of the proposed water plant.

If the water plant site is changed from its present location to a spot in the vicinity of the postoffice building, the city will be able to combine gas, water and steam very effectively and reduce the rates on all three utilities. If such a project is effected, dimensions of steam mains and equipment would have to be altered from their present status.

Gross revenue to the city from the sale of steam for the first five months of operation amounted to $2,800, according to a report issued by the city manager yesterday. This figure, he said, will be approximately $3,000 when the regular steam service is curtailed for the summer months on June 1. Bean estimates the net profit will be about $1,200 for the five months.

FAIR TOUR TO STOP IN CITY

New York Celebration's Good Will Car Will Visit Escanaba

Escanaba has been designated as one of the key cities to be visited by a good-will tour of officials of the New York World's Fair, according to information received by Harold P. Lindsay, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, from Grover Whalen, president of the exposition.

One of the 49 automobiles which are visiting every state in the Union and Washington, D. C., will stop here on the afternoon of May 20, bearing the greetings of New York Fair officials.

A local committee has been appointed to arrange a program for the members of the tour. Those serving on the committee, which held its first session yesterday afternoon, are Fred Earle, Harold Gessner, R. E. Olson, Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhofer, Norbert Reidy, E. J. French and Dewey Meunier.

The good-will car is scheduled to arrive at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and will be met at the city limits by a police escort. The visitors will be conducted to the city hall, where they will be greeted by Mayor Peter Logan and City Manager George E. Bean. They will be guests at a luncheon at the Sherman hotel.

The good-will car which will stop here was in Lansing yesterday, where the keys to the fair were presented to Governor Frank Murphy. The New York fair opens on April 30, 1939.

Briefs

Mr. Dan Decker, who submitted to an operation at War Memorial hospital in the Soo last week, is reported to be progressing favorably. Mrs. Decker, who remained with him for several days has returned to her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hill, who spent the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida, have been the guests of friends in Germfask, enroute to their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. David Carnes and daughter Hazel, from the Soo, former Germfask residents, are spending the next few months at the Enos Stauffer farm, east of town.

Mrs. Lester Carson has gone to Milwaukee.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Franco and infant son have moved to Manistique.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Barton and son Don were called to Gurney, Wis. on Monday, by the death of Mr. Barton's father.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

"Tip-Off Girls" and "Rawhide" are on the Delft Theatre double feature program today and Saturday.

The sinister connection between girls who want thrills and men who want loot is made the subject of a bold screen attack in "Tip-Off Girls", Paramount's drama of the highway hijacking racket.

For its daring expose of this racket, which last year took an estimated fifty million dollars in tribute from American industry, Paramount selected a cast of experienced dramatic players. Heading the cast is Lloyd Nolan, who has the Hollywood distinction of having been such a successful screen villain that the fans demanded the studio make a hero out of him. He played important roles in "The Plainsman" and "Wells Fargo."

The slugging star first baseman of the World Champion New York Yankees teams up with singin' scrappin' Smith Ballew in a happy blending of colorful romance and thrilling action in the new 20th Century-Fox release, "Rawhide."

It's a new type of war on the range, with "Larrupin' Lou" Gehrig dropping his baseball spikes for spurs and trading his bat for a six-gun—to team up with the popular singing cowboy in driving the rustler-racketeers out of the West.

The two stars are ably supported by beautiful Evalyn Knapp who plays the role of Gehrig's sister.

AT THE MICHIGAN

Dancing in the clouds one minute—knee deep in a murder case the next!

Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen plan their honeymoon in Manhattan's highest hi-de-ho spot, only to find what they think is "just another routine murder case" is just about the most exciting mystery of the year.

"Island In The Sky" brings these screen sweethearts together again 70 stories above Broadway, 70 times more excitement, thrills, unexpected laughs and romantic romance than you ever could imagine pack this new 20th Century-Fox hit, opening today at the Michigan Theatre.

When Assistant District Attorney Michael Whalen announces his engagement to secretary Gloria Stuart at the "Island In The Sky" night club, Paul Hurst marches in with news of a new murder which knocks the couple's plans for a honeymon into indefinite postponement.

Church Events

Christian Science Churches

"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 8.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (II Cor. 6:17, 18): "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, said the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you. And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 326): "The purpose and motive to live aright can be gained now. Working and praying with true motives, your Father will open the way."

Winifred Royce Prominent in School Event

Winifred Royce of Escanaba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Royce, is actively engaged in preparing for Veishea at Iowa State college, the annual three-day open house to be held May 12, 13 and 14. She is working on a float, Veishea Vodvil, cherry pies, home economics open house and publicity.

Veishea, the only collegiate open house of its kind in the world, is essentially a student production. There will be open houses on Friday, May 13, in each of the 45 departments and their laboratories, including a whole bevy of comely co-eds dispensing 3,000 cherry pies which they have baked themselves in home economics kitchens. The type of work done by graduates in agriculture, engineering, industrial science, home economics and veterinary medicine will be exemplified.

All departments in every division will also enter floats in the traditional Veishea parade to climax the celebration, Saturday afternoon, May 14, at 1:30.

Over 1500 Iowa farm boys are expected to attend the sixteenth annual High School Agricultural Congress held during Veishea. The annual Homecoming Congress is expected to bring over 800 Iowa high school girls.

Athletic events include two polo games—one with Missouri and one with Illinois; two baseball games with Nebraska; golf with Grinnell and Carleton; track with Drake.

Sunday School Teachers Meet

A joint meeting of Sunday school teachers will be held at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church at Hyde this evening at eight o'clock. Teachers of the following Lutheran churches are to attend: St. Paul's Hyde; Grace, Powers, and Trinity, Hermansville.

BOXING CONTROL SETUP PRAISED

Opposition of New York Group Is Rapped by Edward C. Foster

BY ALAN GOULD

New York, May 5. (AP) — Notwithstanding New York's "hands off" policy toward the newly-formed International Boxing association, working machinery has been set in motion to bring about the closest approach to universal pugilistic control since punch-tossing was legalized anywhere.

This was the word brought back today by Edward C. Foster of Providence, R. I., executive secretary of the National Boxing association, from the Rome conference that resulted in establishment of the I. B. A.

Foster not only hailed the new international setup as "the greatest thing that has happened for boxing's benefit in 25 years" but quickly took issue with the negative attitude of Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

Phelan Contradicted

Phelan also was at Rome but his participation, Foster asserted, consisted principally in banging the conference table with the book containing the New York commission's fistic regulations and insisting, "There's the law, gentlemen, and we propose to stand by it."

Foster not only confirmed that agreement was reached on the world championship list, exactly as now recognized in this country, but contradicted Phelan's assertion that two other major objectives of the U. S. delegates were not reached.

"The conference adopted the 'no-foul' rule, with the exception that England agreed, for the time being, only to advocate use of the foulproof cup," Foster explained. "Agreement also was reached upon 15 rounds as the standard for all world championship matches, except where existing national regulations specify differently."

Foster added that South Africa, where 12 rounds now is the limit, soon would seek a 20-round law and, in addition, apply for associate membership in the National Boxing association of the United States. The N. B. A. now represents 37 states in this country, as well as the boxing control organizations of Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Title Race Standardized

The most important stabilization move made at Rome, in Foster's belief, was to set up a "world professional boxing championship commission." Its purposes are to standardize title recognition, already achieved, and to list championship contenders by the consensus method, on a monthly basis.

The seven-man membership of this commission originally included three Americans, Phelan, Foster and Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, who was represented by proxy at Rome by Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune. Phelan has already served notice of his withdrawal. Colonel Middleton, the British delegate, was elected secretary and will be the clearing house for fistic ratings of the commission.

"It looks like we will have to do the best we can without the support of Phelan or the New York commission," commented Foster. "Phelan went to Rome without authority to act. His attitude contrasts with that of the representatives of 21 nations, all seeking and achieving agreement on matters of basic importance to boxing."

Ypsi Will Dedicate New Athletic Plant

Ypsilanti, Mich., May 5 (AP)—Michigan State Normal college's new $150,000 athletic plant, the gift of Walter O. Briggs, owner of the Detroit Tigers, will be dedicated here tomorrow afternoon.

A baseball game between Michigan Normal and the University of Michigan will follow the dedication ceremonies which will be attended by Walter O. Briggs, Jr.

The athletic plant consists of a field house, a baseball stadium seating 3,000, and a football stand seating 2,200.

Martin Zachar, who last week held Oberlin college to one hit, will pitch for the Hurons. He will oppose Ed Andronik.

Production Halted At Allis Chalmers By Sitdown Strike

Milwaukee, May 4 (AP)—Members of the United automobile Workers local (CIO) halted production today at the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. in a two hour sitdown which union leaders said was an unauthorized protest against the company's refusal to meet union demands.

The union's bargaining committee deferred calling a general strike at the plant at the expiration last night of a 48-hour truce.

Union leaders said they had enrolled 5,000 production workers. About 3,000 other employes continued to work.

The bargaining committee resumed negotiations today with representatives of the company and the state labor board.

The union demanded a closed shop, a contract covering Allis Chalmers plants here and in Boston and Pittsburgh, unqualified seniority rights and an unrestricted steward system.

Ex-Matinee Idol Sues Daughter

Another old-time Broadway star is broke—and suing his movie actress daughter for support. This time its Maurice Costello, 61, suave hero of the movie "Tale of Two Cities," who asks $200 a month from his blond daughter, Dolores, former wife of John Barrymore. The father, shown above looking at a photo of Dolores and another daughter, Helene, also a film actress, declared that he is "as poor as a church mouse." Miss Costello, inset, said she had contributed for years to her father and recently made him an "alternative offer." She said she would fight the suit.

Flowers	8.00
Picture	5.00

HILLTOPS PLAY SMU NEXT YEAR

Fourth Appearance Will Be Made on Soldier Field in Chicago

Milwaukee, Wis., May 4—Marquette university will make its fourth football appearance in three years at Soldier Field, Chicago, on Friday night, Oct. 7, with Southern Methodist university of Dallas, Texas, providing intersectional opposition.

The game will be sponsored as a charity affair by the Chicago Catholic archdiocese with his eminence, George Cardinal Mundelein as honorary chairman of the committee in charge. It will be a benefit for St. Vincent's orphanage.

Chicago archdiocesan leaders arranged the sponsorship after a conference with Conrad M. Jennings and James H. Stewart, athletic directors of Marquette and Southern Methodist respectively. The game originally had been scheduled for Soldier Field as a benefit for the employees' voluntary welfare fund of the Chicago park district.

Marquette made its gridiron debut on the lakefront gridiron in 1936 with victories over St. Louis university and St. Marys (Cal.). It was defeated there last fall by Santa Clara.

Spring football practice is being wound up on the Hilltop this week with Coach Paddy Driscoll satisfied that his charges are much farther along than they were at this stage of the season a year ago. Optimism is tempered by the fact that the Golden Avalanche will face such a heavy schedule next fall, but Blue and Gold hopes are high.

The Marquette schedule follows: Oct. 1, Wisconsin at Madison; Oct. 7 (night), Southern Methodist at Soldier Field, Chicago; Oct. 14 (night) Kansas State in Milwaukee; Oct. 22, Texas Christian in Milwaukee; Oct. 29, Iowa State in Milwaukee; Nov. 5, open; Nov. 12, Michigan State in Milwaukee; Nov. 19, Arizona at Tucson, and Nov. 26, Texas Tech at Lubbock.

SET NEW RECORDS

Milwaukee, Wis.—Marquette track athletes set two new university records as they participated in the recent Drake relays, but came away with no championships. The sprint team ran the half-mile relay in 1:27.1, as compared to the 1:27.3 and 1:28.4 clockings with which Metcalfe-anchored Hilltop quartets won at Drake in 1932 and 1933. It was third this year. The Marquette mile quartet was timed in 3:19.1, as it qualified for the Drake finals in which it placed fifth. The former Hilltop record was 3:21.3.

Chrysler Declares 50-Cent Dividends On Common Stock

New York, May 5 (AP)—Directors of Chrysler Corp. today voted a dividend of 50 cents a common share as the company reported net income for the first three 1938 months of $2,109,969 after charges, equal to 48 cents a share on the common.

The quarterly earnings bulked larger than Wall Street analysts had anticipated, and the dividend declaration marked a resumption of flow of earnings to stockholders, for no dividend payment had been made in the preceding quarter.

Announcement of dividend and earnings came after the close of the New York stock exchange. But on reception of the news on the west coast, Chrysler shares on the Los Angeles stock exchange stepped up to $42.50 a share, or $1.12 above the New York close. The final Los Angeles quotation was $42 bid, $43 asked.

Key To World Fair Presented Murphy

Lansing, May 5 (AP)—Governor Murphy received a key to the New York World Fair today, and said he would attend when the exposition opens next year.

He also received a formal invitation to the fair from E. E. Knox, of Detroit, official courier for the fair, who called upon the governor before setting out to visit every mayor in Michigan.

Mystery Death

Although police credited a robbery motive in the slaying of Paul McLean, above, 32-year-old sports writer of the University of Chicago press relations bureau, they admitted undisclosed "circumstances" may have inspired the killer, McLean, a former Dartmouth college football player and Montana political reporter, was found dying in an alley near his home.

Dowagiac Amnesia Victim Welcomed Home By Family

Dowagiac, Mich., May 4 (AP)—The family of George Melvin, 74, superintendent of the Colby Milling Co. here, welcomed him home today.

Melvin, apparently a victim of amnesia for two weeks, had been sought by his family in several cities.

First word from him came by telephone yesterday from Chicago. He said, according to relatives that he suddenly recalled his identity after bumping his head during a ride on an elevated train.

He added that he was unable to recall what he had done during the two weeks but believed he had been in St. Louis, Mo., He recovered his memory while returning to a small Chicago hotel from a baseball game.

HOOVER SEES CHAOS AHEAD; OFFERS CURE

planned economy. We are to have more budget deficts, new inflations, more increase in national debts, more taxes for the future. We put the pea of $1,400,000,000 of gold under the other shell. These new actions may produce another shot in the arm.

"There is in these proposals a hopeless confusion of cause and effect. x x x Truly you can mortgage your house and go on a spree. It does not add to your productivity and you may lose your house."

Confidence Needed First

Mr. Hoover said constructive action to allay fear and re-establish confidence in the future "would release the enormous reserves of private enterprise in place of a trickle of government money" and would "take men back to their jobs tomorrow and permanently."

"For a start," he said, "we need to:

"First, re-establish confidence that there will be no more attacks upon the safeguards of free men. That is the independence of congress and of our courts.

"Second, restore common morals and intellectual morals in government. In a democracy or in a Christian country the ends do not justify any means.

"Third, abandon this economy of scarcity and go in for production, work, and thrift.

"Fourth, stop this spending and inflation and pump-priming.

"Fifth, revise the taxes so as to free the initiative and enterprise of men. The original senate proposals were a step in that direction.

Cut Relief Waste

"Sixth, reduce relief expenditures by one-third, through decentralizing its administration. Take it out of the hands of wasters and politicians and put it back into non-political committees in each community and require that states and local communities to find five or ten per cent of the cost. That will provide greater and more sympathetic care for those in distress. It will restore confidence that the republic is not being destroyed by the purchase of elections.

"Seventh, by the savings on relief, and reduction of other expenses and the end of pump-priming, drive to really balance the budget.

"Eighth, stop credit inflation juggling. Make the currency convertible into bullion at the irreparable 59-cent dollar and repeal all authority for currency inflation.

"Ninth, set up a court of 25 responsible, non-political men representing business, labor and agriculture to direct federal reserve policies and thus take that control of credit out of the hands of politicians.

"Tenth, give the employer and all branches of labor the same rights before the labor board and appoint judicially minded men to the board.

Causes at Home

"This is solely our own depression," he said, "its causes must be searched for right here at home. And we can also eliminate the usual causes of our home made depressions.

"President Roosevelt in his message to the congress on November 15, 1937, confirmed the fact. He said:

"'The fundamental situation is not to be compared with the far different conditions of 1929. The banking system is not over-extended. Interest rates are lower. Inventories are not dangerously large. We are no longer over-extended in new construction or in capital equipment. Speculation requiring liquidation does not overhang our markets.' x x x

"If there are none of these signs or forces in the financial and business world, such as did exist in previous depressions, obviously the origins cannot be blamed upon finance and business. x x x

"It is nonsense to say that either big or little business is on strike. It is not so. We have had no such strike. We have been struck.

"There is only one place left to search for the causes of this depression. Despite every alibi, this depression is the direct result of governmental actions."

He said the major causes of the 1929-32 depression were absent and now—

"Certainly I did not create this depression, so you can eliminate that."

He ascribed the 1929-32 depression to "our crazy boom stimulated by federal reserve policies begun in 1927 and which cracked up in 1929" and the "1931 collapse of Europe."

Tomato Salad Dressing

12ounces tomato juice
3-4 cup vinegar
1-2 cup olive oil
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons grated onion
3-4 cup sugar

Put these ingredients in a large jar, and mix them thoroughly. Measure out 1-2 cup of the mixture, and to this add the following:

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Mix this half cup of spiced ingredients until well blended, then add it to the contents of the large jar. Seal the jar with a rubber ring as in canning fruit, and always shake thoroughly before using.

For bridge party luncheons, when a fruit salad is to be the main course, the following recipe makes an impressive dressing. It is distinctly a feminine dressing. Men as a rule do not care for sweet salads.

Sweet Fruit Salad Dressing

4 egg yolks
1-4 cup vinegar
1-2 tablespoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons sugar
24 marshmallows
1 cup broken nutmeats
1 pint heavy cream

Beat the egg yolks and vinegar together, then add the sugar and mustard. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cool, then add marshmallows cut into small bits. Also add the nutmeats, and finally the cream whipped stiff. Mix all completely, and use at once over fruit and lettuce combinations.

Baking Powder Rolls

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon shortening
2-3 cup milk
Melted butter
Caraway or poppy seeds or Mixture of 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Sift flour before measuring, then sift again with the baking powder and salt. Cut in the shortening, and add the milk all at once. Stir gently until all the flour is dampened, and then stir vigorously until the mixture forms a soft dough which follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out on a slightly floured board and knead lightly for 2 or 3 minutes. Roll 1-4 inch thick and cut into crescents or cut into strips which are 6 x 1-2 inches. If strips are made, toie tnese into a knot.

Brush the tops of the shapes with melted butter and sprinkle either with seeds or with the cinnamon and sugar mixture. Place the rolls on a greased pan and cover, letting them rise in a warm place for 20 minutes.

Bake in a hot oven ten minutes spread again with melted butter, and continue baking for about 10 minutes more. Remove from the oven and butter tops again. For the oven and for the final buttering, the best method is to let the melted butter drop on the rolls from a teaspoon.

The year 1934 was the most peaceful in Great Britain, so far as industrial disputes were concerned. Only 960,000 working days were lost that year, as compared with 162,230,000 working days lost in 1926.

Maple Sugar Dreams

Brown Sugar May Be Substituted
1 2-3 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup maple sugar, shaved
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sour cream

Mix ingredients and beat for two minutes. Half-fill paper baking cups or greased muffin pans and bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Add frosting.

LISTEN You Good People . . .

Who Grow Our Daily Bread!

Everything which was grown in soil took salts and minerals therefrom. If you never returned the Iron, Copper, Tin, Lead, Iodine, Sulphur, Magnesium, Silicia, Aluminum, etc., which each and every one of your crops grown to date took out of your soil—the best possible thing you can do for your very ownself—all of yours as well as the rest of us—is to give back to your soil the minerals which no life of whatsoever kind can exist without. SOIL MANNA will restore the mineral balance of your mineral-hungry and otherwise much mistreated soil in the safest, sanest, natural as well as most economical manner possible. Your crops having failed you in the past—you will know the proper way for growing bigger and way better crops than you raised in many a year.

SOIL MANNA sells at $1 per hundred lb. bag

Report Given by Titus On Activities of MEA

A comprehensive report on past and planned activities of the Michigan Education association was presented by C. P. Titus, county commissioner of schools, at a meeting of the Delta county unit of the MEA here Tuesday night.

Titus quoted figures showing that the association had increased from 25,749 to 32,647, a gain of over 7,000 in the past three and one-half years.

Among school problems that need solving the speaker listed improvement of teaching conditions; general increase of teachers' salaries throughout state; adequate and definite state aid; adequate school housing; more accurate accounting of school funds; increased schooling of administrators in elementary and special education; concentration of efforts on greater efficiency of instruction; general use of textbook rental plans, and repeal or modification of teacher loyalty oath law.

Resolutions adopted by the representative assembly of the Michigan Education associations at Lansing a month ago were read and their adoption urged. They include:

School Financing

That since education is essentially a function of the state, the state should provide definite, permanent, and adequate revenues to guarantee a reasonable minimum program of public education in every community, and

That final appropriations by the State Legislature for public schools should not be subject to cuts, and

That State-aid for schools for the coming biennium should be not less than $47,000,000 annually, and

That state and local support of schools should be suplemented by federal aid for school building construction, thus leaving present sources of revenue for operation of schools, the control of same to remain with the state and local governments, and

That a fixed tax limitation through the adoption of a prescribed millage is inconsistent with sound taxation principles, since it leads to the arbitrary curtailment of needed public services including education, and

That the Association's study of the financial situation should include a comprehensive survey of the effect on schools of the 15-mill limitation.

Teacher Tenure

That inasmuch as greater professional security in service is necessary to achieve higher standards of instruction, careful selection of teachers, and greater participation in the privileges and responsibilities of democracy, it endorses as essential and adequate to a sound tenure law the principles embodied in House Bill 423 as originally introduced in the Legislature during the 1937 session.

That, since the reduction of excessive teacher loads, and the promotion of adequate disability regulations, teacher credit unions, and group health and accident insurance are conducive to improved teacher welfare, the efforts of the Association in these and related fields should be continued and extended.

That the State Constitution should be amended to increase the membership on the State Board of Education and to provide a longer term of office for the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

That it urges the formation of larger school administrative units which in many cases could be organized to serve natural community centers, thus making possible better administration, adequate salaries for teachers, and reasonable security of employment.

Curriculum

That it urges every member to take a professional, cooperative interest in present efforts to adapt the curriculum to the individual needs of the child and the composite needs of society.

That it commends the State Board of Education for the higher standards established by the state certification code, and

That it urges continued efforts to improve the selection and training of teachers.

That, since the district is the basic democratic unit of the M. E. A., and its active functioning is essential to the successful operation of this organization, the staff members be commended for their extensive distribution of informational material to district officers and their large number of direct district contacts during the past year, and

That, in view of the fact that it is most desirable to get the thinking of district committeees back to the M. E. A. Commissions and thus establish a two-way exchange of ideas, these efforts to encourage and assist the district units be continued and increased so far as the somewhat limited number of staff workers will permit.

That, in view of the tremendous pace of social change and the widened responsibilities of the teaching profession, with consequent increased demand for expanding services of the M. E. A., the problem of what constitutes adequate personnel to meet efficiently these many demands on the Association is recommended for study and report by our Commissions.

THEATRES

Called into action on New York's Great White Way, Charlie Chan invades the night clubs to seek the killer whose double murder casts a shadow of terror over Manhattan's gayest spots in the newest of his screen adventures, 'Charlie Chan On Broadway," opening at the Rialto Theatre.

It's "candid-camera night" in a swanky midtown cabaret, and as the flashlights of a hundred enthusiastic "minicam" fans boom, death strikes, then strikes again, bringing Chan, fresh from his sleuthing triumphs in distant lands, to confront the most baffling adventure of his career.

SPECIAL CACHET ORDERED BY P.O.

Pickup of Mail at Local Port During Air Mail Week

A special cachet for use on local mail going out on the special air mail pickup here on May 19 has been ordered by the Gladstone postoffice.

Suitably designed for the occasion, it also bears the Gladstone slogan 'The Gateway to the Hiawatha National Forest."

The pickup here will be made by Wally Arntzen, well known Escanaba aviator, who will fly from Menominee to Sault Ste. Marie. The time is set at 11:45 a. m.

Santa Barbara, Calif., is making special observance of National Air Mail week because of the fact that the city has the unusual honor of being the home of the late Earle Ovington, who in 1911 in his Bleriot monoplane carried the first sack of mail ever delivered by air in the United States, thus proving that mail by air was not a dream but would be a reality, acording to a bulletin received at the post office yesterday.

A special Santa Barbara cachet is being applied to all air mail letters leaving Santa Barbara on the week of May 15 and in addition a special Ovington cachet will be applied to all mail leaving on May 19.

CITY BRIEFS

Mrs. Sam Allen arrived yesterday from Manistique and is spending several days visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Miller, Minnesota Ave.

Mrs. Walter Schlecte and son Tommy of Petoskey are visiting at the home of Mrs. Schlecte's mother, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Dakota Ave.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

The National Progressives

Whether a new political party has really been started, or whether a new and sharp realignment of the old parties will be the result, I am convinced that something extremely important for America started last Thursday night in Madison, Wis.

Dorothy Thompson

As criticism and analysis, Governor Philip La Follette's speech was brilliant, and in its phraseology and appeal, it showed remarkable political instinct. For Philip La Follette knows what is wrong with our economic society, and he knows what are not the ways out. He recognizes the fundamental fact of the stage of economic development in which we now are: namely, that industry and technique have run miles, and generations, ahead of finance. Industry and technique are revolutionary. Finance is conservative. Industry and technique have created a new earth; they have pulled down fire from heaven; their ingenuity is breath-taking; they have set tons of steel swimming through the air; they have harnessed unseen waves of ether to make a voice and a song travel as fast as light from one end of the world to the other; they have turned beans into automobile bodies and air into fertilizers and acetyline gas into wood substitutes, and wood into velvet—thereby destroying one set of economic values and creating others, all at the same time, and with upsetting speed, while finance has shown no similar imagination or ingenuity, and probably least of all in this country.

He sees that the essential problem is to make capital work, to imbue it with a new enterprising spirit, and he knows that new social and financial inventions are needed for that.

• • •

He also knows that what is no longer permissible in this world is revolution. He knows that the class struggle leading toward revolution is not allowed. It is not permissible, because the society in which we live is so interdependent and complicated, that under revolution, or even with the breakdown for a few hours of the highly complicated economic mechanism, millions of people would perish.

• • •

He knows that the theory of over-production is stark nonsense. Certainly there is over-production of certain commodities, simply because the more economic production of other commodities to take their places, or changes in habits of living, or new forms of world organization affecting international markets, drive them into obsolescence. But the frontiers for horizontal expansion, the social and economic frontiers, are not only not yet exhausted, they are not even visible yet to the imaginative eye.

He sees that the work-relief program, which simply shunts off a large part of the population into what threatens to become a permanent substandard class, living in an illusory world on the humanitarian instincts of the rest, is not "progressive," but pure defeatism.

He sees that we are headed for disaster if we continue to put the emphasis on distribution rather than on production, to believe that the cake can constantly be recut to provide enough for all, when the cake is growing steadily smaller. "We are consuming more than we produce"—and we have never in our history produced enough to give everybody in this nation a decent economic existence.

He sees that capital, labor and government, have all been laboring under a common economic fallacy, and that the net effect of all of our policies for years, whether capitalistic, governmental, or trade union policies, has been to freeze production and ownership where they are and steadily to diminish them.

And, oh, how refreshing it is to hear a speech from the non-Marxist left cut itself loose from the social work, settlement house and benevolent feudal landlord mentality that has dominated the New Deal ad nauseam!

But when it comes to practical proposals, the speech is weak and the manifesto even weaker. The one concrete proposal is the nationalization of the banking system. I suppose that is what Governor La Follette means when he puts as the first plank in his platform "the public ownership and control, without qualification or reservation, of the banking system."

I suspect that the Governor has been greatly impressed by what Nazi Germany has done with public credit. I suspect that the Governor figures that if Germany, with no money at all, and with serious shortages of raw materials, can do what she has done in the economic field, by the use of public credit, this country can certainly do it too, and do it very much more impressively, with less danger of inflation. The Governor has certainly studied Fascism and learned something from it, and I suspect that there will soon be a cry that this is a Fascist program. That seems to me, at the moment, a superficial observation. There is nothing exclusively or specifically Fascist about many things that the Fascists have done. The means, tempo, and temper of doing them, the philosophy and purposes that lie behind them, are all part of the total picture of Fascism.

But Germany has been able to do what she has done with nationalized banking largely because Mr. Hitler inherited from his predecessors an old, established, efficient, and incorruptible bureaucracy, comparable to no other in the world, and what would work there certainly wouldn't work in the same way here.

• • •

Governor La Follette has also learned a great deal from the Fascists about psychological appeal. Instead of offering benefits, he makes demands. He promises no individual anything out of this new movement, except hard work. He believes that a good society as well as a successful party is the one that asks most. That is shrewd and it is also sound. Also, instead of appealing to organized groups, he appeals to every one—to the vast and preponderant unorganized—and that is the technique of the modern party.

But the banners, the crusade, the exaggerated emotional appeal and the exaggerated nationalism are all somewhat disturbing. This new party, we are told, is going to be a "religion."

Now, this is the way to create fanatics, but it is not the way to create reasonability, and if the Governor begins mixing up economics and mysticism he may be starting something that will run away with him. Because this is the way that you start an intolerance that ends up in burning the heretics in a fanatical totalitarianism.

And with one statement of the Governor's this column takes exception, and picks it out, because it is so typical a statement of these times. "American freedom," he says, "is based on abundance," and the implication in this whole section of the speech is that unless we are rich we shall cease to be interested in being free.

I recommend him to read again the inscription on the Plymouth Rock monument, or Robinson Jeffers' great poem that contains the words: "Freedom is poor and laborious." Or to consider the fact that freedom still lives most vigorously in some of the world's poorer countries, like Denmark and Norway, which cannot compare their national or individual abundance with the great Empires. And that the poor Vermonter has a great deal more of the spirit of freedom than most rich New Yorkers.

The birthright of freedom is not something to be sold for a mess of potage—no, nor for a mess of caviar.

TRIAL FLIGHT

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.

ROGER BRECKNER — hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.

BERYL MELROSE — wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.

EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

• • •

Yesterday: Roger proposed a trial engagement, merely to satisfy Jackie's mother. And Jackie accepts. But will their plan work so smoothly, she wonders.

CHAPTER IV

Roger's idea went over beautifully. Evelyn was delighted to think her Jacqueline was engaged to be married! "I do think, darling, it's too romantic!" she said, ecstatically.

Jackie denied that there was anything romantic about it. "We simply decided to get engaged," she said. "So now, Mother, you can go ahead and marry Mr. Scott."

"So I can," Evelyn said, but rather off-handedly. She wanted to know when Roger was coming to the house. "There are a great many things to discuss," she added thoughtfully.

Jackie experienced that same strange foreboding once again. She did not see what there was to discuss. If she and Roger were engaged that was all there was to it, wasn't it? Apparently bitter experience had not taught Jackie everything, yet.

Roger was surprised that next morning when Jackie came to see him take off. "Gosh," he said, taking both her hands in his, "to think you'd get up almost at sun-up just to wish me happy-landings! That was pretty swell of you, Jackie."

"It wasn't my idea," Jackie said shortly. She pulled her hands away. Why, Roger was acting as though they were engaged! "Mother insisted I ought to see you off. Not that I don't wish you 'happy-landings,' Roger," she added. She did wish he hadn't been leaving on such a dangerous undertaking. She would be pretty jittery until he got back.

"Thanks," Roger returned, rather shortly, too. "Mighty nice of you to be so concerned." He turned to the mechanic, "Make contact, will you, Jerry? And give her the gun.'

"You will be careful, won't you, Roger?" Jackie had a peculiar empty feeling in the pit of her stomach. Almost as though she were the one who was going to do those test dives.

"Oh, sure, I'll be careful," Roger said carelessly. He adjusted his helmet, buckled on the big, clumsy chute. He was flying an open job.

That empty gnawing in Jackie's stomach persisted. She was glad Roger would have that rip-cord to rely on.

The mechanic had the ship warmed up now. He climbed out and Roger took his place. "Well, so long!" he called, raising a hand in salute.

Jackie ran up beside him, straining on tiptoe. "Happy landings!" she called again. She wanted him to know this time she meant it. She could not imagine why she felt so panicky. She didn't feel any different toward Roger just because they were pretending to be engaged. "Oh, yes!" She clung onto the side of the ship. "I forgot—Mother wants you for dinner the first night you're back."

"For dinner?" Roger leaned over the side. Jackie had never noticed before how blue his eyes were, like the sky on this May morning. He certainly was not had to look at in his pilot's outfit. He was enough to make any girl's pulse quicken.

Maybe that was why Jackie's heart started throbbing so rapidly now. Or maybe it was because his lips—for one brief moment—had been so close to hers.

She jerked herself back sharply, "You'll come, won't you, Roger?"

"Sure, I'll be there. With all my medals." He placed a hand over his heart. "Didn't I promise to stand by no matter what happens!"

Jackie had to step back now. He was ready to take off. In a few minutes he would be only a small dark object high up in the sky, getting smaller and smaller, vanishing completely. She raised her hand in a salute, too, a gesture of farewell and God-speed. She wished he had chosen different words to say in parting; "no matter what happens" had an ominous sound. The sort of journey Roger was headed for might so easily not have that happy landing.

She watched that small dark object as long as her eyes could follow it, then turned away. She felt very much alone and forlorn. She told herself, angrily, that she was behaving like a little fool. Roger was a good pilot. They didn't come any better. He would come back safely—stand by—as he had promised.

• • •

Nevertheless, Jackie searched the evening papers to see if there were any accounts of crack-ups. She heaved a sigh of relief, then a sharp exclamation, as her attention focused on an entirely different item. There, heading the society column, was her own name!

Her mother was serenely sitting before her triple-mirrored dressing table with its confusion of jars and bottles.

"Did you see this?" Jackie demanded, dashing in on her. She held out the paper at arm's length. Her lovely eyes flashed their golden fire; her face was flushed.

Evelyn finished the perfect cupid's bow of her mouth. "What is it, darling?" She saw the paper; her eyes lighted up, too. She stretched out a hand. "Why, how very nice! 'The announcement is made,'" she read aloud, "'of the engagement of Miss Jacqueline Dunn, daughter of the romantic actress, Evelyn La Farge, to Mr. Roger Breckner. I wasn't at all sure they could get it in so soon," she added with something like triumph.

"Do you mean that you put that in the papers?" If Jackie's pretty face had been flushed before, now it was crimson.

"Why, of course, darling."

"But I didn't say you could. You didn't even ask me. . . ."

"It scarcely seemed necessary. After all, an announcement always comes from the mother of the bride-to-be. . . ."

• • •

"But I'm not going to be a bride!"

"Not going . . . Why, my dear child, whatever are you saying!" Evelyn got up to put a cool hand on her daughter's brow, to force her gently to sit down. "Didn't you tell me last night that you and Roger are engaged? Didn't you get up almost before daylight this morning to go see your fiance off—such a pity that the poor dear boy should have to go away practically on the eve of your betrothal. . . ."

"I wish you wouldn't talk that way!" Jackie said. Her face was a thunder-cloud now.

"Of course, darling. . . . Naturally you're upset because Roger had to leave, you're terribly worried about him. . . ."

"I'm not!" Jackie winced at a denial that somehow did not ring true. "You had no right, Mother, to tell the whole world." Jackie had not expected quite such fast developments.

But apparently this was only a beginning. "No right? Why, darling, of course I shall tell everyone that my little girl is going to be married! We must have a big party, and then there will be showers given for you, and we must start shopping right away for your trousseau. . . . Jackie, what's wrong? Where are you going, darling?"

But Jackie did not hear this last for she had taken flight from her mother's plans, which were indeed working out much too fast to suit her.

SCOUT PROGRAM GETS RESULTS

Child Delinquency Is Reduced, Citizenship Improved

That the Boy Scout movement in Manistique, as in hundreds of other communities of the United States, is reaping big profits by providing better citizenship and reducing child delinquency is the unqualified opinion of hundreds of local residents, manistique scout leaders have reported.

Although the Scout movement was reorganized here only one year ago, considerable progress has already been made, with 150 boys embraced in the program.

In addition to the Boy Scout Troops, which embrace 12 years of age and over, Cub Packs have been organized here, which provide a well rounded boys program for lads 9, 10 and 11 years of age. The program for these boys is under parent leadership, and the Cubs receive monthly inspections for rating in the various phases of their program, just as do their older brothers who are in Scout troops.

Next Monday, a one day campaign to solicit funds for the promotion of the Scouting program here for the ensuing year will be conducted in Manistique. A goal of $1,000 has been fixed, of which $750 will be used as Manistique's part of the expense of maintaining the newly organized Red Buck Council. The remainder will be used to carry on local projects.

The total forest area of North America is almost 1,500,000,000 acres.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys—How To Get Happy Relief
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 5 (AP)—The stock market lost its rallying urge today to close moderately irregular.

The list dipped at the opening but braced itself in the second hour when utilities developed strong support. Aircrafts and specialties swung upward and it looked for a time as though Wednesday's advance would be extended substantially.

Selling in steels at the last put recovery proponents on the defensive and even utilities and aviations backed away from best levels. Rails, on the whole, held better than even.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 39.1. Transfers expanded to 687,220 shares, due to the relatively fast morning push. The aggregate, even though under the mark at which most commission houses can show a profit, was the largest since April 22.

The power and light company stocks apparently were motivated largely by rumors the administration was getting ready to make some sort of a conciliatory proposal to these concerns.

Steels were handicapped by talk of lower prices for third quarter deliveries, although observers in this field were far from being in accord on this question.

Traders were given a pleasant surprise after the close when Chrysler directors disclosed a profit of 48 cents a share in the first quarter and voted a dividend of 50 cents a share on the common. No payment was made in the initial quarter. In the same 1937 period the corporation earned $2.51 a share. Guesses on the 1938 first quarter operations generally were for a deficit ranging from 50 cents to more than $1 a share, and few expected declaration of a dividend. The stock finished with a loss of 5-8 of a point at 41 3-8. General Motors was unchanged at 30 5-8. After the New York close, Chrysler was lifted sharply on the San Francisco exchange.

Carrier and utility bonds displayed strength. Aiding the loans department were further signs of a break in the new financing dam. Following U. S. Steel's announcement of a $100,000,000 debenture offering for June, Commonwealth Edison, important mid-west utility, revealed it would soon register for the issuance of bonds and debentures probably involving more than $70,000,000.

Most commodities were unable to get ahead. Wheat at Chicago was down ¾ to 7-8 of a cent a bushel and corn was unchanged to up 3-8. Cotton yielded 25 to 40 cents a bale.

Support Gives Curb Some Modest Gains

New York, May 5 (AP)—The curb market attracted enough support for a modest advance today.

After a hesitant start utilities and industrial specialties moved ahead for gains ranging from fractions to around 4 points. Extreme gains were shaded by late profit selling.

Cities Service "NW" closed ½ higher at 9½; American Gas & Electric up ¼ at 27; American Light & Traction up ¼ at 12 5-8; Northern States Power "A" up 5-8 at 10½.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass finished at 74, up 3; Sherwin Williams 83 3-8, up 7-8; Pan American Airways 14⅞, up 5-8; Newmont 54 3-8, up 2 7-8, and McWilliams Dredging 9 5-8, up ¼.

Aluminum Co. of America dropped 1½ to 77½.

Fear Train Change

Ishpeming.—Officers of the Ishpeming Industrial association will send a letter to the Chicago and North Western railway endorsing and supplementing the action taken Tuesday by the Town club, which voted to contact the railway concerning reports of a possible change in sleeper service here and at the same time giving assurance of cooperating in patronizing the road.

A spokesman for the association said: "I believe heartily in the soundness of the action taken by the Town club. All matters of community service are two-way propositions. You can't expect a business, railway or any other, to go out of its way to assist a community when residents of that place are going out of their way to patronize a competitor.

"And that, of course, is exactly what has happened in Ishpeming for several months."

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
Chicago, May 5 (AP)—The fed steer and yearling market strengthened today when the run dwindled to starvation proportions. The killing condition, however, was better and the general opinion was that any improvement today was not a reflection of the undertone to the trade. Hogs and lambs sold weak to lower on moderately increased supplies.

Hogs 18,000, including 8,500 directs; slow, steady to 10 lower than Wednesday's average, closed at full decline; top 8.25; good and choice 170 to 260 lbs., 7.90 to 8.20; 270 to 300 lbs., 7.80 to 8.00; 310 to 360 lbs., 7.60 to 7.90; most good packing sows, 7.00 to 7.25; smooth butcher kinds to 7.40; big weights under 7.00; shippers took 800; estimated holdover 2,000.

Cattle 3,500, calves 1,500, fed steers and yearlings active and strong but killing condition improved; best steers available 9.60, average 1,256 lbs.; light yearlings up to 9.00; bulk of steer and yearling crop 7.75 to 8.75; she stock scarce and steady to strong; mixed steer and heifer yearlings 8.85; several loads heifers 8.00 to 8.50; bulls strong to 15 higher and weighty vealers steady; light kinds 25 lower; weighty sausage bulls frequently up to 6.90; choice weighty vealers 9.00 to 9.50; light kinds 8.00 down.

Sheep 9,000, including 1,500 direct; fat lambs weak to 15 lower; wooled lambs 8.25 to 8.75; bulk to packers around 8.50; top clipped lambs 8.15 on outstanding 90 lb. weights; medium to choice offerings mostly 6.75 to 7.90, sheep steady; native ewes 4.50 to 4.75; good wooled ewes 5.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, May 5 (AP)—Tumbles of virtually 3 cents a bushel at Winnipeg made Chicago wheat prices average lower today despite transient fractional gains.

Heavy liquidating sales by holders of Winnipeg May contracts were associated with dearth of North American export business, together with persistent downturns of Liverpool quotations. Cables said timely rains had halted Italy's threatened crop disaster, and that Australian arrivals bulked large in Europe.

Much talk was heard that the 1938 Canadian crop had been assured an excellent start, and that to tender new crop United States wheat on the Liverpool July option without loss the offer would have to be at 90 cents, as against present cost of about 98 cents.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ¼ to 7-8 down compared with yesterday's finish, May 79 7-8 to 80, July 78 3-8 to 78½, corn unchanged to 3-8 higher, May 57½, July 58 3-4 to 58 7-8, oats showing 1-8 to 3-8 decline, rye varying from 3-8 off to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to 40 cents setback.

Contributing to price downturns here were suggestions that sharply lower temperatures tonight southwest and west with possible frost would end rust menace to crops, temporarily at least. At first, however, drenching rains in Kansas last night were reported as likely to increase rust hazard. Considerable buying of new crop futures here resulted in short-lived gains.

Chicago May contracts led price declines here, and fell to 79 5-8 cents, off 1 1-8 cents overnight, but at 79 7-8 to 80.

Corn displayed firmness throughout the day owing to curtailment of rural offerings. Chicago arrivals, however, continued liberal, 521 cars today. Export takings totalled 400,000 bushels. Estimated Argentine clearances this week, 1,181,000 bushels, were the largest this season. Rye and oats mostly followed wheat.

Warehouse interests were sellers of provisions.

New York, May 5 (AP)—Bonds helped to brighten the Wall Street investment sector today by scoring gains on a wide front.

The market topped its previous efforts in the May uphill push which got under way at the start of the week. Rails, out of the running for a long time, came back as leaders with final gains running to around 2 points in some of the secondary ratings.

Utility loans were almost equally impressive, showing many advances of a point or more under buying which trading circles credited to recently appearing signs of more harmonious relations between the federal government and the privately owned power companies.

The better demand for rails was attributed to the further steps taken by Washington authorities to make available to some of the carriers funds for new equipment and other purposes.

Trading continued at a moderate pace, although total volume of $5,256,400 was somewhat ahead of recent sessions. It compared with $4,921,025 yesterday.

U. S. governments, which had guided the market into higher ground since President Roosevelt announced the government's credit expansion policies around mid-April, were somewhat reactionary, with a majority of losses ranging from 1-32 to 12-32 of a point.

Japanese government obligations were soft. In most leading foreign groups fractional gains predominated.

EIGHTH INNING NETS 12 RUNS

Four Pitchers Blasted; Chicago Rookie Gives Only Six Hits

Chicago, May 5 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs presented rookie Paul Epperly with 12 runs in the eighth inning today, but the 20 year old pitcher up from Moline of the Three Eye League did not need them to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 21 to 2, in his major league debut.

Epperly held the Phils to six hits while Rip Collins and Augie Galan blasted out the Cubs' 19 th and 20th home runs as part of the 16 hit assault on Wayne LaMaster, Tommy Reis, Pete Sivess and Harold Kelleher. LaMaster was charged with the defeat although he pitched but three balls and a strike to the first batter, Stan Hack, before retiring with a strained arm.

The Cubs' 12 runs in one inning bettered the season's previous major league high of 10 established by Cleveland against Detroit Monday and was within two of the modern record held jointly by the Cubs and the New York Yankees. The Cubs made 10 hits in the single frame.

Washington, May 5 (AP)—Johnny Stone banged out a home run with the bases loaded today as the Senators beat the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 6.

The victory gave Washington the series, two games to one.

Zeke Bonura got three of the Senators' blows, and rookie George Case whacked out a couple.

Unable to score during the first five innings, Cleveland got three runs in the sixth, another in the eighth and two in the ninth. The tying runs were on base when Ken Keltner was called out on strikes to end the game.

Hail The Chief!

Stagehand Withdrawn From Kentucky Derby

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

Louisville, Ky., May 5. (AP)—A bomb exploded unexpectedly in the midst of Kentucky Derby preparations today, left America's most famous horse race practically certain to be without its favorite, Stagehand, and threw the $50,000 classic wider open than ever.

The Earl Sande-trained Cinderella horse, 5 to 2 choice to win Saturday at Churchill Downs as the result of his triumph over Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita handicap last March, was withdrawn when he developed a high temperature from a sore throat.

The fever reached as high as 104.2 degrees last night. When it failed to drop below 101 this morning, owner Maxwell Howard of Dayton, Ohio, announced his ace would not parade to the post and that he would rest his hopes on The Chief, conqueror of Stagehand and Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin Tuesday in the trial stakes. The ailment is similar to that which has kept many two-year-olds out of competition at the Downs this year.

Sande said late today Stagehand's fever had gone down and there was an indication that he would be formally entered for the derby when the books are opened tomorrow, by this the colt would be eligible in case Howard believed him fit to run by Saturday. He was regarded as a doubtful starter despite this.

Sande said the "Colt was normal again but added "the only condition under which we will enter him will be that he is kicking the stalls down (meaning full of life and activity) but I don't think he will be. I'm not going to take any chance with the horse."

Sande himself was reluctant to admit that his string of luck had been broken with the horse that won five straight races on the west coast, whipping Seabiscuit by a nose in the rich Santa Anita handicap after failing to win a race last year. He clung to the hope that a miracle might occur but it was just hope

"While Stagehand's condition is not serious, I do not believe in taking chances with such a good horse," said The Earl as he walked up and down the barn with only a trace of his familiar smile. "Even if he shows improvement within the next two or three days, it will still mean I could not start him even in the Preakness, May 14, as it will be at least ten days or two weeks before he can be returned to hard training."

Stagehand's withdrawal was the derby's most severe blow since Equipoise, also the future book favorite, pulled up lame on the eve of the 1931 renewal. Stagehand, trained by one of the turf's most popular horsemen, had caught the fancy of the public as few horses have in recent years. Sande himself had handpicked the colt of J. E. Widener's stable as a two-year-old, paying $8,000 for him chiefly because he was a full brother of Sceneshifter, another Howard star.

The son of Sickle was not much as a juvenile, placing second once and third twice in eight races. He developed into a full fledged star at Santa Anita, however, climaxing his California campaign by winning the $50,000 Santa Anita derby and $100,000 handicap within a space of ten days.

The withdrawal reduced the probable starting field to ten, the smallest since ten faced the barrier in 1922, swept William Woodward's Fighting Fox into the favorite's position and rallied support for Warren Wright's Bull Lea, Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin and Hal Price Headley's Menow. Although The Chief equalled the track record for a mile in the derby trial, he is considered no such formidable contender as was Stagehand.

Bartenders Toss Balls Instead Of Drinks; Lose 12-11

Bats and balls flew through the air with greatest of abandon last night in the grudge game between the state liquor commission employes and the Escanaba bartenders, played in back of the brewery diamond. A final checkup of the score showed the liquor commission ahead by a margin of 12 to 11.

Several errors in judgment cost the bartenders the game. Pat Foye didn't have his glasses (spectacles) and couldn't hit the ball, but he hit the catcher instead. A flighty bat, slipping out of Pat's hands, described a parabola, caromed off Mike Greis, and bopped a player on the snoozle. Then again, with the bases full in the ninth, Greis was up to bat, but couldn't be found. He thought the game was over and held down half of an automobile seat instead of the home plate.

One of the bartender stars, known as the "white father of the Sherman hotel," cut across from first base to third to simplify his base-running, but neglected to touch third, and the score wasn't counted.

Mike Walch, veteran ump, officiated at the regatta, and did a faultless job, considering the complicated plays attempted.

Councilman R. B. Stack, former star pitcher, threw the first ball to start the game. It was estimated that 3,000 people watched the evening battle.

White Sox Hammer Out 10-4 Victory Over Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 5 (AP)—Frank Gabler, former National league hurler, made a successful debut in the American league ranks today with a seven-hit mound performance as the Chicago White Sox hammered three Philadelphia Athletics pitchers for 17 hits and a 10 to 4 victory.

Boze Berger hit the first pitch of the game for a home run and added three more safeties to pace the winners' attack. Gee Walker hit one into the left field stands with Berger and Steinbacher on base in the third to tie the score at 4 to 4.

The White Sox added two more runs after Walker's homer in the third to clinch the victory.

Score by innings:
Chicago .... 105 011 200—10 17 1

RUDY YORK HAS TWO HOMERUNS

Fistfight in Fifth Sends Tebbetts to Showers; Sox Lose, 7 to 5

Boston, May 5 (AP)—Detroit's big siege guns—Rudy York and Hank Greenberg—slugged the Tigers to a 7 to 5 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the series finale here today, Rudy slamming out two home runs and Hank one.

Some other slugging—by Catcher George Tebbetts of Detroit and Right Fielder Ben Chapman of Boston, using fists instead of bats, —brought their banishment from the game in the fifth and broke up a Boston rally.

Vernon Kennedy, the former Chicago White Sox hurler, got credit for winning his third game for Detroit, although Slicker Coffman was called to quell a Red Sox uprising in the last of the ninth.

Schoolboy May Pitch

The victory gave the Tigers their first series of an eastern tour, two games to one. They invade New York tomorrow with Schoolboy Rowe or Elden Auker slated to face the Yankees.

York, starting the game at left field, was hitless until after the fight that sent Tebbets to the showers and brought the big Cherokee back to his catching pads. Then he made up for lost time by duplicating Greenberg's home run in the sixth inning, and blasting another in the eighth, this time scoring Greenberg who had singled. York's second homer broke a 4-4 tie and scored what proved to be the winning run.

Fred Ostermueller, who started on the mound for Boston, was the victim of the sixth-inning homers. York's second was hit off Archie McKain. Greenberg's homer was his fifth of the season; York's two brought his total to three.

The Red Sox seemed well on the way toward breaking up the ball game when the Tebbetts-Chapman fistic encounter occurred. The Tigers had taken a one-run lead on Don Ross' single, Willie Rogell's double and Kennedy's infield out.

The fireworks started in the Boston fifth. Five men in succession hit safely. Roger Cramer opened the inning with a triple. Joe Vosmik scratched a single to Ross, Cramer holding third, and both runners scored when Jimmie Foxx hit his fourth home run of the year. Joe Cronin doubled to left and Higgins singled to right. Cronin scored on a wild pitch.

Then Chapman came to bat. Kennedy struck him out, and Chapman argued a strike decision with Plate Umpire Rue, Tebbetts also getting into the dispute. A few insults were tossed as Chapman left the plate, and he and Tebbetts met swinging. Other players separated the fighters, who were escorted to the clubhouse.

The fight apparently settled Kennedy's pitching. Two flies by the next batters accounted for the second and third outs of the inning, and then the Tigers started to get back into the game.

The two sixth inning homers cut Boston's lead to a single run, and Kennedy batted in the tying run in the seventh, scoring Cullenbine who had walked and gone to second on Rogell's sacrifice.

Coffman Halts Rally

York's second circuit clout put Detroit in the lead and they scored another in the ninth off Relief Hurler Charles Wagner, filling the bases with one out on two singles and a walk. Rogell scored the seventh Detroit run as Charley Gehringer, who went hitless in five times at the plate today, hit into a force play.

Cronin walked to start the Red Sox ninth, and when Higgins singled Cochrane sent Coffman to replace Kennedy. Cronin scored from third after Nonnenkamp's long fly, but then the Slicker ended matters by fanning Pinch Batters Fabian Gaffke and John Marcum.

Old Diz Tames Down, Nurses $185,000 Arm

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, May 5. (AP)—Baseball's one and only Dizzy Dean worked out like a lowly rookie today—with his $185,000 arm just so much excess baggage.

The famed pitcher, for whom the Chicago Cubs turned over that much cash and three players less than three weeks ago to the St. Louis Cardinals, began the campaign he hopes will eliminate the arm soreness which threatens to knock a big hole in the Cub pennant chances.

Ole Diz, whose high-priced arm was X-rayed yesterday and found to be handicapped by an inflammation of a shoulder muscle, was not the loquacious Dean of old as he jogged around the lonely outfield expanse of windswept Wrigley Field, with three young sandlot hopefuls for company. He wasn't popping off. He said he wasn't discouraged, but made it plain he was serious about making good—within 30 days—on a comeback to former greatness.

"Maybe its the best thing after all that they found out something was definitely wrong with my arm," he said, sniffling a little with a cold. "I suspected things weren't right several days ago and I know I haven't been in good physical shape this year, mainly because I was sick during the first weeks of training. I weigh 193 pounds now and my best pitching weight is 185. When I get down to that and my arm gets rested, I'm sure I'll be all right again."

Manager Charlie Grimm ordered Dean to take daily running drills to increase his endurance powers, obviously at low ebb in Dean's four appearances on the hill as a Cub, even though he is credited with three victories and no defeats. He finished only one nine inning stretch and complained of "being tired" against Philadelphia Tuesday.

Dean threw no balls today and he won't use his arm for another two weeks. Then, for another fortnight, he will gradually limber up the "whip" which once blazed them past batsmen in a manner which gained Diz recognition as one of the greatest moundsmen of the modern baseball era.

Manager Grimm and Dean's teammates readily voice confidence that Dean, by June 4, will be ready for his regular turn on the hill and a chance to win what Diz maintains will count up to 20 victories for the season. Last year Tex Carleton suffered arm soreness and had his arm in a cast for a month. When he returned to duty he became the best Cub pitcher, and the Cubs now, with fingers crossed, are hoping Dean's case will turn out as well.

TERRY'S GIANTS GIVEN SETBACK

Cincinnati Reds Take 5-2 Decision, Grab Series 2 to 1

Cincinnati, May 5 (AP)—The rude Reds took a 5 to 2 decision from Terry's New York Giants today and thereby handed the National league champions their first series setback of the year. Today's win gave the Reds the set, two games to one.

Mel Ott's wild peg past first in a tight spot in the eighth inning let the Giants' defenses down enough to permit the Reds to shove three runs across, break a tie, and give Jim Weaver and Ray Benge the decision over Harry Gumbert, who went the route for Terry's Terriers.

The hero was Benge who was summoned in the eighth when Weaver found himself on a spot with Giants on every base and two balls and no strikes on Lou Chiozza at the plate. Benge took over and fanned Lou to stop the Giants' last threat.

League Entries Must Be Filed By Thursday Night

All teams planning to enter the senior softball league must file an official entry with the city recreation department on or before 9:00 p. m. Thursday, May 12. League play will start Monday, May 16.

All indications point to the biggest softball season since 1934. Nearly all of last year's teams are entering again this year and many new teams have been organized and will enter by the deadline date. Among the new teams are the State Highway, Carlson's, Indians, Delta Hardware, Forest Service, Columbian Squires, Fair Store, Gambles, Coca Colas, and one or two other teams who have not selected a name. If all teams enter that have planned to do so, there will be approximately twenty teams in the senior league alone.

Veteran And Rookie Both Alike To Bees

St. Louis, May 5. (AP) — The Boston Bees swarmed on rookie Max Macon and veteran Guy Bush for nine hits, one a homer, in the fifth and sixth innings today to take the final game of their first series of the season with the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 2.

The game started as a pitcher's battle between the young Macon and 32-year-old Milburn Shoffner. The first four innings were scoreless and hits were few.

Then in the fifth four hits and a walk gave the Bees three runs. The spree was climaxed by Cooney's double.

EBEN TO ENTER MEET AT ROCK

Defending Champions In Class C to Open Track Season

Chatham, May 4—In an effort to fill many vacancies in the 1937 upper peninsula Class C and Alger county track and field championship team, resulting from graduation, transfers and accidents, Coach MacNeil has been drilling his Eben high school athletes hard in preparation for their first meet.

With strong competition on tap from Trenary, Munising and Grand Marais in the Alger county meet and from all Class C teams in other meets, the boys are working faithfully in the hope of attaining laurels won last year.

At Rock Saturday

Eben will compete at Rock Saturday and on May 14 the boys travel to Negaunee for the district meet. The Alger county track and field meet will be held May 18, and the upper peninsula regional is scheduled for Houghton, May 21. Topping things off, the Eben track and field men will enter the Northern relays at Marquette May 25 and the Escanaba relays on Memorial Day.

The high school girls' track and field team is improving rapidly. On Friday, May 6, entries in the junior girls' and boys' teams will be settled when the Rock River township meet is held at Chatham. Coach MacNeil is taking the following junior high relay team to Rock Saturday: Walfred Haqqola, Oliver Salmi, Howard Ylinen, Arnold Kallio, Leslie Ross and William Carlson.

The relay team will compete in the special invitational 440-yard relay for junior high schools.

Only Dual Track Meet of Season Will Be Held Saturday

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 5.—(Special)—Michigan's Conference championship track team, undefeated this year, will make its only home appearance of the outdoor season here Saturday in a dual meet with Illinois.

The Illini are expected to offer slight opposition to Michigan's team power and balance but close competition in all events is predicted on the basis of past performances.

Illinois strength is expected to assert itself in the sprints, hurdles, high jump, shot, discus and relay.

In the sprints Bill Lehmann, Bob Ashley and Nugent (Shotgun) Wedding will be favored over Michigan's entries, Bill Watson, who runs the hundred for the first time, Carl and Fred Culver, Norm Purucker and Jim Rae. In the hurdles the Illini have Jack Robinson, former Conference indoor high barriers champion and Dick Brunton, who was fourth outdoors. They will face Elmer Gedeon as favorite, however, despite the fact Gedeon has been concentrating on baseball during the spring.

In the high jump Bob Diefenthaler, who was third in the Big Ten outdoor meet and who has shot for 6 feet 8 inches in the winter, will meet Michigan's sophomore ace, Wes Allen, who is consistent around 6 feet 4 inches. George Gragg, with throws of better than 48 feet, will be the Illini hope in the shot against Bill Watson and in the discus Dean Frary, Drake Relays champion, will attempt to take the measure of Watson and John Townsend.

Best race of the meet is predicted in the mile relay. The Illini, at the Drake Relays last week ran the distance in 3:19 while Michigan, at the Penn Relays, was finishing fifth in 3:20.

Slugging Yankees Take Browns, 12-10

New York, May 5 (AP)—The Yankees wheeled their seige guns into line today and exploded 16 hits for 29 bases and a 12 to 10 victory over the St. Louis Browns, to sweep the current three-game series.

Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich each hit his third homer of the season. DiMaggio also collected a triple and a single and drove in four runs. Billy Knickerbocker connected for a triple, double and single off his old mates and batted three runs across.

GORDON MIGHT JOIN CHICAGO

Packer Tackle Prefers To Remain Home Next Season

Green Bay, Wis., May 5—There is a possibility that Lou Gordon, veteran Packer tackle, may sport the uniform of the Chicago Bears this fall.

Gordon, who is a resident of the Windy City, prefers to stay at home as he is dabbling in politics, teaching in a high school and doing a lot of wrestling officiating in the Illinois metropolis.

Big Lou figures that in his spare moments he could play some football for the Bears as they will be at home a considerable part of the schedule.

Big Sixth Inning Wins For Pirates

Pittsburgh, May 5 (AP)—The Pirates came to life in a big sixth inning today, shoved over three runs on four hits, and whipped the rooklyn Dodgers 4 to 2 behind Red Lucas' five-hit pitching.

Except for that frame, old Waite Hoyt held his former mates in check. They made only three hits outside of that one inning. Going into the last of the sixth, he held a 2-1 edge on the strength of Dolph Camilli's homer with a mate aboard in the first half of the frame.

NEW BUDGET IS GIVEN HEARING

Diversified Program Is Considered By Councilmen

Such widely diversified items as a current budget, state sales tax, bank night, Chamber of Commerce and the city band occupied the minds of members of the city council at their regular meeting last night.

Copies of the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 were distributed but discussion was held on only one item—the city band appropriation. Frank Karas, band director, explained to the council that the band members felt they should be given an increase in their budget allowance to compensate for the additional concerts they will be required to play this year. He pointed out that none of the band members actually made any money last year, all purchasing their uniforms with the money they received for playing. Karas said most of the band members have opportunities to play in orchestras on Fourth of July, Labor Day and other special holidays and, unless the financial inducement for playing in the band was sufficient, most of them would not be available on those days, when they are needed for local celebrations. Members of the council expressed sympathy with Karas' opinions but said, in view of the present unfavorable economic conditions, they did not feel that the allowance could be increased.

Mrs. Matt Decker carried on her campaign on the sales tax issue, claiming that many Escanaba merchants are charging one cent tax on 15c purchases. She contended that that is contrary to the state law and presented a letter from the attorney general, which, she said, expressed the illegality of the procedure. Upon reading by the city manager, however, it developed that the state law does not prohibit merchants from charging any set tax as long as the total tax collected does not exceed the amount which the firm pays the state. The law specifies that merchants may add to the sale price an amount not to exceed three per cent. The ruling expressed in the attorney general's opinion to Mrs. Decker was to the effect that the printing of placards proclaiming any rate as being set by the state was illegal. Mrs. Decker was informed that, if she doubts some local merchants are operating within the law, she has only to call in a state inspector, who will check sales against the tax returns filed by that firm.

The city manager presented a letter requesting that the council outlaw the bank night in the local theatre. Councilman Carl B. Johnson said:

"Yes, sometime ago, we did away with slot machines but we left the biggest gambling affair in the city when we failed to get rid of the bank night."

Richter Approves

The former mayor declared that the city ought to put a stop to bank night, pointing out that too many people, who cannot afford it, are foolishly spending their money weekly on bank night simply because they are afraid not to patronize the theatre for fear of having their name called. Councilman Carl Richter, on the other hand, said people should be allowed to spend their money as they wish and it was no concern of the council's how they spend it. Johnson then declared that the council should be consistent, saying that the same problem was involved when they outlawed slot machines. After several expressions on the subject from the audience, the council agreed to request a ruling from the attorney general on the legality of bank night.

The council was definitely divided on the subject of a budget appropriation of $500 for the Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Peter Logan suggested that the fund be turned into the contingency and made payable only upon approval by the council. Councilmen R. B. Stack and Harold Gasman protested, pointing to the good work being done by the chamber of commerce, and saying that the $500 is well spent. Richter entered the argument, hotly proclaiming that 65 per cent of the city taxes are paid by the working class, which, he said, are opposed to such payment to the Chamber of Commerce. Johnson closed the argument by saying that, although he entertained ideas as to waste in certain phases of the Chamber of Commerce, he heartily approved of the allotment because, he said, the Chamber of Commerce assumes a great deal of work which the city would be required to handle were the former body not in existence. He told of the large amount of his work as former mayor being taken care of by the Chamber of Commerce.

The city manager was instructed to investigate the possibility of constructing a power line for several customers at Ford River with old copper line and by having the customers supply and erect the necessary poles.

The manager was authorized to install water meters in homes in the city which now are paying a flat rate.

A petition for construction of sanitary sewers in the 1400 block of North 21, 22 and 23 streets was denied because of lack of sufficient signatures and prohibitive cost of constructing a pumping station.

Feels One Hundred Per Cent Better Since The KruGon

Gas, Bloating, Indigestion Now In The Past; Rheumatism Wonderfully Relieved; Feels Like a Different Man

"KruGon worked wonders in my case for it accomplished what all others had made me believe impossible," said Mr. Nestor Make, Route No. 1, Box 396, Ironwood, Michigan. "For the past three years I have been a victim of severe stomach trouble. Indigestion, gas and bloating followed each meal I ate and the discomfort I endured from this condition was indescribable. My bowels were so irregular that my entire system had become filled with poisons. Rheumatism attacked me and settled in my back causing such pain that at times I thought I could surely never stand it any longer. I tried everything I came in contact with, hoping I would eventually find some means of relief but met only with failure until I was finally persuaded to give this new KruGon a trial."

MR. NESTOR MAKE

"Kru Gon gave me results even greater than I dared hope for," continued Mr. Make. "After taking just one box I felt like a different person. My stomach and bowels have been regulated, those terrible gas pains are greatly relieved and rheumatism is being driven from my system. I feel 100 per cent better in every way, gaining in strength and energy and cannot find words strong enough to praise KruGon as it deserves."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

Half Of Northern Michigan Will Be Recreation Areas

Lansing, May 4 (AP)—Expecting to double its land holdings upon completion of the state tax sale, the conservation department today pondered the statement of P. J. Hoffmaster, its director, that reversion of private lands to the state may some day bring 50 per cent of land north of the Bay City-Muskegon line into public recreational areas.

The conservation department will receive all tax delinquent land unsold in the tax sale yesterday if after 18 months it is not redeemed by the delinquent owner. The state may not take full possession, however, for another two years.

Taking estimates that between 3,000,000 and 8,000,000 acres of land will revert to the conservation department, Hoffmaster pointed out that this would at least double the 3,500,000 acres the department now administers. The Federal park service operates over a total area of 500,000 acres, 30 per cent of which it owns.

Hoffmaster said that large plots of land—of 10,000 acres or more—received by the department would be turned into state parks even though the property is not all in one solid piece. Small plots will be placed on the market, he said.

Hoffmaster indicated the department would probably continue its policy of trading good parcels of land for lots to swell existing parks and forests or to obtain water frontage for inland sections which might make other public parks.

He contradicted those who are dubious about the extensive reversion of land to the state, declaring that Michigan has plenty of good farm land at present and the state will benefit from turning the northern lands back to their natural state for recreational purposes.

"Michigan has sufferred little from erosion because of its trees and it has some of the finest streams in the world for the same reason. From a recreational standpoint—and the people of Michiagn have found that means a sizeable revenue—the state is far better off than if its lands were all in agricultural production," Hoffmaster said.

Hoffmaster envisioned the day when possibly 50 per cent of Northern Michigan would be in hunting and fishing areas, park lands and public forests.

Scientific research, especially in the field of Chemurgy, the director said, has indicated that the state's development of timber land is following the trend of industry and may become a resource valuable in more ways than the purely recreational.

PATROL BOAT LEAVES DIS'T

Conservation Department Ship Taken to St. Joseph

Conservation Officer Dick Lahti left yesterday morning on the conservation department's local patrol boat for St. Joseph where the vessel has been transferred for use by Officer Fay Warner of Stevensville.

The patrol boat has been used to patrol Green bay waters from Delta county to the state line at Wisconsin for about ten years and last year was operated by Officers Lahti and Ervin Belfy. The latter was transferred for duty at Traverse City several weeks ago on the department's large boat, which patrols most of the territory around the state. Lahti, it is understood, will remain in the local district after he returns from St. Joseph.

Patrolling of commercial fishermen in local waters this year will be done by the department's boat No. 1, under command of Capt. C. J. Allers, and by a speed boat stationed at the local headquarters.

Lahti was accompanied to St. Joseph on the boat by Fire Warden Putvin of Garden.
